Laval, Man of Power.
What One Plane Could Do.
Japan's Hand to the Plow.
Irish Paternalism.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

PIERRE LAVAL, Prime Minister of France, is here. Read everything he says for publication, although his most important sayings will be uttered privately.

Arriving in New York, seeing big buildings in the biggest city for the first time, he is "struck with admiration" and admires the "disciplined freedom of New York's inhabitants."

There is also some UNDISCIPLINED freedom there among racketeers, gangsters, politicians, bribe takers and givers, etc., but he may leave without learning about that.

When he returns to Paris, and tells what he saw, some Frenchmen may be inclined to take the United States more seriously than they do now, more seriously, for instance, than the French "Nationalists," who tell Premier Laval:

"Reject all proposals of Hoover, and make your own demands."

That idea seems fair, provided "Hoover" is permitted to adopt the same methods.

POWERFUL IS Prime Minister Laval, most powerful Frenchman since Bonaparte. And France is more powerful than she has been in the last 120 years.

Ferdinand Touhy reminds you that Laval comes from the rugged Auvergne Mountains and from poverty, and deserves his success.

"There's someone to model yourself on."

THAT "BOY peddler of the Auvergne" will talk with President Hoover "as an equal," to put it mildly, having for background $2,500,000,000 in gold, the most powerful standing army in the world, the biggest fleet of fighting airships, a united prosperous nation in which unemployment has been unknown, a land in which the farmer gets $1.50 for his wheat, and the worker buys bread for less than you can buy it in the United States.

We can learn a great deal from Monsieur Laval, and his country.

GEN. PERSHING, who protests against reducing the Army, thinks that 500,000 trained men, ready for service in 1917, would have kept us out of the great war. He is mistaken about that. Europe would have been all the more anxious to get us in, and Europe TOOK US IN.

Gen. Pershing adds:

THIS IS TRUE, but one single airplane carrying two men and explosive bombs, WOULD EMPTY YALE'S STADIUM IN ABOUT A MINUTE if the people could get out so rapidly.

And one airplane, equipped with modern poison gas, could destroy the lives of as many as could enter the Yale stadium.

THIS COUNTRY needs submarines out of sight to destroy ships of any nations attacking us, and in the air a fighting fleet, greater by at least 100 per cent than that of any other nation, to remind the world that to attack us would mean subsequent destruction.

THE JAPANESE do not profess our religion, or read our Bible, to any great extent. But when they put their hand to the plow they go ahead in a straight line, not turning back to see if anybody is making faces at them.

The League of Nations, the United States joining in, says to Japan:

"Please get out of Manchuria, and stay out. Leave those Chinese alone. Hurry."

Japan, always polite, says:

"Yes, certainly."

"Yes" costs nothing.

But today you read of airplanes from Tokio again bombing Chinese in Manchuria. Some bombs fell near a railroad bridge, others are said to have struck some cities.

JAPAN SAYS that the Chinese troops fired at her fliers.

FRANK CARIDEO

Carideo Here, Likes Pitt Chances

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

Frank Carideo, magnetic youth of Italian parentage, whose lustre shone bright in the football firmament during the past two years of Notre Dame's undisputed football supremacy, expects the Pitt Panther to be a very troublesome threat when he prowls against the great Hoosier outfit at South Bend tomorrow.

In Pittsburgh today as assistant coach of Purdue's fine football squad, Carideo's eyes almost snapped and he took on a serious look when he dealt upon the impending fight between Pitt and his alma mater. He said:

"It ought to be a great battle. Personally, I feel the clubs are evenly matched and I will be somewhat surprised if there is a margin of more than one or two touchdowns when the contest is finished.

LAUDS PITT TEAM

"The Pitt team is one of the best. It was a good club last season when Notre Dame defeated it. I am convinced that

JUDGE MACFARLANE RAPS VOTE FRAUD COMPLAINANTS

Developments in Allegheny County's courts today, as the fight to cleanse elections of fraud and theft went ahead, were these:

1—President Judge Macfarlane bitterly criticized an attorney representing the Independent Republican Party of Wilmerding for his part in bringing before the court charge that 259 "phantom voters" are on the voting lists of the Fourth District of Wilmerding.

2—New leads as to who procured bogus tax receipts for "phantom voters" in certain city wards were uncovered by the district attorney's office, Summoning of P. J. O'Malley, Second Ward Republican leader, and Howard W. Neely, Fourth Ward leader, before the grand jury investigation the vote frauds was delayed.

The hearing of a petition by the Independent voters of Wilmerding to have the voting list of the Fofourth District of the borough purged of 295 alleged illegal lames came to a temporary end late today with Judge James R. Macfarlane continuing his berating of Attorney Mayer Sniderman, representing the plaintiff.

Macfarlane, from the time the hearing opened until it closed, made frequent and bitter criticism of the petition, which charged Joseph Capo, register-assessor of the district, with placing the names on the list illegally.

An amended petition will be filed before Macfarlane Monday. It will change on technical points, the plea for purging the list and the charges against Capo remaining as in the original.

About 35 witnesses appeared and testified that, although their names were on the list of the 259 "phantoms," they were qualified voters. One of the 35 was Peter Teck, of 403 Lavine street, whom the petition had listed as dead although registered for voting.

At the end of today's session, Judge Macfarlane said:

"This petition is based on fiction. The burden is still upon the petitioner. He has made

ALL EMPLOYES OFF 1931 PAYROLL FOR 2-WEEK TERMS

Six thousand city employes will take two weeks off without pay, one week in November, the other in December, to forestall deficits in this year's appropriations.

This decision was reached at a long conference today participated in by Mayor Kline, members of his cabinet, President of Council John S. Herron and W. Y. English, chairman of Council Finance Committee.

The saving thus effected, it is estimated, will be around $350,000 and will prevent any deficits being carried over to harass efforts of Council to pare down taxes for 1932.

MANY TO WORK FREE

Many of the employes, including the entire salared payroll, likely will work during the technical leave of absence, heads of the various departments believed. Any who wished, however, would be entitled to be off duty.

In the Public Safety Department 1,250 police and detectives and a less number of firemen are affected. Police Supt. Peter P. Walsh estimated the saving in police salaries at $65,000, with no estimate available as to firemen.

In the Public Works Department, Director E. G. Lang places the saving at $150,000. Mrs. Enoch Rauh, head of the Department of Welfare, plans to save $17,800, and the Bureau of Health $31,500. Other divisions of the city government were preparing estimates on the furlough plans.

BUSINESS ON MEND, SCHWAB DECLARES

By DAVID P. SENTNER
International News Service.

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—Declaring that the financial world was straightening itself out and that the house of steel was now in order, Charles M. Schwab, veteran soldier of the steel industry, today sounded a trumpet call to the members of the American Iron and Steel Industry to "sail into the job" of improving economic conditions.

Schwab, president of the institute and chairman of the board of directors of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, asserted that "industry has gotten its second wind" and that "economy and efficiency" would lead business out of the depression. He declared:

"The improving of our credit structure by virtue of the steps advocated by President Hoover and the bankers is a fundamental step in the right direction.

"Fear has been lessened. There will be no collapse. The sources of credit have been mobilized and we shall pull through."

"A better financial structure, which is now under way.

HOOVER, LAVAL OPEN WHITE HOUSE PARLEY

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—The real business of Premier Pierre Laval's hurried visit to the United States began this afternoon when he went to the White House to "talk things over" with President Hoover.

No hard or fast agreements are expected. It was emphasized by administration spokesmen that neither has the power of commitment, that parliamentary approval must be given any conclusions.

Debts, reparations, disarmament, French security, the solution of aggravated European political problems, including the sorest of all, the Polish corridor—all these and probably others will be explored during the 18 hours or so that Laval is domiciled under the White House roof. Interpreters will be used, for President Hoover speaks no French

Policeman With Gas Bomb Defies 450 Pitt Hazers

Four hundred and fifty upperclassmen at the University of Pittsburgh today refused to "haze" a city policeman, because the policeman was armed with a tear gas bomb, it was reported.

The operator of a radio car from the Oakland station it said to have objected to upper classmen hazing about 25 freshmen as they passed Alumni Memorial Hall on the upper campus at noon. Freshmen, after running a gauntlet of stinging paddles, were forced to turn their coats inside out and indulge in various stunts.

While this was going on, the policeman, armed with a tear gas bomb, appeared, according to some of the students, and dared the upper classmen to paddle him. None accepted the dare, it was reported, but when the officer moved away he was given the well-known "raz-berry."

WOMAN TO GIVE UP, TRUNK INQUEST HINT

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 23.—(INS.)—Deeply stained with blood, two trunks and an old suitcase, grim and silent witnesses confronted the husband and brother of Ruth Judd, 27, frail fugitive, when the coroner today opened the inquest into the murder of two young women of Phoenix, Ariz.

The bodies, one dismembered, were shipped here in the trunks and the suitcase.

Scores of women and young girls jostled each other, hoping to hear details of the supreme "love triangle" asserted by police to have culminated in Mrs. Judd shooting to death her friends, Agnes Leroi, 30, nurse, and Hedwig Samuelson, 24, red haired school teacher.

It was believed Mrs. Judd, a fugitive since Monday, would be surrendered by attorneys shortly after the inquest is over. The attorneys were retained late yesterday by her husband, Dr. William C. Judd.

Dr. Judd, the first witness called at the inquest, identified the body of Miss Samuelson and said he had been treating her for tuberculosis in Phoenix.

The body of the other victim was identified by Dr. J. M. Odell. He said about one year ago Mrs. Leroj and Miss Samuelson called on him in Portland, Ore., for medical advice. He said:

"Mrs. Leroi told me she had been divorced. Her correct name was Agnes Alexandra Leroi Smith and she told me she was born in Oregon."

ST. VINCENT LEADS SALEM AT HALF, 19-0

Johnson, right halfback, was the star. He scored two touchdowns in the second period and also caught a pass on a try-for-point.

The Saints first scored in the first period, when Andy Evanko, the fullback, broke through center and reversed to run 18 yards and across the goal. The try-for-point, a kick, failed.

In the second period, Johnson scored on a 24-yard run around left end and then received a pass from the 40-yard line to run to the four-yard line from where he scored on a run around right end.

DUKES PLAY TERRORS; PURDUE WORKS OUT

By HARRY KECK
Sports Editor

Two visiting football squads were in Pittsburgh this afternoon awaiting battles with local collegiate squads.

They were Western Maryland, of Westminster, Md., and Purdue University, of Lafayette, Ind. The former aggregation plays Duquesne University under the floodlights at Forbes Field tonight, and the latter battles Carnegie Tech at the Stadium tomorrow.

Western Maryland worked out last night at Forbes Field and Coach Dick Harlow today expressed himself as satisfied with the condition of the players. The Green Terrors last Saturday lost a tough 13-12 battle to W. & J. at Baltimore.

The Dukes, who will outweigh the visitors, are set for a tough setto. Capt. Mike Ferrare will be back at right guard. Except for this change, the lineup will be the same as that which opposed Georgetown here last week.

Purdue's squad of Boilermakers worked out at the Stadium at 2:15 this afternoon under the direction of Coaches Noble Kizer, Frank Carideo and Mal Elward, all former famous Notre Dame players. The visitors are handicapped through injuries to backfield stars and are anticipating a strenuous struggle when they line up against the fighting Tartans.

RULING ON CAPONE'S PLEA TOMORROW

CHICAGO, Oct. 23.—(AP.)—Sentencing of Alphonse Capone for violating tax laws was delayed at least one more day when Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson announced at the close of legal arguments today:

"I will dispose of this case at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning."

The announcement of the court followed long arguments on the legality of the indictments and the jury's finding. The defense again intimated that the case would be taken to the Supreme Court.

Capone, coughing frequently and favoring a cut finger which was heavily bandaged, appeared downcast. Before the session started, he paced the corridor outside the courtroom, forcing a smile now and then but refusing to be drawn into any conversation.

MISSING AIRPLANE, PASSENGER FOUND

While six planes from the Charlestown (W. Va.) Airport were scouring the surrounding countryside for them, fearful of an air tragedy, Donald C. McDougal, Pittsburgh-Butler Airport pilot, and his passenger, J. C. Knee, of Pittsburgh, were safe in Zanesville, O.

The two had taken off from Bettis Field yesterday afternoon for Charleston. When no word of the plane was received today, officials of the Pittsburgh-Butler Airport asked attaches of the Charleston Airport to search for them. While the search was on, McDougal notified the Pittsburgh-Butler Airport officials that he got off his course and landed in Zanesville. His passenger finished his trip to Charleston by train.

MAX CAREY NAMED MANAGER OF ROBINS

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—(AP.)—Max Carey, former Pittsburgh Pirates' center fielder, and later coach of the Brooklyn Robins, of the National League, today was named manager of the Robins for 1932, succeeding Wilbert Robinson.

Carey was named at a meeting of the Brooklyn Robins directorate at Ebbbets Field today. His selection was said to have been unanimous.

The deposing of Robinson, portly boss of the once high-flying Robins for 17 years, brings to an end a bitter war which has been waged for several years between Uncle Robbie and the heirs of Charles Ebbets and Steve McKeever, one of the largest stockholders in the club.

Carey's contract is for one year. Carey is 41 years old and has been connected with organized baseball since 1909, when he played shortstop with the South Bend team of the Central League.

He went up with Pittsburgh in 1911 and was with them until 1926, when he was released to Brooklyn in midseason after a row with Fred Clarke, at that time assistant manager of the Pirates. He was an active player with Brooklyn during the remainder of the 1926 season and the 1927 and 1928 campaigns and was with them in 1929 as coach. In 1930 he returned to Pittsburgh as coach, but was released last year and was out of baseball last summer.

For years he was the National League's leading base stealer, his high water mark being reached in 1916 when he stole 63 bases. As coach of Brooklyn he developed Babe Herman into one of the outstanding base stealers of the older circuit.

TOKIO PLEDGED SAFEGUARDS IN MANCHURIA

Sze Announces Agreement To Geneva Compromise; Council Applauds Action

BULLETIN.

GENEVA, Oct. 23.—(INS.)—Japan tonight again blocked the League of Nations Council's effort to solve the Manchurian dispute by refusing to evacuate her troops from recently occupied area by November 16, as provided for in a resolution framed by leading members of the council.

Japan's determination not to withdraw her forces until China has first supplied full and complete guarantees that the lives and property of Japanese citizens will be protected was announced after China had signified its full acceptance of the council's resolution.

By FREDERIC K. ABBOTT
International News Service.

GENEVA, Oct. 23.—Settlement of the grave Sino-Japanese controversy in Manchuria, which threatened to precipitate a war in the Far East, appeared in sight tonight.

Before a public session of the League of Nations council, Dr. Alfred Sze, chief Chinese delegate, announced his government's acceptance of the resolution drawn up by leading members of the council calling for evacuation of Manchuria by Japanese troops by November 16, protection of Japanese lives and property and institution of direct negotiations between the two Asiatic powers for arbitration of all outstanding problems.

TOKIO'S DEMANDS

Earlier in the day, the Japanese delegation had circulated among the representatives a revised draft of the council resolution calling for guarantees from China that their nationals would be protected before withdrawal of Japanese troops could take place.

These guarantees were promised by Dr. Sze in his address, which was warmly applauded by the council. Prentiss Gilbert, American consul here and official American observer on the council, was present at the session. Dr. Sze said:

"China will guarantee the lives of Japanese, but since occupation itself endangers Japanese lives, they will become safe as soon as Japan withdraws her troops.

ACCEPTANCE ANNOUNCED

China's acceptance of the resolution was announced by Dr. Sze following receipt of instructions from his home government. His speech served to envelop the council meeting in an atmosphere of conciliation and friendliness unequaled since the body met for the first time a month ago in an effort to avert war in the Far East.

Dr. Sze announced he was accepting the resolution "despite the fact my government feels it fails to grapple with many important points." He added:

"But I am authorized to accept it."

Dr. Sze reiterated his government's willingness to have the entire situation investigated by commissions of inquiry established by the league.

Leatrice Joy Weds Coast Business Man

DEL MONTE, Cal., Oct. 23.—(AP.)—Leatrice Joy, motion picture actress, was married here yesterday to William S. Hook, Los Angeles businessman, by the Rev. Edward Sharp, Monterey Presbyterian clergyman.

The ceremony was performed at Del Monte Lodge. Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Nagel and Paul Hammond, of Hollywood, were present.

SCHWAB SEES IMPROVEMENT

gances in business, including prices, which has already taken place in most lines to an abnormal extent.

"A reduction in the cost of government, which is borne by industry and the people.

He said that one lesson from the depression was that it taught American business it could no longer ignore the economy of other countries. He declared:

"Today we are a creditor nation and the prosperity of our international neighbors is necessary to our own well-being."

He registered opposition to further supervision of private business by the government, to the overbuilding of the steel industry, to the dole. He pledged the steel industry as supporting any movement for permanent peace despite the business which might accrue from building navy vessels and armament.

EUROPEAN BREAKDOWN

Schwab pointed out that America was on the upward move last spring. He declared:

"Our production curve had increased steadily from the first of the year. Then came the breakdown of finances in Central Europe, which spread to England and brought violent repercussions to our own shores."

Schwab termed the indifference to governmental costs as one of the worst features of American life. He said:

"I refer particularly to our local governments, state, city and county. Here we find colossal wastes, which are a dead weight on business and the public."

Schwab expressed the regret of the steel industry for the necessity of recent wage cutting. He asserted:

"We held to the old wage rates as long as our balance sheets would permit, but with the liquidation of prices and values in all directions it was necessary to yield to economic law."

LEADERS SEE GAINS

E. T. Weir, chairman of the board of the National Steel Corporation, stated that he believed the low point has been seen in the steel industry generally.

T. M. Girdler, chairman of the directors' board of the Republic Steel Corporation, said that although the time for a busy fall season is about over there are signs of better conditions ahead and the foundation is being laid for improvement in 1932.

Eugene G. Grace, president of Bethlehem Steel Corporation, said that one of the most encouraging business developments recently has been the improvement shown in the prices of commodities.

BANKERS MEET ON CREDIT PLAN

Subscriptions for the Pittsburgh branch of the national Hoover credit pool were to be given by representatives of Pittsburgh banks at an organization meeting in the Pittsburgh Clearing House this afternoon.

The Pittsburgh organization was to be formed as the National Credit Corporation No. 2 of the Fourth Federal Reserve District. All banks desiring to contribute 2 per cent of net call and demand deposits, not to exceed 10 per cent of capital and surplus, toward the stabilization funds were eligible to participate.

The meeting here today was to be the outgrowth of repeated preliminary meetings for several days. A. E. Braun, president of the Farmers Deposit National bank, is a director of the National Credit Corporation. Officers were to be elected following the meeting.

CITY CHECKUP OF BANK FUNDS COMPLETED

Controller Silent on Result As to Schooley Status; Guarantee Fund Discussed

City Controller James P. Kerr said today the audit checking up city depository banks to ascertain which institutions posted bonds to protect the city against loss has been completed.

Asked what had been disclosed, as far as it concerns deposed Treasurer Roy D. Schooley, he answered:

"Nothing will be given out for publication at present. I do not know just what has been found."

It was learned authoritatively, however, that city funds in depositories, still operating, are fully secured by bonds.

Attorney Hiram D. Hirsh today said he had visited the Schooley home last night, but had not talked with him as he is still in bed "in no condition to discuss audit affairs."

Kerr was asked his opinion regarding the use this year of the $500,000 guarantee fund, to help reduce taxation. This money was in the fund for a number of years and built up yearly on interest earnings for emergency use if city bank deposits became tied up, but last year Council directed other means be used to protect the city's deposits and take care of emergencies. Regarding that move the controller said:

"We might have been in a worse fix than we are now, if that had not been done."

CAMERON BANK CLOSES DOORS

HARRISBURG, Oct. 23.—(INS.)—By voluntary action of the board of directors, doors of the Mechanics Trust Company, one of Harrisburg's largest banks, were closed today and its affairs taken over by the State Banking Department.

Peter G. Cameron, former secretary of banking during the Fisher administration, is president of the Mechanics Trust Company. General seepage of deposits during the two-year period ensuing after discontinuation of the bank as an active depository for state funds with the resulting withdrawal of $1,500,000 of such funds, was assigned as the cause of the closing by Cameron.

The Valley Deposit and Trust Company, at Belle Vernon, failed to open its doors this morning. The bank was taken over by the State Banking Department at the request of the board of directors. J. C. Swigart, chief examiner, said today. It had deposits estimated at approximately $1,000,000.

BRADFORD, Pa., Oct. 23.—(AP.)—The McKean County Trust Company, one of the oldest banks in Bradford, was in the hands of the State Banking Department today. In a statement September 29 the bank reported resources of $3,984,525.75 and deposits of $3,172,533.30.

Nattily dressed Mr. Volpe, Wilmerding Republican political chief, leaving the Courthouse today with one of his defense witnesses, youthful Mr. Tech, who testified that he is alive, lives at 403 Lavine street, Wilmerding, was assessed and there was no "phantom voter."

LINDY AND ANNE NEAR HOME

MOLINE, Ill., Oct. 23.—(AP.)—Col. and Mrs. Charles Lindbergh spent 20 minutes at the Moline Airport today while their plane was refueled. Col. Lindbergh said weather conditions had been bad between Des Moines and Iowa City. He was not sure that he would be able to reach home by tonight but said he would fly as far East as possible.

They left Rock Springs, Wyo., early this morning, stopping at North Platte, Neb.

Reno Contractor Kills Wife, Man

RENO, Nevada, Oct. 23.—(INS.)—William Conradt, Reno contractor, early today shot and killed Fern Morley, 30, and his estranged wife, Mrs. Joyce Conradt, according to police.

ing city funds had any connection with the economy measures of the city administration. He replied:

"None whatever. The city has plenty of money to meet the payroll and its expenses. The economy move is for the purpose of reducing taxes, especially next year's millage."

The enforced vacations without pay, however, will not remedy the financial situation, which is being intently studied by members of Council and departmental heads with a view of drastically cutting the tax millage rate for next year, city officials say.

LANG AWAITS LIST

Director Lang, of the Public Works Department, who already has started a program of economy and retrenchment, is afaiting a list of persons in every bureau whose services are indispensable.

The orders to the two departments—the detective bureau and city police—were issued to conserve as much of the police and detective budgets as possible this year and to economize in the preparation of the budget for next year. Further savings can be effected by "furloughs" and payroll slicing in other city departments and orders to this effect may be issued soon, possibly today.

Both orders from Supt. Walsh and Inspector Boyd are to take effect today. In the city Detective Bureau, based on the employment of 53 men, the vacation means a salary cut of almost 30 per cent. Under the plan, which it is reported has been adopted, 15 men will go on a week's leave each week until every member has had a vacation and then start at the top again.

Duringer Death Sentence Affirmed

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 23.—(AP.)—The Court of Appeals today affirmed the death sentence of Rudolph Duringer, New York pal of Francis (Two Gun) Crowley. Duringer was convicted of the murder of Virginia Joyce Brannen, dance hall hostess. Crowley also is under a death sentence and his appeal is before the Court of appeals, which reviews all capital cases.

most awful charges of fraud. The registry list still stands. The question before me is whether there is any justification in going on with such a hearing."

Turning to Capo, he said:

"This action is an outrage to the statutes. I would suggest that you let them bring in the case."

DEMANDS PROOF

Then to Sniderman:

"It is easy to charge conspiracy and fraud. Common decency demands that you prove this. You have made most serious charges against the register-assessor.

"I have heard a lot of cases where they wanted a voting list purged, but I never heard such charges as these. This is most manifestly an unfair method."

When Judge Marfarlane announced the case would be adjourned until Monday, he said:

"I do not want to postpone this case."

Sniderman jumped to his feet and said:

"Neither do I. Let's go ahead with it today."

The Judge replied:

"You and your people are to blame for this. It should have come up sooner."

Sniderman told him this was impossible as he and his clients had been working on their evidence since trace of the alleged fraud was first uncovered.

'DEAD MAN HEARD

After Teck, one of five persons listed by Sniderman as dead persons who "voted" in the September election, had testified, the attorney attempted to show that registered letters sent to Teck and others on the list had been returned with the report that no such persons were at the addresses given. Macfarlane stopped Sniderman, saying:

"This list seems to be made because the postman could not speak Italian. You took it for granted these people did not live there. That's not the way to strike people off the list."

Sniderman, who filed the petition in behalf of George Munro, chairman of the Wilmerding Independent Republican party, then attempted to show that deputy sheriffs and had been sent to locate them and failed, but Macfarlane broke in with:

"I don't want to hear that. If we go into this case, you'll have your opportunity to present what you want."

When Sniderman objected to testimony offered by the defendants, however, the judge said:

"I'll hear any evidence these people bring in here. You have attacked their residence."

SCORES ATTORNEY

Sniderman first drew wthe ire of Macfarlane when the Judge interrupted the attorney's initial remarks to say:

"There seems to be a general idea that everything about Wilmerding is crooked. We cannot take such an assumption un' facts are proven."

Macfarlane heard the case, although it was Judge William McNaugher who granted a on Capo and the Election to show cause today why names should not be stricken lists.

Appended to Sniderman's tion, filed in behalf of Geo Munro, chairman of the Wilmerding Independent Republican faction, was the list of 259 names.

FAKE NAMES CHARGED

Most of them, the petition charged, were names of fictitious persons with fictitious addresses, 10 were of unnaturalized citizens and five of those dead persons.

Four of the alleged "phantoms" were registered from the home of Louis Volpe, brother of John, and also a power in the Republican party; five from the home of Peter Grillo, a Volpe election overseer; 11 from the home of Paul Dangolo, another Volpe overseer, and three from the home of Carmine Trenga, election judge in the Fourth District.

Important Leads Found In Tax Fraud Probe

Important new leads in the bogus tax receipt racket, now under investigation by the grand jury, were discovered last night, Assistant District Attorney George F. P. Langfitt, in charge of the probe, announced today. For that reason, Patrick J. O'Malley, Second Ward political leader and Attorney Howard Neeley, Republican chairman of the Fourth Ward, who answered grand jury subpenas today, were excused until tomorrow.

East End Merchant Sues For $50,000 Heart Balm

Alleging his wife's affections have been alienated by Ford L. Bissell, contractor, of 3001 Laketon road, a suit was filed by Samuel Meyers, Frankstown avenue merchant, in Common Pleas Court, seeking $50,000 damages, by Attorney Ben Paul Brasley.

Meyers alleged his wife, Anna Meyers, has gone to various cities in and out of Pennsylvania at various times with Bissell, and that they had exchanged gifts, also that Bissell had obtained from her money which she received from her husband.

The Meyerses were married in September, 1914, and have a daughter, 18, and son, 13, the suit stated. Meyers asserted that the wiles and enticements of Bissell, leading to clandestine meetings with Mrs. Meyers, went on during 1929, 1930 and 1931, but that he did not learn of their association until after July 15 last, when his wife left him.

Warburton Extortion Plot Seen in 'Healy Suit'

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—(AP.)—Police were investigating today what they said appeared to be an attempt to force a "Mary Brown Wharburton" to settle for $20,000 a suit brought against her by the wife of Ted Healy, musical comedy star.

On the complaint of Jack Marcus, hotel owner, two men who gave the names of Jack Grodman and David Braunstein were arrested yesterday and charged with suspicion of attempted extortion.

Marcus told detectives the two men had threatened him with violence if he did not induce "Miss Wharburton" to pay $20,000 as a settlement out of court of the suit supposed to be ing.

Detective Hyman Levi aided in the arrest, said he stood the men were referri Miss Warburton who is the gra daughter of the late John Wana maker and prominent socially.

He added that he understood the suit was pending in Pittsburgh and that Marcus had been approached because he was Healy's manager and an acquaintance of Miss Warburton. Advices from Pittsburgh today, however, indicated that no such suit as that referred to was on file in the courts there under the names given.

RUM ON CRUISES TO 'NOWHERE' BRINGS MELLON PROBE

24-HOUR TRIPS BY ALIEN SHIPS PROTESTED

Many Bandaged and Battered Voyagers Land After 'Roughhouse' on Majestic

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—(AP.)—Cruises by British ships from American ports to "nowhere" are being investigated by the Treasury. A protest was made to Secretary Mellon by Capt. John F. Milliken, secretary of the Neptune Association, that the ships did not stop at a foreign port before returning to New York. He said the vessels brought liquor into the port for beverage purposes.

BATTLE ON LINER

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—(AP.)—The Sun said today that the liner Majestic returned last night from a 24-hour cruise with its bar depeleted, and a group of its passengers in bandages.

A rough and tumble fight between detectives, a coterie of convivial merrymakers, and several disappointed gamblers was the cause of it all, according to the Sun. The Majestic set out Wednesday night on its regular 100-mile cruise "to nowhere." There were 276 passengers.

FIGHT OVER GAMBLING

The bar opened at 8:30 p. m., after the ship had passed the 12-mile limit, the Sun's story says, continuing:

"Some determined gamblers started dice games on the deck at $20 a 'throw.' The ship's detectives put a stop to that, and the gamblers adjourned to the bar. The approach of dawn found almost everybody asleep except the gamblers and the detectives, each party keeping an eye on the other.

"Somebody swung on a detective, and Van Short, of the line's staff, sent an emergency call for six International Mercantile Marine detectives who were taking the trip as passengers as a reward for some good work recently. They leaped out of bed and arrived in time to be of considerable assistance."

Reading Fire Sweeps Downtown Block

READING, Pa., Oct. 23.—(INS.)—The blaze which started in the McCrory chain store in the 500 block of Penn street here early today was brought under control shortly before noon after it had caused damage of more than $200,000.

DEALERS TO AID TRAFFIC 'CURE'

Diamond street merchants will co-operate with the Better Traffic Committee and the police department in enforcing parking restrictions on that thoroughfare, it was announced today following a joint meeting of the merchants and the committee in the Council Chamber yesterday.

The meeting was called to seek a remedy for the congestion of downtown traffic on football Saturdays this fall.

Assistant Supt. of Police Ben R. Marshall told merchants that his men could handle the situation if given their aid in refraining from loading and unloading during the Saturday noon hour. He pointed out that conditions would be "too bad" in case of a fire if a three-hour tieup such as that attending the Ohio State football game two years ago were to occur again.

The present ordinance prohibits parking on the south side of Diamond street from 8 a. m. to 6 p. m.

CLARA GIVES UP NEW YORK TRIP

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Oct. 23.—(INS.)—Why Clara Bow, red-headed screen star, started to New York, and then left the train at Gallup, N. M., after receiving a long distance telephone call from Hollywood, was a mystery today to every one except possibly Rex Bell, her cowboy film actor friend.

Bell denied that Miss Bow had started to New York after a lovers' quarrel. He declined to affirm or deny whether he made the long distance telephone call from Hollywood to Gallup.

Bell knew, however, that after Miss Bow had talked "with a certain party" in Hollywood, she left the train, went to a Gallup hotel, and made reservations back to Hollywood "on the first train West." Bell said:

"Clara was just fed up with everything and wanted to go places and see things before launching her comeback in pictures, December 1. It's all rumor about us having a tiff."

Addison's Disease Victim Now Cured

CHICAGO, Oct. 23.—(AP.)—Mrs. Andrew Nelson, with the aid of cortin, has won her fight against Addison's disease.

Mrs. Nelson was in the last stages of the disease several weeks ago when two vials of cortin, which is obtained from the cortex of beef adrenal glands, were sent to her by airplane from the medical laboratory of the University of Buffalo. Yesterday she was discharged from a hospital.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 23.—(INS.)—Floundering helplessly in a heavy sea, the steamer Wilmington of the Nelson Line was in a serious plight today off Blunt's reef, 250 miles north of here.

DR. BROOMFIELD SCORES SEX 'FREEDOM'

Pittsburgh Minister Urges Moratorium on 'Abandon' In M. E. Conference Talk

ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 23.—(AP.)—The "sickening influence" of the modern movie makes more difficult the permanency of marriage, Dr. J. C. Broomfield, of Pittsburgh, told the Methodist ecumenical conference.

Speaking on "Marriage, Home and Family," he declared the "popular idea of marriage is far from the Christian idea," and pointed out four reasons for what he called the "complex marriage situation." He listed them as follows:

"The new abandon with which we talk and write about the marriage relation.

"The new 'freedom'.

"The increase of individualism aggravated by the urbanism of our society.

Dr. Broomfield said:

"This conference could do no better than to declare a moratorium on exploiting sex on the pages of our newspapers and magazines."

GREENUP, Ky., Oct. 23.—(AP.)—Mrs. Angelina Brown, first wife of "King" Benjamin Purnell, House of David leader, was married at Greenup Tuesday to Thad Chaffins, 44, Greenup County. Mrs. Brown gave her age as 64. Purnell died in 1927. Greenup is the native county of both "King" Ben and his widow.

SPIRITUALISTS AWAIT EDISON 'MESSAGE'

Attempt of Inventor to Communicate With Living From Grave Prophesied

By CHARLES J. McGUIRK
International News Service.

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—Thomas A. Edison, the man who lived an agnostic and was buried as a Christian last Wednesday night, is a perfect model, with his tremendous intelligence for those who believe it is possible for the dead to communicate with the living.

Already there has been a number of prophecies that Edison will join A. Conan Doyle and Houdini in their attempts to reach back to this earth and the loved ones they left behind them when they died.

If the wish of the individual who died has anything to do with it, Edison will not be heard from. He had no belief whatever in life after death. He said so on many occasions, notably in an exclusive interview he granted to Charles Grant Miller, International News Service staff correspondent, on February 7, 1921. Edison said:

"If my theory is correct that the machine called man is only a mass of dead matter and that the real life is in the millions of individual units which navigate this machine, and if on the destruction of the machine these individual units keep together, including those which have charge of memory—which is our personality—then I think it is possible to devise apparatus to receive communications, if they desire to make them. It will be very difficult, as each individual as to size is beyond the limit of our present microscope."

Pauper Coffin Enfolds Body Of Schnitzler

VIENNA, Oct. 23.—(AP.)—Arthur Schnitzler, who died on Wednesday, leaving the world richer for his writings, was buried today in a pauper's coffin like a man without a friend.

It was at his own request expressed in a codicil to a will written 20 years ago, directing that no one wear mourning and that the funeral be of the "very last," or pauper, class.

There were no wreaths, no obituary announcements and no honorary pallbearers. Only a bouquet of blazing chrysanthemums relieved the stark simplicity of the rough, wooden coffin.

But it was not, after all, a pauper's ceremony. The writer's friends came from far and near. Literary, artistic, diplomatic and official circles were represented and their luxurious cars blocked the roads outside the cemetery.

The dramatist also directed in his will that a needle be thrust through his heart before burial to remove any doubt of his death.

EX-SUITOR HELD IN FIRE DEATHS

CHICAGO, Oct. 23.—(AP.)—A rejected suitor and two youths were held responsible by police today for a rooming house fire which took two lives. Three others suffered burns.

Henry Thompson, machinist, confessed, police said, that he engineered an arson plot to avenge himself because his former housekeeper, Mrs. Mary Arnold Boehm, rejected his attentions for those of Aubrey Lay, her new employer and proprietor of the rooming house.

Lay and Doris Boehm, 5, daughter of Mrs. Boehm, were burned to death. Mrs. Boehm and two other lodgers are in a hospital with burns.

Angelo Barron was arrested and admitted, police said, being one of the incendiaries, and implicated Angelo Sero.

Fire Attorney Thomas J. Sheehan said Thompson and the two youths would be charged with murder.

BLEDSOE ASKS FOR PAROLE

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Oct. 23.—With the greater part of his workhouse term served, following a plea of guilty on a liquor charge, Robert C. Bledsoe, former county detective, once captain of Baltimare and Ohio Railroad detectives, has asked the court for a parole.

A hearing was set for November 7.

Little objection will be offered by the authorities as Bledsoe has only a few months more of his time to serve. He has been in the Fayette County Jail since last June when he was tried and acquitted on a charge of murdering Elmer Younkin, who was killed when a train struck Bledsoe's car on a crossing near Connellsville.

PEER'S FAMILY SILENT, ADELE TELLS PLANS

Betrothal of American Star To Friend of Royal Family Unconfirmed in Britain

LONDON, Oct. 23.—(AP.)—No confirmation of the reported engagement of Adele Astaire, American actress, to Lord Charles Cavendish, youngest son of the Duke of Devonshire, could be had from his family today, but friends of the young lord said they were expecting an announcement and were not surprised.

Lord Charles was understood to be at his father's home, Lismore Castle, at Waterford, Ireland, but he could not be reached there. He is understood to be a particular friend of King George and Queen Mary, and often has visited them at Sandringham.

ADELE TELLS PLANS

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—(AP.)—Adele Astaire, whose elfin grin and slender, dancing feet carried her all the way from Omaha, Neb., into smart London drawing rooms and a friendship with the Prince of Wales, last night confirmed the story printed in London that she intended to marry Lord Charles Cavendish and retire from the stage.

Interviewed behind the scenes at "The Band Wagon," outstanding revue in which she is starring with her brother, Fred, she said the marriage would take place after the show ended its long run. Miss Astaire added:

"We had not intended to announce it so soon, but Charlie called me on the phone and said the story had broken over there. So there is nothing left for me to do but say it's so.

FRED TO STAR ALONE

"Fred can get along perfectly well without me. He doesn't need any support. Charlie and I are to be married in London, and we'll probably live most of the time in England and Ireland."

Lord Charles returned to England about a year ago after serving a banking apprenticeship with J. P. Morgan & Co. Miss Astaire said she met him in London five years ago.

ACTRESS LOSES BALM SUIT

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—(INS.)—Maurice Rothschild, Chicago banker, today won the $250,000 breach of promise suit filed against him by Vera McCord, actress.

A sealed jury verdict opened by Supreme Court Justice Louis A. Valente contained the ruling, stating that the banker did not promise to marry Miss McCord and did not give her cause to believe he intended to.

First Winter Storm Sweeps Pacific Coast

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 23.—(AP.)—From the northern part of Washington to the central sections of California and as far as Western Nevada, the first storm of the winter season held the Pacific Coast in its grip today.

The storm ended one of the longest droughts in many years. At Naches Pass, in the Washington Cascades, 16 inches of snow closed a new highway.

MORROW WILLS WIDOW ESTATE

ENGLEWOOD, N. J., Oct. 23.—(AP.)—Leaving approximately three-quarters of a million dollars to institutions and another quarter of a million to individuals, the late Senator Dwight W. Morrow bequeathed all the rest of his fortune to his widow, leaving her to provide as she saw fit for their children.

The will, filed for probate today, did not estimate the amount of the Morrow estate, which was generally believed to amount to several million dollars.

The senator left $200,000 to Amherst College, his alma mater, and the same amount to Smith College, the alma mater of Mrs. Morrow and their daughters.

The will did not mention the Morrow children, three girls and a boy, by name, and it was made before the marriage of Anne Morrow to Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and the birth of the Morrows' first grandchild, Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr.

STARVING ALIEN BAND SAVED

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 23.—(INS.)—Starving on an uninhabited island, 35 miles south of the town of Everglades, yet fearful of making an outcry to attract passing motorboats, 10 Chinese aliens were rescued by fishermen today.

The aliens, through an interpreter, said they were abandoned by smugglers after paying $1,000 each to be brought to "the big city of Miami" from Cuba. They had been without food or water for four days.

The Chinese, though starving, hid in the dense undergrowth when a sheriff's posse sought to round them up after fishermen had reported their presence on the island, which is in the gulf 30 miles off the mainland and 120 miles from here.

The men will be deported, authorities said.

Injured Nesbit Girl Still Unconscious

Miss Nancy Elizabeth Nesbit, daughter of Harrison Nesbit, injured critically in the automobile crash which caused the death of her father, was still unconscious in a hospital in Washington, D. C., today.

The accident occurred Wednesday when the Nesbit machine struck a parked truck. Funeral services were to be held at Warrenton today for Mr. Nesbit.

Queen Mary's Niece to Wed Commoner Tomorrow

BALCOMBE, England, Oct. 23.—(AP.)—This little southern English town was ironing out its best bib and pinafore today in preparation for becoming the center of the stage of Lady May Cambridge, 25-year-old niece of Queen Mary, will be married in the old church here to a commoner, Capt. Abel Smith, of the Royal Horse Guards.

The wedding will be one of the most important of England's 1931 season. It will be quiet, but Royalty will lend it atmosphere.

The romance of the blue-eyed, blonde daughter of the Earl of Athlone, only brother of Queen Mary, and the tall, 32-year-old captain, who is a member of a wealthy British banking family, began in South Africa four years ago. Captain Smith was aide to the Earl when the latter was Governor General there.

Lady May went to South Africa on a hunting trip in 1927 and met Captain Smith there. The party camped in uninhabited country near the margin of Lake Estoba, far from civilization. Lady May did most of the cooking.

False reports that Lady May was to be engaged were circulated several years ago. One of them said she would marry the Prince of Wales, but it was quickly discredited. Another predicted her engagement to the Duke of York.

Coolidge Directs Repairs On Old Homestead

A new under-pinning has been placed under the barn, a board set in here and there, a new door or window placed where needed and the house and barn painted. About 15 men are now busy spreading lime over the pastures. A Bridgewater contractor has charge of the repairs, but they also fell under the critical eye of the former President.

Mr. Coolidge strolls about the farm every morning keeping in touch with the repair work and then takes his gun and goes into the woods. Three partridges have dropped in flight from shots from Mr. Coolidge's gun, and Plymouth has one less hedge hog than heretofore as the result of his marksmanship.

Last night at the White House dinner the French premier approached Senator Borah and expressed the wish that he might have a talk with him. Borah said he was at the Frenchman's service. They will meet at Stimson's home tomorrow night.

It was Borah, among others, who led the fight that defeated France's Cherished Versailles Treaty and the Wilsonian security pact a decade ago.

Washington is hopeful for much, hopeful of a reconciliation of Franco-American views that will spell co-operation in the future. But, in view of France's intransigent views on disarmament, security and reparations, there is behind this attitude of hopefulness a very discernible air of skepticism that either the French or the American viewpoints will be materially altered by the three days of personal contact.

PROGRAM DENIED

Administration spokesmen simply said there was no program, and that the discussions would be of a very informal nature. In this Laval concurred. He described his pending conversations as "a tete-a-tete."

It was made evident, however, that the thought uppermost in the French premier's mind is to win over the United States to the old idea of entering into a "security pact," either through the agency originally proposed by Woodrow Wilson, or by implementing the Kellogg-Briand pact for the outlawry of war.

This could be accomplished by the device known as a "consultative pact," in which the signatory nations would agree to consult among themselves to determine the aggressor in the event of war.

CONCESSIONS AT STAKE

Given such a guarantee, the French are prepared to make material concessions in the way of disarmament and reparations. Without it, there is believed to be scant chance that France will concede anything in these matters.

Senate leaders have made it clear, however, to President Hoover that any such pact is foredoomed to rejection.

There remain, then, as the most promising aspects of the Hoover-Laval conferences an agreement on continuing the German debt moratorium beyond next June and an agreement restricting and regulating the flow of gold between France and the United States.

As regards the extension of the moratorium, the institution of which caused resentment in France, there is a feeling that this will have to be done anyway, whether Premier Laval agrees to it in Washington or not.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—(AP.)—Premier Pierre Laval, of France, paid homage today at the shrine of the American unknown soldier, who died fighting in the Premier's native land.

Grid Game Shooting Causes 3 Arrests

John Smith, 46, of 2303 Westmar street, was lodged in Woods Run Police Station last night by police, who said he fired a shot and hurled a brick at youths who refused to stop playing football near Smith's home. Walter Gerkey, 21, of 2324 Westmar street, and Paul Gallagher, 21, of 2407 Westmar street, two of the players, were arrested on a disorderly conduct charge. The shot went wild.

Bankruptcy Plea Names Shuberts

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—(AP.)—An involuntary bankruptcy petition against the Shubert Theater Corporation, for which the Shubert and the Irving Trust Company were appointed equity receivers Tuesday, has been filed in Federal Court.

The petitioning creditors were Strom and Wilson, Inc., $232 for plumbing supplies and services; Standard Carpet Company, Inc., 150; Criterion Brokerage Company, $150 for insurance premiums.

Suspect Questioned Over Fatal Battle

Detectives were questioning August Delperio, 42, of 4726 Aman street, Brookline, in connection with the death of William Lowden, 1030 Banksville road, in Federal and Robinson street, September 2. Delperio surrendered to detectives yesterday. Lowden, police said, died of stab wounds received in a fight when Delperio resented remarks he made to Mrs. Delperio and another woman.

Child Diphtheria Safeguard Urged

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—(AP.)—A first birthday present for every baby has been suggested by the Public Health Service. It was diphtheria immunization, by administration of toxoid.

The service pointed out that most cases of diphtheria occur in the age group of less than five years, and that children so young cannot be taught personal hygiene as a protective measure.

Uriburu Death Plot Balked in Argentina

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, Oct. 23.—(AP.)—A plot to assassinate President Uriburu, of Argentina, and other prominent persons of that country was discovered in the Uruguayan town of Carmelo, police here have been informed.

Authorities at Carmelo raided the home of an alleged anarchist, who had been deported from Argentina, the report said, finding explosives and evidence of a plot which was to be carried out with other extremists living in Buenos Aires.

Komic Clubs to Assemble At Neighborhood Movie Theaters Tomorrow

Tomorrow will be the big day!

At the Warner theaters, at the hours listed above, thousands of children will assemble for meetings of the Warner Theaters-Sun-Telegraph Junior Komic Clubs. Children who are not members and wish to join are requested to report to their neighborhood theater 10 minutes before meeting time so that they may be enrolled before the meeting opens.

Old and new members are reminded that the cards they hold, entitling them to attend the big free show at the Stanley Theater, Sunday afternoon, November 15, will be stamped only at the time announced for their meetings. If they attend the theater later in the day they will miss, not only the special program and other festivities, but also their chance to see the big show.

Tomorrow morning, promptly at the time stated, the grand jesters and boards of governors elected last week will take their places on the stages of the various theaters and conduct the meetings, under the leadership of the theater manager. Three weeks hence another set of officers will be elected to officiate for the ensuing four weeks.

Immediately following the meetings, entertainment and distribution of gifts, feature pictures, selected especially for the children, will be shown. At the conclusion of the junior class program the regular feature scheduled for each theater will begin.

Managers of the various theaters have arranged to take their officers to the office of the Sun-Telegraph, where photographs will be taken for publication. Each officer will receive notification from the manager when to report for pictures.

Officers will be elected at the meeting to be held tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock at the Harris Diamond street theater. Every child attending the meeting will receive a box of Dimling's candy, and a dozen or more attractive gifts will be awarded from the stage.

The stage attraction will be a ventriloquist-magician, Jim Derwin. This will be followed by a special children's picture and the regular feature scheduled for the day.

REALTORS DINE AT CONVENTION: END TONIGHT

Prize Winners to Receive Trophies; Erie Man Elected President; Golf Tourney On

By EDWARD W. GOSS,
Real Estate Editor.

STROUDSBURG, Pa., Oct. 23.—Tonight marks the closing of the eleventh annual three-day convention of the Pennsylvania Real Estate Association at Skytop Lodge, near here.

This evening's program will be featured by the organization's annual dinner, to be presided over by J. W. Cree, Jr., of Pittsburgh, president of the association. An address by the president-elect of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, L. T. Stevenson, also of Pittsburgh, and the presentation of trophies to the various prize winners of contests staged during the convention.

ELECTIONS ANNOUNCED

At the realtors' annual election last night, Harry Swenson, Erie broker, was unanimously elected to succeed Cree as president for 1932. Cree will leave office in January. A Pittsburgher, John L. Walsh, of the Real Estate Company of Pittsburgh, was chosen as one of the association's vice presidents.

Others elected were L. W. Campbell, Johnstown, vice president; William H. McGowan, Reading, vice president; John H. Craven, Philadelphia, vice president; Henry J. Mack, Bethlehem, vice president; Evan J. Miller, Harrisburg, secretary, and Harry F. Goehringer, Wilkes-Barrre, treasurer.

DISCUSSIONS SLATED

A varied list of discussions are to be presented today. Among them is an address to be given by Dr. Leonard P. Fox, research director, Pennsylvania Chamber of Commerce, entitled, "State and Local Tax Problems in Pennsylvania." Harry S. Kissell, president of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, is scheduled to speak on "Real Estate—Still the Best Investment."

C. C. C. Stotler, Pittsburgh realtor and secretary-treasurer of the Title Guaranty Company, will present the association's home town speech contest cup to Paul Thomas, Easton broker, this evening. Thomas was adjudged the winner of the contest last night.

GOLF WINNERS IN DOUBT

The results of the three-day golf tournament, an annual feature, are still much in doubt. Winners will not be known until late this evening, when all cards will be posted. Thus far three Pittsburgh delegates—Roberts Ellis, C. C. C. Stotler and L. W. Monteverde—are conceded good chances of coming in for awards, although this afternoon's cards may show radical changes in standings.

MINING BANNED AT PLAYGROUND

A preliminary injunction to restrain mining and removing of coal from under the Dunbar playground, Twenty-eighth Ward, was procured by the City of Pittsburgh from Judge William H. McNaugher in Common Pleas Court.

It was directed to H. F. Bohn, Obey avenue, owner of adjacent property, and James McCray, of Logan street, charged by the city with mining coal to a depth of 150 feet under the playground, causing surface collapse and endangering lives of children and adults making use of the playground. The mining has been going on for the past six years, according to the complaint of the city.

FLIERS TO VISIT TITUSVILLE

TITUSVILLE, Pa., Oct. 22.—(AP.)—Hugh Herndon and Clyde Pangborn, Pacific fliers, will visit Titusville, Herndon's birthplace, next Wednesday and will remain overnight, it was made known today. Luke B. Carter, Titusville capitalist, is an uncle of Herndon, whose grandfather was John J. Carter, founder of the Carter Oil Company.

A public reception will be held for the fliers, who yesterday, in New York, received $25,000 from the Japanese newspaper Asahi. The money was offered by the paper to the first aviator or aviators to fly the Pacific.

Police Trail Gang In Safe Robbery

CHARLEROI, Pa., Oct. 23.—Arrests were expected in Charleroi and Bellevernon as the result of a gang of robbers forcing three locks on the rear of the Bellevernon Garage, 10 Main street, Bellevernon, gaining entrance to the office and escaping with the strong box containing $520 in cash and stocks and bonds valued at $8,000.

Chief of Police John Perry, leading state police, county detectives and other officers in an investigation, found the strong box lying along the river shore near Gibsonton, on the Bellevernon-Monessen Highway. The cash was gone, but stocks, bonds, deeds and other valuable papers were undisturbed.

Hobby Held Means Of Prolonging Life

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Oct. 23.—(AP.)—The way for the man over 40 to keep from dying suddenly is to have a hobby, Dr. E. Starr Judd, of Rochester, Minn., president of the American Medical Association, told the Interstate Post-Graduate Medical Association.

Rugs Worth $300 Stolen From Auto

Turkish rugs valued at $300 were stolen from an automobile belonging to Alfred Brown, of Philadelphia, according to a report to police today. The machine was parked near the Fort Pitt Hotel.

Choice Liquor Seized In Squirrel Hill Raid

Lieut. Michael J. O'Connor and a squad of patrolmen visited the Ross home, confiscated the liquor and arrested Ross on a charge of keeping a disorderly house.

Two Women Plan 5,000-Mile Flight

GUELPH, Ont., Oct. 23.—(AP.)—Mrs. Debie Stanford said she would make a 5,000-mile flight from New York to an unannounced point south of the equator, accompanied by Mrs. Ruth Stewart, United States transport pilot.

The flight is expected to take five and a half days. Mrs. Stanford left for St. Louis to make final arrangements.

And that's not all! The neckline of the little frock is square (that's news!) . . . the belt has a great metal clasp (that's news!) . . . the jacket gives the costume a double sleeve effect (and that's news!) What young thing couldn't be happy in a frock like this . . . or any of our other new ones, 11 to 17.

PENNSY SALARY PARLEY FAILS

A two-day meeting between representatives of 1,500 clerical workers and representatives of the Pennsylvania Railroad, at which salary adjustments were discussed, ended last night without a settlement, it was said.

Plans considered as a measure to reduce expenses of the company were:

Reduction of the clerical force; taking more time off without pay, and straight reduction in salary.

Two months ago the clerical forces agreed to take two days off each month without pay, but this measure, it was said, failed to relieve the situation.

At the end of the conference yesterday it was decided to hold regional meetings in an effort to affect some agreeable measure. Western region delegates will hold sessions in Chicago, the Central in Pittsburgh, and the Eastern in Philadelphia.

SCOUTS HOLDING EAST END MEET

Speakers will include Walter H. Sarraf, scoutmaster, Troop 100; C. T. Harnack, East End district commissioner; A. W. Brown, examining board sponsor; Eagle Scout Bobby Sarraf; Howard Doyle, assistant scoutmaster, Troop 100; Dr. A. R. Robinson, pastor of the church, and the Rev. E. A. Daum, assistant pastor.

ASK WALSH BAR 'CAR WATCHERS'

Supt. of Police Peter P. Walsh today was asked to have his officers break up the practice of "car watching" at football games and other large gatherings.

The Pittsburgh Motor Club in making the request, explained "car watching" is a "racket" in which men and boys patrol the streets adjacent to large gatherings and offer to guard parked automobiles for a small fee. In many cases, the club officials said, refusal to pay this fee brings serious damage to the car during its owner's absence.

CRUELTIES LAID TO POOR BOARD AT WOODVILLE

Mrs. Joyce Charges Patients Are Chained to Beds and Many Die From Loneliness

Carrying her attack on the present Poor Board into the actual operation of the county home at Woodville, Mrs. Agnes R. Joyce, candidate for Poor Director on the Poor Man's ticket, today condemned what she termed the action of the present board in employing 85 per cent of the Woodville home personel from states other than Pennsylvania.

Mrs. Joyce made her attack at a noon meeting at the "Alpern for Commissioner" headquarters, Plaza Building.

Labeling conditions at the home as "sad in the extreme," Mrs. Joyce said:

"Many poor souls die at Woodville from loneliness. I do not believe that any effort is made by those in charge to relieve this condition.

"If we had the right kind of doctors at Woodville, there would not be so many occasions when straitjackets were necessary; fewer patients would be chained to their beds."

Mrs. Joyce also declared that she had been informed that scores of inmates at the hame had been placed on the payroll as "workers" at salaries of $1 or $2 a month "in order to qualify them to swell the vote of present men on the board."

Other speakers at the meeting were Attorney Israel Greenberg and C. V. Shoup, Alpern's campaign manager.

HOUSE CONTROL LOST TO G. O. P.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—(INS.)—With the opening session of Congress only six weeks away, the Democrats today held a slender lead of one in the House of Representatives.

The standing, as a result of the death of Representative Fletcher Hale (Rep.), of Hampshire, was, Democrats, 215; Republicans, 213, Farmer-Laborite, 1.

With seven vacancies now existing in the House, the paper majority for the coming session cannot be determined until special elections are held. The last of these elections may be held in New Jersey on December 1, just six days before the session begins.

The death of Representative Hale at the naval hospital in Brooklyn, N. Y., last night is believed to doom any possibility of President Hoover calling a special session of Congress.

Selective Sales Tax Favored By Smoot

SALT LAKE CITY, Oct. 23.—(AP.)—Senator Reed Smoot, of Utah, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, declares he is in favor of a selective sales tax for bringing in new revenue.

Commenting on reports from Washington that the administration is considering such a tax, he said he favored the levy on certain commodities. He did not express his stand on the particular commodities included in a proposed list compiled by the Treasury Department yesterday.

W. Va. Pays $500,000 On State Capitol

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Oct. 23.—(AP.)—A reduction of $500,000 in the $2,500,000 indebtedness resulting from borrowing money for the state Capitol building fund was made yesterday. The $500,000 cut in the amount of the indebtedness came with the payment of $500,000 of the total borrowed from New York banks.

That is not improbable, although China says Japan's accusation is like that of a man arrested for stealing and killing sheep, who told the judge:

"I'll kill any sheep that bites me."

FOR CENTURIES Irish fishermen and their families have lived on the wild, wind-swept islands of Inniskea, off the coast of County Mayo. You know those courageous fighters of the Atlantic if you have read Synge's beautiful and powerful play, "Riders to the Sea."

The Irish Free State, bringing all the inhabitants of lonely Inniskea back to the mainland, gives to each six acres of good land and $1,000 to improve the land.

Here we should call that paternalism. The angel Gabriel probably has another name for it.

MALONE SCORES PINCHOT ON M'CLELLAND

Denies Misrepresentation In Recommending Dentist For Boxing Commission

James F. Malone, recently resigned as Secretary of Property and Supplies in the Pinchot cabinet, in a letter to Gov. Pinchot flatly contradicts the executive's statement that "misrepresentation" surrounded the appointment of Dr. W. D. McClelland as boxing commissioner.

McClelland has just been removed by the Governor, who reappointed Harvey J. Boyle, dropped from the board when McClelland was named.

Malone says that Pinchot first advanced the suggestion that a change in the board should be made when Boyle's term expired. Malone wrote:

"There was quite a political agitation on for the appointment, in which I took no part until Mr. Stahlnecker (the Governor's secretary) and yourself took the matter up with me on July 2 or 3."

REFERS TO M'GOVERN

Malone asserts that in dropping McClelland after you had a conference with a certain party on October 1 followed by your letter to Dr. McClelland on October 2 asking for his resignation, "looks as though politics entered in definitely on those two dates."

The "certain party" referred to by Malone is County Commissioner Charles C. McGovern, Boyle's sponsor, between whom and Malone ill feeling has existed since Malone quit the Pinchot cabinet rather than support McGovern in the recent primary, at the same time issuing a statement attacking McGovern.

CHARGES UNTRUTH

Malone's letter, which he winds up with the statement that "any intimation that I misrepresented facts concerning Dr. McClelland is not based on truth," follows:

"Press reports concerning your dismissal of Dr. W. D. McClelland from the State Athletic Commission credit me with being the sponsor of Dr. McClelland. This is correct.

"I gave you this information after you had told me you wanted to make a change in the commission and that you did not want to re-appoint the then incumbent or any of the other applicants.

"You said 'fine,' and appointed McClelland.

CITES LETTERS

"That I was not mistaken in my recommendation of Dr. McClelland as to his ability to carry on the duties of the office in a capable and efficient way is verified by you in your letter to him of October 2 (as published in the papers of October 21):

"Your letter of October 2, asking the Doctor for his resignation, started out by saying you desired to appoint another man in his place and you were perfectly within your rights in making such a request, but on the twenty-first, the press reports also carried the following statement from the Governor: 'Prior to his appointment misrepresentations concerning him were made to me.' This would naturally make it appear that his sponsor was the one who had made misrepresentations concerning Dr. McClelland. What I told you on July 2 or 3 concerning Dr. McClelland personally, I have no hesitancy in repeating now and what I said concerning my belief that he would be a capable and efficient official has been verified by your letters of October 2 and 12 as well as by the public press throughout the state.

POLITICAL AGITATION

"There was quite a political agitation on for the appointment, in which I took no part until Mr. Stahlnecker and yourself took the matter up with me on July 2 or 3.

"The fact that Dr. McClelland was in office nearly two months before I left Harrisburg and for two months since I left Harrisburg and that nothing of this sort had developed until after you had a conference on this matter with a certain party on October 1, followed by your letter of October 2 asking for Dr. McClelland's resignation, looks as though politics entered in definitely on these two dates.

"So far as I am concerned I made no misrepresentations or misstatement to you concerning Dr. McClelland, or concerning any other person or subject at any time, nor would I do so, as I am not, or never have been, accustomed to placing a premium on deceit or political expediency, and any intimation that I misrepresented facts concerning Dr. McClelland is not based on truth."

Fall Down Stairs Injures Fireman

Hoseman John D. Smith of Engine Company No. 34, received lacerations early today when he fell down a flight of stairs at the home of C. H. Close, of 1747 Beechwood boulevard, where a slight fire in the basement caused an estimated loss of $500. The injured fireman was taken to Mercy Hospital.

Two Women Held On Theft Charge

Mrs. Nina Jack, 31, and Mrs. Dorothy Edwards, 29, both of Leechburg, were arraigned in Central Police Court today, charged with shoplifting. Detectives testified they had taken apparel valued at $40 yesterday from a downtown store. They were held by Magistrate T. D. Jones for investigation.

BARR RESUMES ATTACK ON TAX BOARD

Abolition of Delinquent Collector's Post Urged; Independents to Meet

Former Senator C. M. Barr, Independent party candidate for County Commissioner, continued his attack on the Board for the Revision and Assessment of Taxes at a speech today before the Council of Republican Women. Barr declared that the system was so loose that a voter could get a tax receipt paid for by another, thus defeating the purpose of the poll tax law.

Barr urged the abolition of the office of delinquent tax collector, a fee position, which he said was unnecessary and expensive. At the same time Barr praised the conduct of the delinquent tax office by the incumbent, Walter J. Christy.

Barr reiterated the charge that the Republican city machine is assisting the candidacy of David L. Lawrence, Democratic nominee for Commissioner.

MEETING TONIGHT

Barr, County Commissioner Charles C. McGovern, Ferrante and W. K. Hodgkinson will speak at an Independent meeting, McCleary school, Lawrenceville, at eight tonight. Other Independent rallies will be held at Etna High, Garfield and Lemington schools.

McGovern, Barr and other candidates will address a meeting of Independent Republicans of five different wards next Wednesday at McCann's, North Highland avenue.

Mackrell Urges Support For Republican Ticket

Support for the straight Republican ticket headed by William D. Mansfield and C. C. McGovern for County Commissioners, was urged by Register of Wills J. N. Mackrell at a noon meeting today in the Republican headquarters, William Penn Hotel. Mackrell said:

"I have been in many primaries and have not always won, but I have always bowed to the decision of the party. I now see no reason for anyone's voting other than the Republican ticket. Many of the nominees were on two tickets at the primaries. Mansfield led his nearest competitor by 40,000 votes. I hope nothing will happen in the general election that will molest the security he won."

W. H. Coleman, who presided, declared the upheaval of the primaries is resulting in the formation of a new Republican organization. He urged voters to back Mansfield and McGovern, "in whom I have every confidence."

Citizen Group Joins Vote Machine Test

The Citizens' Voting Machine Committee today sought permission to intervene in the suit of Ada Bassett against county officials to prevent further payments or tampering with vote machines.

Attorney Ella Graubert in behalf of Francis S. Guthrie, Mrs. R. Templeton Smith and A. M. Scully filed the petition today before Judge H. H. Rowand. It was stated the filing of the petition was simply to have the Voting Machine Committee officially represented in the case.

U. S. Civil Service Schedules 3 Tests

The United States Civil Service Commission has announced three competitive examinations for positions in Pittsburgh. The examination for Assistant Supervisor of Probation will close on November 17. Examinations for Assistant Supervisor of Nurses and Social Workers must be in by December 30.

Full information about these examinations can be obtained from Emily M. Coulson, secretary of the United States Civil Service Board of Examiners, in the Federal Building.

Patricia Pitt's Sprightly Comment on Pittsburgh Society Happenings

In Mayfair —With— Patricia Pitt

There's something informal, intimate about the Brandywine Hunter trials, do you agree? Yesterday at the trials, the second event, run at "Brandywine," the Morgan B. Schillers' Sewickley Heights Farm, there were groups of spectators at the various jumps scattered over three miles of rolling hunting country.

Many others strolled about the paddock, chatting with friends. After the trials the Schillers held open house at their home.

The golden Indian summer weather brought forth the smartest of sports togs. Mrs. Schiller looked chic in a beige and pale green tailored suit of wool having the diagonal stripe so much in vogue. A brown felt hat completed her costume.

Mrs. Dudley Livingston arrived with Harriet Ramsburg, Virginia Willock and Bennett Edson. Near this group was Mrs. George A. Benney, who was one of the riders of the afternoon.

Arrivals At Trials

A colorful costume of Spanish tile and brown wool was worn by Mrs. G. Faber Downey with the jacket of Spanish tile and the skirt of brown wool. Her hat was of Spanish tile felt with cop trimming.

Chatting with her were the Charles Blackwells, of New York, guests of the H. N. Van Voorhises. Mrs. Blackwell chose a beige wool dress with which she wore a matching turban and scarf of red, brown and yellow wool in a geometrical design.

Among the younger set at the trials were Georgianna Collin, Laura Childs, Martha Yost, one of the debs, and Virginia Jones. Jane and Betty Murdoch were riding, and so was Betty Higgins, a debutante.

Near the paddock I saw the H. C. Bughmans, Mrs. T. Howe Nimick in a brown wool suit trimmed with metal clips, and Mrs. B. F. Jones III in a sapphire blue woolen suit.

Mrs. Robert Milligan was among the early arrivals, and so were Mrs. B. F. Jones, Jr., wearing a black and white printed jacket and a white crepe dress, and Mrs. H. N. Van Voorhis.

Varied Costumes

Helen Murdoch and Jane Miller were there, and Clodagh McCune in a black costume; Virginia Doyle in a yellow knitted dress, young Peggy Schiller, Virginia Frew Wright and Margaret McCready in a brown knitted dress.

Watching the in and out jumping were Mary Elizabeth Floyd in a red velvet jacket and a white skirt; Elizabeth Childs and Rosamound Fitch.

Others I saw were Mrs. Frederick Blackburn, Mrs. William Penn Snyder, Jr., Mrs. Reginald Opie, of Baltimore, and Mrs. Jack Lyon.

* * *

On November 17 Mrs. William M. Robinson will entertain with a luncheon in honor of Katherine Frazer in her Westminster Place home. Her guests will include the season's debs.

Katherine, you know, is to make her bow at a tea dance in the Pittsburgh Golf Club on November 26. And the following evening Senator and Mrs. David Aiken Reed will give a dinner in her honor.

* * *

A change has been made in the date for Rita Borntraeger's debut. She is the daughter of the Carl Borntraegers, you know, and her mother was to have presented her on November 28, at a tea in her home, but now Rita will make her bow on November 10. Mrs. Eugene W. Gary is to give a luncheon in the Fox Chapel Golf Club in honor of the bud on November 4.

* * *

Betty Lyons, daughter of the Louis W. Lyonses, of Beacon street, and Henry Clay Givan, Jr., of Pittsburgh, son of the Henry Clay Givans, of Nashville, Tenn., were married yesterday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock in the Edgewood Country Club.

Becomes Bride

Fall flowers and cibotium ferns decorated the clubhouse for the ceremony, performed by the Rev. Walter Lowrie Ritter, pastor of the Fourth Presbyterian Church.

French War Bride Society to Hold Masquerade at Institute As Its Final Event

Having attained the objective for which it was founded, L'Espoir Francais will meet for the last time tomorrow evening, and, as a farewell, will hold a masquerade party at the International Institute. The organization was formed in 1920 by French war brides under auspices of the International Institute, its purpose being to help the members establish contacts in the new world. All former members have been invited to tomorrow evening's affair.

Although it was founded as a purely social club, L'Espoir Francais has contributed to a number of charities both here and in the homeland.

Scottdale Girl, Uniontown Man Wed

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Elihue Weddell, of Scottdale, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Estella Elizabeth Weddell, to Abraham Lincoln Staufft, son of Mr. and Mrs. Berkey Staufft, of Uniontown, which was solemnized on Wednesday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock in the Weddell home. Officiating was the Rev. Dr. George Haden, of the First Methodist Episcopal Church of Scottdale, before an embankment of cibotium ferns, palms, bamboo and fall flowers, supplemented by tall candelabra holding white tapers.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of Chantilly lace over white satin, with a large circular train, and a veil of tulle edged with Chantilly. She carried gardenias showered with lilies of the valley. Her sister, Mrs. W. J. Fetter, of Pittsburgh, as the matron of honor, and another sister, Miss Marianna Weddell, as maid of honor, wore similar gowns of yellow flat crepe with flowing sleeves, and carried deep yellow chrysanthemums tied with brown ribbons. Robert Staufft served his brother's best man, and ushers included Frank Weddell, Jr., brother of the bride, and Phillip MacWilliams.

There was a reception and dinner in the home, after which Mr. and Mrs. Staufft left on an eastern motor trip. They will be at home in Uniontown upon their return.

SPORTS ENSEMBLE FOR TOWN WEAR

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Oct. 22. — Don't think that the sports ensemble has been neglected in the welter of velvets, lace, lame and town clothes in which we are also so pleasantly involved. There are always many women who spend the early autumn in the country and others, who, although back in town, like clothes that have a jaunty, sportive note about them. There are quantities of such clothes this year, although created, of course not so much for the professional buyers as for the private clientele of the various houses. Each house is generally pretty sure of certain clients who are addicted to certain types of clothes and so makes up clothes to answer these individual needs. That is why the collections of representative houses are generally so comprehensive, although of course certain houses famous for certain clothes always make a bigger splash with their specialties.

* * *

A VERY SMART town or sport ensemble is sketched from Lucile. This jacket, a slightly fitted affair, is of canary yellow wool jersey, while the skirt is of similar jersey, but in navy blue. The waistcoat and kerchief at the neck are of plaid jersey in yellow, blue and black and there is a wide patent leather belt with a plaided galalith buckle. So you see how nicely all the various colors have been co-related. The skirt has narrow godets at the front and sides to insure a comfortable width to the lower edge.

Mark Shields Speaks At Woman's Press Club

Mark Shields, political editor of the Sun-Telegraph, addressed the Women's Press Club yesterday at a tea in the Woman's City Club. It was a most enjoyable talk and gave intimate glimpses into newspaper life in Washington and reporting in general and equally intimate and informal observations on President Hoover, Andrew Mellon, Gov. Pinchot and several other public men.

Because newspapers are impersonal today they are fairly open to all sides and give the individual an opportunity to do his own thinking, Mr. Shields said. Washington, he remarked, has a Chinese political wall around it; it gets befogged in its own idea of what is important and is the last place in the world to hear what the country is thinking about.

Mr. Shields defined a politican as "one who is continuously engaged in the business of government." He compared several politicians, commenting on the part vanity plays in a political career. These are the day that are actually testing public men, he said.

Travels to Be Related To Alliance Francaise

Talks by returned European travelers will feature the opening meeting of the Alliance Francaise tomorrow evening in the home of the first vice president, Mrs. David Wilson Kuhn, Woodland road. The Aiello Trio will contribute the evening's music. Emile Majerus is the new president of the Alliance.

Miss Catherine Wilcox Weds J. A. Morrow, Jr.

Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Wilcox, of Grant avenue, Carnegie, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Katherine Wilcox, to J. Alexander Morrow, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Morrow, of Bridgeville.

Girl, 5, Rescues Drowning Brother

ELIZABETH, Pa., Oct. 23. — (AP.)—With no one withing calling distance to ask for help, Anna Mary Hoover, 5, saved her 3-year-old brother, Charles, from drowning at their farm home near here. The children were playing in the barnyard when Charles climbed upon the edge of an open water tank used for cooling milk, and fell into three feet of water. The girl, realizing any loss of time might cost her brother's life, stood on tiptoes and tugged at the boy's clothing until she hauled him over the side of the tank. He was revived several hours later.

BENEFIT SHOW IN INGRAM

Food and supplies for the needy will be admission to a benefit vaudeville show tonight in the Ingram school auditorium under the auspices of the Ingram Relief Organization.

The show will be staged by the Albert Guidotti Troupe of volunteer players, and will include music, comedy stunts and magic. The group, whose services have been offered free to any community organization desiring to raise funds for relief work, includes Mrs. Edna Guidotti, Betty Guidotti, Lura and Leona Vaught, Chester Miller, Harry Dunn, Fred Scheppler, Edward Datz and Harry Guidotti.

The relief association is a new body composed of the members of the Ingram Parent-Teacher Association, Ingram Board of Trade, Volunteer Firemen, First Presbyterian Church, United Presbyterian Church, Woman's Club and Acacia Club. Albert Jessup is chairman.

RAILROAD ENDS SERVICE NOV. 1

Passenger service on the Pittsburgh and West Virginia Railroad, consisting of six trains daily, will be discontinued November 1, it was announced today. The action follows an order issued by the Public Service Commission October 13 granting permission for the step.

Discontinuance of the service will permit a saving of $50,000 to $75,000 a year, according to officials. The application to abandon service was made last year, followed by several hearings by the commission during the year and the latter part of 1930. The passenger service extended between Pittsburgh and Pittsburgh Junction, O.

A Janitress in the Making

Of course the man of the house does most of the furnace-tending, or at least he intends to . . . But what about the evenings he has to stay in town and all day long while he is at work . . . Someone has to keep the home fires burning so mother is elected . . . Down to the cellar many times a day to shovel coal, shake the ashes and various other chores in an endeavor to keep the house at somewhere near the proper temperature. And not a very pleasant task for mother either.

Replace the Shovel with a Thermostat

However this is all quite unnecessary if you have automatic Gas heat installed in your home . . . Your shovel is replaced by a thermostat and you have only to set it at the temperature you desire and your house-heating chores are done for the season . . . Our complete house-heating equipment includes: Bryant, Ideal and Pittsburgh boilers—Bryant and Pennsylvania warm air furnaces and Roberts and Janitrol conversion burners . . . NEW ENGRAVING DEVICE AMAZES EXPERTS

Machine Speeds Newspaper Illustrations and Cuts Costs to Minimum

United Press Service.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—Federal government officials identified with printcraft and illustrating joined with Washington news writers, engravers, lithographers, photographers and artists in expressing amazement last night after witnessing the first public demonstration of an automatic photo-electric engraving machine.

Arthur Brisbane, noted editor, and Paul Block, publisher of a chain of metropolitan dailies, went directly from the White House, where they were guests at the President's dinner to Premier Laval, to witness the demonstration.

AROUSES INTEREST

The machine was invented by Walter Howey, head of the International News Photos. The largest news picture organization in the world. Howey has been at work on the machine for 30 years. He began work on it with the hope of making photographic illustration available to newspapers, particularly those in small cities which lack engraving facilities or are not able to afford the expense of an engraving plant.

The advantages of Howey's device are that it will turn out "cuts" in one tenth of the time now required and at a fraction of the present cost. It eliminates the necessity of rephotographing pictures on metal to produce a "cut" and also dispenses with chemicals and finishing processes.

SPEEDS PRODUCTION

Howey's device engraves a half tone and routs a "cut" at the same time. It automatically engraves, routs and engraves a border at the same time the image of the subject is produced. It will automatically make a positive half tone from either a negative or positive subject without taking any of the steps necessary in photography. It will automatically engrave a relief printing block for impression printing or an intaglio rotogravure type of block for roto printing at the throw of a switch.

The machine, set in a cabinet the size of an office desk, consists of two metal cylinders at the ends of an aluminum table. So one cylinder the operator attaches the photograph to be duplicated on metal. On the other he attaches a sheet of zinc, the size as the desired "cut," by pressing a button he sets the machine in motion. Two small lights focused on the photograph cast lights and shadows into a photo-electric cell. By electrical arrangement the lights and shadows in the cell move a steel stylus which etches a reproduction of the photograph on the zinc.

Makes You Forget You Have FALSE TEETH

False teeth can now be held fast and firm without discomfort of gooey gums, oozing out over sides of plates. FASTEETH, a new pure, tasteless powder, holds plates snug and tight all day long. Does not give that pasty taste or feeling. Use FASTEETH and note the difference with its fine feeling of comfort and security. Dentists write: "My patients like FASTEETH best." You too will find it gives same confidence you enjoyed with real teeth eating, laughing or talking. Sweetens breath. Keeps tissues and gums healthy. Insist upon FASTEETH for longest lasting effect. UNGUENTINE CONES FOR PILES

A Scientific Triumph by the Makers of Unguentine

When a real miracle working formula to speedily relieve and end piles is offered to the public through the drug stores of America it doesn't take long for the good news to spread — sales are enormous.

For over 30 years, Unguentine Cones have been giving quick, blissful relief from the burning, itching and agony of piles. But that isn't all. In most cases, Unguentine Cones cause distressing piles to shrink and the trouble is gone.

Do not neglect piles—you are inviting the knife if you do and operations are painful and expensive.

It costs but 75 cents to learn about the supreme healing and soothing power of Unguentine Cones—at all drug stores. The Norwich Pharmacal Co., Norwich, N. Y.

All In A Day

By Mark Hellinger

"AFTER READING your stuff for some time," writes Dudley H. Cohen, "I think I'll try my hand at the game. Here's a little yarn I picked up the other day. If I vouch for its authenticity, perhaps it will appeal to you. If not, there's no harm done.

"Dave was a bookkeeper. That's the job he held for 32 years and the chances were that, if he lived 32 years longer, he would still be holding the same job for the same concern. He's hardly the type of man you might consider as column material, eh, Mark? But let's see.

"The man's slavery was nothing to enthuse over, but you might take it for granted that he was a saving soul. He owned his own little home in Jersey, fooled around with his tiny garden and operated a battered flivver that puffed along in a strange fashion. He lived with his wife. And since they had never had any children to support, they had been able to get by in a liveable manner. Few pleasures, of course. But enough to eat and drink.

"About two years ago, his wife had taken ill and it had been necessary to call the doctors and a nurse. She recovered, but it took practically all of the meager savings to put her on her feet again. So Dave began to worry.

"He was 52 years of age. He was not growing younger by any means, and it frightened him to think what might happen if he should suddenly grow ill or lose his job. From whence would come the support he would need so badly?

"'If I only could get $10 more a week,' Dave began to tell himself, 'what a grand salvation that would be! I could put that $10 away each week where nobody would know about it. And then, when I grow old, I wouldn't have to worry as I'm doing now.'

"So, for the first time in his career, Dave began to harbor a dishonest thought. He had charge of the petty cash drawer—and he also kept the books. If he took the small sum of $10 each week, who would be the wiser?

"You would undoubtedly tell me, Mark, that Dave could have asked for that increase from his firm. That's what any man who had been employed for so long a time would have done. But Dave was a mouse-like creature who could never summon up sufficient nerve for such a request.

"The junior partner in the concern stopped at his desk one night and told him that he was going away for some time. This boss was the one man who supervised Dave's work and sometimes went over the books with him.

"'I'm going to be gone about six months, Dave,' he told the bookkeeper kindly. 'You'll be on your own until I get back. See that everything's kept in order, will you?'

"And the following night Dave stole his first $10 note and covered it on the books. . . .

"Just about six months later the junior partner returned to his office. The first thing he did was to give Dave a week's vacation.

"'Take this extra week's vacation with pay, Dave,' he asserted. 'And I congratulate you on your good work while I was gone.'

"Dave left his office that night rather weak in the knees. He had been taking that $10 a week ever since the junior partner had been gone. And even though he was fairly certain that he had covered himself in expert fashion, he knew there was always a chance of a slip-up somewhere.

"It was probably in the cards that the bookkeeper's petty thievery should be discovered. The junior partner went over the books and wrinkled his brow when he discovered some strange notations. If Dave had been brave enough to put on a front, it is extremely possible that he would have got away with it. But when they called him into the main office after his vacation and pointed to the notations, he broke down immediately and confessed.

"'I stole $10 every week,' he cried, 'and I'll return every penny of it to you. I took it only because I was afraid I wouldn't have any money for my old age. You won't put me in jail, will you?'

"The junior partner shook his head.

"'No, Dave,' he replied, 'you've been with us too long to have us do a thing like that to you. You will return the money to us, of course, and we will have to dismiss you. After you bring in the money tomorrow, you will draw your final pay and leave our employ. It's too bad, but it cannot be helped.'

"After the bookkeeper had left the office, the speaker turned to the senior partner.

"'It's too bad about Dave,' he mused. 'But what gets me is why you didn't do as I told you about that man. Don't you remember me telling you about him? Why didn't you do as I asked?'

"The partner shrugged his shoulders.

"'Tell you the truth, Jack,' was his response. 'Things were so busy around here after you left that I clean forgot about it. If I hadn't forgotten about it, I would have been only too happy to give him the $10 raise that you suggested.'" . . .

"OVER in Paris," reports Dave Murray, "French boxers use their feet when they are fighting and call the sport la savette. We have the same sport over here—only we call it bridge!" . . .

MR. Rian James, columnist of the Brooklyn Daily Eagle, is a prolific writer. His last endeavor, "Love Is a Racket," has a grand little inside yarn surrounding it.

When the book was completed, it had another title that the movie companies didn't like. Several of them informed Mr. James that if he changed the title, they would purchase the book for the movies. Whereupon the author wracked his brains and hit upon "Love Is a Racket," a swell title for both book and picture. The Warner Brothers outfit pounced upon the title and bought it immediately.

"Love Is a Racket," then, will soon be made with Richard Barthelmess as the star. But you know what has happened, don't you? Of course you do. The title has been changed to "Environment." . . .

McKees Rocks Fight on Bryan Renewed, Ally Held

SQUIRE UNDER $1,000 BAIL IN VOTE CASE

Accused of Stealing Sample Ballots; Independents Spur War on 'Machine'

Simultaneously with the arraignment of James J. Westwood, justice of the peace of McKees Rocks, and ally of Miles Bryan, political chieftain, last night on charges of election irregularities, the McKees Rocks Citizens Committee announced plans for another attempt to elect their candidates in the general election.

Westwood was held for court in $1,000 bail bond by Justice of the Peace William A. Thompson, of Bellevue, after a hearing in which he was charged with stealing sample ballots from the polling place in the Second District of the Second Ward, McKees Rocks. He was accused also of ignoring verbal orders of Judge Frank P. Patterson by remaining at the polls all day intimidating and interfering with voters.

OFFICER HELD

George Matovich, a special officer of McKees Rocks, was held for court in $5,000 bail by Justice Thompson on charges growing out of the arrest and beating of Andy Yerko, an Independent worker, a short time after Matovich had been held for court on a charge of election irregularities, October 9. Mike Legosh and Nick Vresco, named with Matovich, were held in $2,500 bail each. Matovich was charged with felonious assault and battery with intent to kill, inciting riot, assault and battery, conspiracy and surety of the peace. Legosh and Vresco were charged with inciting to riot and assault.

All of the Independent candidates who were defeated by the Bryan administration ticket in the primary will be backed by the reorganized Citizens' Committee, Frank P. Wilde, manufacturer and candidate for Council committee chairman announced. None of the candidates are on the ballot but a "sticker" campaign will be waged, voters pasting names of candidates they desire to cast their ballot for on the printed form.

Parents Rescue Babies As Fire Sweeps Home In Thornburg

Two children were carried to safety by their parents as fire early today routed two families from a duplex dwelling in Thornburg.

Mrs. Stillman, awakened by the flames, which started on the roof, aroused her husband, and they carried their two children, Phillip A., Jr., 3, and Audrey, 19 months, to safety.

The belongings of the Stillmans were burned and those of the Stauffers badly damaged by water.

Divorce Contest Address Incorrect

Mrs. Emma Wellens, who filed charges against Joseph R. Wellens, her former husband, and his second wife, declaring their Reno divorce illegal, does not live at 516 Aspen street, Mrs. Harry Wellens, a representative of the Wellens estate, said today. The Aspen street address was given as the first Mrs. Wellens' home, although she has since moved. The informations were made before Alderman Thomas A. Flanigan, who held the man and his second mate for court, declaring the Reno divorce was illegal here.

Laval Finds Our Treasury Has Big Watchdogs

By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER

Mr. Hoover feels pretty good since he saved the Navy band and Old Ironsides as the nucleus for the next fleet.

France and America own all the gold there is in the world. We'll give Mr. Laval a look at our minted sunshine so long as his object isn't matrimony.

Mr. Laval will be taken for a fast ride through the Treasury with no stop-overs.

We have plenty of frozen assets in the government vaults and Mr. Mellon's breath ain't thawing 'em out any.

And when Premier Laval faces Mellon, Morgan, Mr. Hoover and Borah, he will realize that the watchdog of the Treasury has had pups.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Oct. 23.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Scene in box stall in Rogers' home: Secretary of War Hurley eating Rogers' "fodder." Mr. Hurley, this is not for publication, but should the Philippines have their freedom? "Will, this is a good administration, you see if it ain't." "Now, Pat, you was 'n both China and Japan: Just what is their troubles?" "I'll tell you, Will: Hoover is a very warm, sympathetic man when you know him." "Mr. Secretary, will that Russian plan work?" "Listen, Will, they haven't got a soul they can run against us." So I just fed him and slept him for nothing. The next cabinet officer pays his board.

ARSON HINTED IN NOBLESTOWN HOTEL FIRE

Fire Chief Reports Cans of Gasoline on Third Floor; Will Ask Investigation

Fire which early today damaged the Panhandle Hotel, a landmark in Noblestown, to the extent of $10,000, was believed by Fire Chief Frank Dickson, of Oakdale, to have been of an incendiary origin.

Flames had eaten through the roof of the three-story frame hostelry when volunteer firemen from Oakdale and McDonald arrived. The blaze was extinguished after a battle of more than four hours. For a time it was feared that the flames would spread to nearby buildings.

Chief Dickson said the hotel, a 25-room structure, had been vacated three weeks ago. The fire started in a room on the third floor, where, Dickson reported, three five-gallons cans were found. One was filled with gasoline, another which, Dickson declared, had contained gasoline, was empty and the third had exploded. Furniture in the room had been reduced to kindling wood and saturated with gasoline, according to the fire chief.

Chief Dickson said he will ask Fire Marshal Thomas L. Pfarr to conduct an investigation.

PROWLER FLEES AMID BULLETS

Fleeing when Patrolman John Stagelman sought to question him in Dallas avenue at Thomas boulevard this morning, a suspected prowler was fired upon by the patrolman. The suspect escaped, though the officer fired three shots.

Patrolman Stagelman had been notified that a prowler was attempting to enter a house in McPherson boulevard. Two blocks from where the robbery attempt had been made, Patrolman Stagelman came upon the suspect.

$500 Homing Pigeons Feared Pie Victims

C. B. Wilkinson, a pigeon fancier, of 5808 Morrowfield avenue, is hoping that 15 homing pigeons which were stolen from a shed in the rear of his home uphold their reputations.

The pigeons, valued at $500, are said to be good racing birds and have always made speedy returns to their homes whenever taken away on trips. However, the thief may have been unaware of their being homing pigeons and may have prepared himself a choice pie.

Joseph Rabinovitz, of 1809 Bedford avenue, was robbed of $100 by two Negro bandits last night, according to a police report.

FAR EAST WAR ASCRIBED TO RAIL GRAB

Legal Advisor to China, Now Visitor Here, Analyzes Background of Conflict

China's network of railroad systems in the territory served by the Japanese line in South Manchuria is the underlying cause for the present conflict between the two nations, it was explained today by Prof. Jean Escarra, of Paris, legal advisor to China. He is at the William Penn Hotel.

Author of more than a score of legal books and an international authority on Chinese affairs, Prof. Escarra is here to address a dinner meeting of the Allegheny County Bas Association tonight in the City-County Building. He has been connected with the Chinese government since 1921.

Prediction that the present conflict would occur was contained in Prof. Escarra's last book, which was issued just prior to arriving in this country, October 8. Declaring the situation is the greatest international problem facing nations today, Prof. Escarra said:

"What the final outcome will be is a difficult problem to answer. There is no question that Japan's ultimate aim is to gain the territory of Manchuria. As to the treaty in 1905, it is doubtful Japan could present a copy containing the China government's signature. All nations are directly affected by the situation. The League of Nations has an important service to render in seeking a satisfactory settlement."

SCHOOL BOARD ASKED TO AID ECONOMY

Group Fighting For Reduced City Rates Widens Scope; Cost Paring Help Offered

Continuing its battle for reduced taxation in Pittsburgh and Allegheny County, launched with a request to the city to cut five mills from its 1932 taxes, the Building Owners and Managers Association has asked County Commissioners to "accomplish a reduction of at least one mill" in the county taxes for the same period.

The Commissioners today have a letter addressed to them by A. H. Clarke, president of the association, advising them of a resolution requesting the tax reduction, passed by the association Wednesday.

COUNTY CUT ASKED

It reads in part:

"We feel that it is only necessary to exercise strict economy in order to accomplish a reduction of at least one mill.

"We feel that there are a number of departments in the county set up with excess employes whose services might well be dispensed with. We are certain, also, from previous studies, that considerable economy can be exercised in the operation of county property.

"We would also like to have the County Commissioners consider the question of an immediate reduction in the personnel in the various county departments so that the unexpended balance in the county funds may be conserved for the balance of this year."

A second letter also has been received by the Board of Public Education, in which the association asks the Board to "consider seriously a reduction in their budget with a resultant decrease in school tax millage.

SCHOOL ECONOMY URGED

Mr. Clarke pointed out in his letter that:

"Real estate taxes have risen rapidly in the past few years, and we feel that it is absolutely essential to provide a measure of relief. We have the utmost confidence in the entire membership of the Board of Public Education, and we feel that the Board has done most excellent work in its field during the past five years.

"We also feel that the time is at hand when serious consideration must be given to the burden which the property owner is attempting to carry."

The letter informed the Board that the association would like to attend its budget hearings and offered its assistance in the consideration of the budget.

Italy to Honor Five Killed on Sea Flight

ROME, Oct. 23.—(AP.)—In memory of the five men who died during an Italian formation flight to South America last winter, Gen. Italo Balbo plans to head a squadron of planes from Robetello to Bolama, Portuguese West Africa, in December.

On Christmas Day he and his pilots will be at Bolama to dedicate a monument to the five men who were killed there last January 6 in the takeoff of the South American fleet.

Chooses Jail Over Telling Rum Source

James Monahan, 43, "City," arrested downtown last night charged with drunkenness, in Central Police Court today, chose jail rather than tell where he obtained moonshine. He said:

"I would rather go to jail than be a stool pigeon and a squawker."

He was fined $2 with the option of three days in jail.

Wife Finds Husband Shot Dead in Bed

Michael Bach, 57, of 7 Lennox street, Linhart, was found dead in his bedroom this morning by his wife.

His revolver lay beside him and there was a bullet wound through his chest. Mrs. Bach told police her husband had been brooding over ill health for some time.

NAILS STOP CAR, DRIVER ROBBED

Two armed men were sought today by police after they are alleged to have scattered roofing nails along the highway and then robbed a motorist of his automobile and a small amount of money when he stopped to repair a tire.

According to police, the pair held up and robbed James Kirkpatrick, 22, of 1233 Biltmore avenue, Dormont, in Library road, near Finleyville, after he had stopped his machine to repair a tire punctured by two of the nails. They took a small amount of money and drove away in his automobile after telling the victim to keep walking.

CRANE TOPPLES INTO CREEK

A 50-ton crane, working on construction of the North Side-West End Bridge at West Carson street, near South Main, toppled 20 feet into Sawmill Run Creek today. Half a dozen laborers barely missed being crushed to death as the gigantic machine lurched over on its side.

The engineer, Frank J. Kubik, leaped to safety as the crane fell.

He said the crane was lifting a two-ton stone when one of its "crawlers," a caterpillar tractor type device on which the machine traveled, came loose swinging the crane suddenly off the P. & L. E. Railroad abutment from which it was working and plunged into the creek.

Deserted Bride and Wife Of 29 Years Divorced

Two minors were divorced by Judge Joseph M. Swearingen on the ground of wedding day desertion by the groom, Sophia O'Neill, through her father, James Crawford, 1426 Eckert street, obtained the decree from Paul J. O'Neill, represented by his father, Patrick O'Neill, 502 Hawkins avenue. Both were 17 when they were married July 1, 1929. She testified:

"At the wedding celebration that night, he took his mother and sister home and he never returned. I waited two hours for him and went to bed, leaving the door open. Later at a dance he told me he was not working and not to bother with him."

Deserted after 29 years of married life, Mrs. Edith Mae Beech, Rebecca street, Wilkinsburg was granted a divorce from Charles Beech, Wood street, Wilkinsburg, by Judge Harry H. Rowand in Common Pleas Court.

They were married April 18, 1900, and have eight children, mostly adults. Mrs. Beech testified he left her September 13, 1929, she said:

"He just walked away. I made no effort to have him come back. He has carried on the same way for the last 28 years and we could not put up with it any longer. He was always in debt."

Poor Improvement Scrip Replaces Cash 'Handouts'

Pittsburghers need no longer dole out cash to the city's unfortunates who accost them on the street seeking aid for food or lodging.

Under a novel plan adopted by the Pittsburgh Association for the Improvement of the Poor, charitably inclined Pittsburghers may obtain books containing coupons entitling holders to meals or lodgings at either branch of the association at 428 Duquesne way or 1001 Webster avenue.

E. W. Shepard, secretary, announced that one book containing 10 coupons for meals may be obtained at a cost of $1 and another containing coupons for eight meals and six free lodgings may be purchased for $2.

DINNER CLOSES RETAIL BUREAU SESSIONS

Adjustments to Comply With Consumer Demand Stressed By Educator

Adaptation of production and distribution to meet the consumer demand was predicted as the next important step of industry to overcome profitless days, by Dr. Paul H. Nystrom, professor of school of business, Columbia University, before the annual conference dinner of the Research Bureau of Retail Training, University of Pittsburgh.

The dinner last night closed a three-day conference at the William Penn Hotel in which executives of nine local and 13 out-of-town department stores participated. Dr. Nystrom was the principal speaker. David R. Craig, bureau director, made the closing remarks and Philip J. Reilly, of the Retail Research Association, of New York, was toastmaster.

Dr. Nystrom described the progress of business over a span of years, declaring:

"The difficulty of earning and maintaining a net profit is the chief problem facing business today. It is a condition that prevails during periods of expansion as well as during depressions. During our best years such as 1927 and 1928 there were large numbers of concerns and even industries, as a whole, which earned no net profits."

Relative, Comrades Admit Embellishing Tube Entry; Sentences Are Suspended

Peter I. Coyne, of 256½ McKee place, said to be a nephew of State Senator James J. Coyne, and three other youths pleaded guilty to malicious mischief in Criminal Court yesterday as an aftermath of painting a huge "Coyne for Commissioner" sign at the entrance to the Liberty Tubes a few days before the primary election.

Judge Frank P. Patterson suspended sentence and placed the costs on the four, saying:

"The Court can understand that, seeing signs all over the county, you became overzealous. You must not let your enthusiasm get the better of you. I will hold this over you in case you should do a similar act again."

The other three were Regis Leheny, 109 Oakland avenue; Edward McCafferty, Jr., 4011 Beechwood boulevard; and Guy Caraccia, 2015 Broadway. All were arrested under fictitious names, they admitted.

18 New Cases Put Under Quarantine

The City Department of Health today reports these new cases in quarantine: Scarlet fever, 5; diphtheria, 2; chicken pox, 1; mumps, 1; measles, 2; whooping cough, 1, and pneumonia, 6.

BALK PROPOSAL TO CURB AUTOS

Recommendation that less use of privately owned automobiles and increased use of trolley cars be urged by municipalities to decrease taxes through fewer street widening projects and improvements today was back in the public utility committee after rejection by the American Society of Municipal Engineers' convention in the William Penn Hotel.

The convention, closing its meetings today with an open forum on unemployment relief, took recognition that one committee member dissented from the recommendation. Gerald J. Wagner, consulting engineer of Grand Rapids, was the committee chairman.

The committee report cited that street railways carry an excessive burden in taxes. Commenting on better roads, street widenings and openings to accommodate the use of privately owned automobiles, it stressed that the public seems indifferent to the continued operation of what the report termed the more economical means of mass transportation.

Judge Drew's Father Wills $15,000 Estate

The will of John Drew, father of Justice James B. Drew, of the State Supreme Court, was filed today, disposing of a $15,000 estate to his six children, John J., James B., Raymond J., Mrs. Mary Dolan, Mrs. Helen Steele and Mrs. Mathilda Bonini. The Commonwealth Trust Company was named executor. While the will was signed "John Drhew," the papers filed by the executor said he was generally known as John Drew.

4 PLACES FACE DRY PADLOCKS

Four temporary injunctions for alleged violation of the prohibition laws were granted today in Federal Court. Names of the alleged proprietors and the premises mentioned in the complaints are described as:

Saloon in alley, rear of Carver street, East Liberty, Harry Miller; saloon, second floor, 4104 Penn avenue, Lawrence Wrobel; store and drinking room, first floor, 64 South Nineteenth street, Sam Gentry; and saloon, first floor, 1720 Fifth avenue, James W. Shireman.

Final hearings will be held December 22.

Receivers Named For Two Concerns

Robert C. Sproul today was named receiver for Max H. Miller and Joseph Rosenberg, trading as the National Men's Hat Shops. Their principal store is at 3713 Forbes street.

Anthony J. Barone, of Pittsburgh, today was appointed receiver for Nicholas P. Jardano, real estate operator and builder, who recently filed a voluntary bankruptcy petition. Barone posted a $5,000 bond.

Water Works Group Names Pittsburghers

Four Pittsburghers were named members of the executive committee of the Pennsylvania Water Works Association at its annual convention in Atlantic City. They were W. C. Hawley, chairman, Wilkinsburg; Morris Knowles, John S. Cole and J. N. Chester. John N. Murdoch, Jr., of Washington, Pa., was elected president.

Iron Bed Firm Faces Bankruptcy Action

Involuntary bankruptcy proceedings were filed in Federal Court today against the Pittsburgh Iron Folding Bed Company, by four petitioners charging debts of $19,495.85.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Agnes M. Baker.

Funeral services for Mrs. Agnes Moreland Baker, wife of Prof. Manley B. Baker, Queens University, Kingston, Ontario, will be conducted Saturday afternoon by the Rev. Dr. A. R. Robinson in the T. B. Moreland chapel. Interment will be made in Homewood Cemetery. Mrs. Baker died Wednesday.

Mrs. Baker was the daughter of the late Louisa Thompson and Thomas B. Moreland, and was born in Pittsburgh. She had lived in Hamilton and Kingston, Canada, during her married life. Mrs. Baker leaves two sisters, Mrs. John Porter, of McKeesport, and Mrs. J. H. Coleman, of Wheeling, W. Va., and a brother, Thomas B. Moreland.

Thoburn Funeral.

Funeral services for the Rev. Dr. Thomas R. Thoburn, 62, pastor of Trinity Methodist Episcopal Church of Detroit and former pastor of Christ Methodist Episcopal Church, Pittsburgh, who died Monday afternoon in Detroit, will be held tomorrow at 3:30 p. m. Burial will be in Knollwood Cemetery, Cleveland.

Dr. Thoburn was born in Bellaire, O., and attended Mt. Union College, Alliance, O., and Boston Theological Seminary.

Doyle Funeral.

Funeral services for Mrs. Dorothy Doyle, of 120 Newburn drive, Mt. Lebanon, wife of Ned Doyle, managing editor of the Pittsburgh Press, who died Wednesday night in St. Joseph's Hospital, will be held in St. Louis, probably Saturday. Mrs. Doyle died from pneumonia which developed while she was recovering from injuries received in an automobile accident near Finleyville 10 days ago. She came here several months ago from Cleveland, where Doyle was managing editor of the Cleveland Press. Besides her husband she leaves two children, John, 10, and Elizabeth, 5; her mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Steen, of St. Louis; three sisters and two brothers.

WELFARE FUND DISPOSITION REVEALED

More Than Half Designed For Public Works Wages; 20 Per Cent For Direct Aid

The proportion of distribution of the $5,981,184 which the Welfare Fund and the Allegheny County Emergency Association expect to raise in their joint campaign November 9 to 23 was announced today by George P. Rhodes, budget committee chairman.

More than 20 per cent will be used for direct relief of families and individuals, while more than 50 per cent will go toward the wages of workmen employed on emergency public works construction projects through the Emergency Association.

Fourteen organizations specializing in the care of children will receive nearly 5 per cent, and 6.3 per cent will go to the Public Health Nursing Association, the Pittsburgh and Allegheny Milk and Ice Association, the Pittsburgh Housing Association and eight other organizations devoted to health betterment and sanitation programs, Rhodes said.

Eighteen organizations, such as the Boys' Club of Pittsburgh, the Woods Run Settlement, the Boy Scouts and the Y. M. C. A. will receive 7.9 per cent of the funds raised.

General service agencies, including the Federation of Jewish Philanthropies, the Pittsburgh Federation of Social Agencies and the Public Charities Association will receive 1.3 per cent.

Union Mine Wage Conference Fails

A conference of officials of the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Corporation and officers of District No. 5, United Mine Workers of America, ended late yesterday without any agreement on the 15 per cent reduction in wages, proposed by the company, and working conditions. The conferees are subject to the call of Samuel Purseglove, president of the company.

The company operates five mines, located at Coverdale, Castle Shannon, Avella, Mollenauer and Horning.

WOMAN KILLED BY TROLLEY IN DODGING AUTO

Motorist Gravely Injured in Collision; Pedestrian Hurt When Struck by Truck

Frightened as a speeding automobile passed her, Mrs. Sophia Irwin, of 4056 Cambronne street, North Side, stepped into the path of a street car in West Liberty avenue at Pauline avenue, and was fatally injured. She died a few hours later in Mercy Hospital.

Albert H. Davis, 39, of 1549 Beechwood boulevard, suffered a possible fracture of the skull late last night when his automobile was in collision with a machine driven, police say, by William H. Clay, 36, Negro, of 7234 Monticello street. Davis is in Montefiore Hospital.

OWN GIRLS FACE PITT DOCTOR

One of the duties of Dr. Auleene Marley Jamison, new medical adviser to women at the University of Pittsburgh, is to pass on the health of the pupils at the Falk Elementary School. Each day, as she makes this examination, she is greeted by the smiling faces of her own daughters, June and Dorothy, pupils in the Falk school.

Dr. Jamison was appointed recently by Dr. Ellis M. Frost, director of the University Student Health Service. Dr. Jamison at one time was associated with the national board of the Y. W. C. A. in New York, and this organization assigned her to work at the Grenfell Hospital in Labrador. She spent six months in the North country.

Dr. Jamison is the wife of the Rev. S. Herbert Jamison, pastor of the Hampton United Church, in Hampton Township, where she resides.

SHAW UPHOLDS PROHIBITION

LONDON, Oct. 23.—(AP.)—The direct results of prohibition in the United States have been "eminently successful in every way," George Bernard Shaw told the World Prohibition Federation yesterday, but he asserted some of the indirect results were "very curious." He said:

"There's an industry called bootlegging in America, and its profits are so large that the people who conduct it have immense sums for the corruption of justice. In some of the eastern states this corruption of the police and the bench has meant that the work of the bootleggers has become quite safe.

"That is a very serious result, but it is not a reason for going back on prohibition. Rather is it a reason for the reorganization of law and order."

Rittenhouse Robber Suspect Identified

Identified as one of the three armed robbers who early Sunday morning attempted to hold up the Rittenhouse Hotel, 201 Collins avenue, according to police, Albert Balsamico, 21, of 527 Chianti street, is being held by East End police. Search is being made for his two alleged accomplices in the Rittenhouse holdup. Elmer Diamond, 25, night clerk, was beaten on the head and his clothing was ripped with a revolver bullet. Police say Balsamico admitted several store robberies and named his accomplices.

Vatican to Accept Spain's Ambassador

MADRID, Oct. 23.—(AP.)—The Vatican will not sever relations with Spain because of recent anti-religious legislation and is willing to accept as the Spanish Ambassador Luis Zulueta, previously refused, it was learned in authoritative Catholic sources yesterday.

Perfect No Trump Bridge Hand Dealt Here

A perfect no trump hand containing four aces, four kings, four queens and the jack of hearts was dealt to Jack Rosenberg, 5543 Forbes street, in a contract bridge game at the home of Mrs. Charles Reizenstein, 306 South Aiken avenue, last night.

Playing with Rosenberg were Mrs. Reizenstein, Louis Reizenstein and Edward Blistein. Rosenberg bid and made seven no trump, scoring a total of 1,895 points for the hand in addition to 500 points for the game.

All four are veteran bridge players and declared they never before had seen this high hand dealt.

PITT COACH ON AIR TONIGHT : Jess Carver With Pat Flanagan : MANY HEADLINERS BILLED

WE NOW PRESENT

By Darrell V. Martin
Radio Editor

IT'S HARD TO hurtle this first paragraph without reminding you that the Pitt-Notre Dame game at South Bend, Ind., tomorrow, will be broadcast by WJAS, starting at 2:45, with Pat Flanagan and Jess Carver announcing the contest play by play . . . The broadcast will be brought to Pittsburgh by courtesy of the C. R. Rogers Company, Philco distributors in the tri-state area . . . As a forerunner of tomorrow's broadcast we shall hear what Jock Sutherland, Pitt coach, thinks about the game over WJAS at 10:30 tonight . . . Two of the three sport reviewers on Pittsburgh stations have picked Notre Dame to defeat Pitt . . . Bill Murray of WJAS is Pitt's lone ally . . . his theory of one touchdown, Pitt, stirred up much ethereal comment last night . . . The sport reviewers are unanimous in predicting a Purdue victory over Carnegie Tech.

Seems odd to have Paul Whiteman and Ferde Grofe opposing each other at the same hour over different stations (KDKA, WCAE, 10), but you will be glad to know we're sure that these boys are the Damon and Pythias of radio in Chicago . . . Paul acts like a Dutch uncle to Ferde and Ferde always has oodles of praise for Paul.

Question a Day:

I have been told that the actors in "The Goldbergs" are all Gentiles. If so, they have marvelous mastery of dialect. Will you please answer in "We Now Present?"—M. G., Scottdale.

Answer—All regular members of the cast are Jewish.

C. W. Horn, general engineer of NBC and former operations manager of KDKA, WBZ and KYW, has invented a new device which will enable his network to pick up foreign broadcasts "as clearly as those put on here at home." Mr. Horn tested the setup yesterday, picking up a short wave conversation with O. B. Hanson, NBC manager of plant operation, direct from Berlin "with the same clarity of a Pittsburgh to New York telephone conversation," he wired us.

Lloyd C. Thomas (KDKA) postcards us from his ranch in Crawford, Neb., 4,000 miles of open country, 4,500 feet altitude . . .

The Edison tributes on the radio were skilfully presented, particularly the NBC eulogy the other night . . .

CBS has purchased WCCO, St. Paul outright . . . Henry A. Bellows, vice president of Columbia, will remain as president of the operating company . . .

A rabbi, a priest and a minister are to tell on WCAE next week how they think war can be averted . . .

Sir Hubert Wilkins, Carveth Wells, Capt. Bob Bartlett are among the explorer to participate in a special program over NBC-WEAF next Thursday afternoon . . .

Tonight is Westell Gordon's fifth anniversary with Maj. Bowes' Radio Family . . . he will sing two of his own compositions, "Far Away Bells" and "One Little Dream of Love" . . .

A far sighted gentleman has asked NBC to reserve him a seat in the main studio for New Year's Eve . . .

Sousa's Band, Pryor's Band and the Revelers Quartet have been merged into one of radio's greatest combinations to be heard twice a week over NBC-WCAE starting Saturday, October 31, at 9 p. m. and Tuesday, November 3, at 8:30 . . . Sousa and Pryor are to alternate, Sousa playing the Saturday engagements and Pryor on Tuesday . . .

G. F., Lawrenceville — Dick Powell is m. c. at the Ambassador Theater in St. Louis and broadcasts occasionally over KMOX . . . the stage strike was to have been settled today, but it appears that the theaters and musicians are more hopelessly deadlocked than before . . .

Amos 'n' Andy have published a book . . . the preface by Irvin S. Cobb . . .

Jimmy Joy's beautiful brunette wife has packed her hubby's bag for St. Paul, Minn., where Joy is to play over WCCO and the Columbia network starting Saturday, October 31. . . .

Ray Perkins, NBC jester, has named Wayne King's airplane "Peacock"—because it has wings and struts . . .

A "Corn Belt Derby"—with an ear by ear account—is scheduled for NBC from Grundy Center, Iowa, Friday, November 13. . . . several mikes are to be carried right into the Iowa cornfields.

Ely Culbertson, whose contract bridge technique has been the cause of widespread controversy, will defend his system of play over WCAE next Wednesday night at 10:30.

The Loudspeaker

— By — LOUIS REID

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—When mandarins of the NBC snare a distinguished visitor to America they invariably lead him to their choicest studio, marked L, bid him speak to the nation amid the pleasing comforts of Colonial furniture and decoration. It is this room which is unlocked for visiting kings, statesmen, the more famous nationalists, and, upon occasion, even the more famous of the internationalists.

Latest of the more famous internationalists to occupy it is H. G. Wells. For 11 minutes he read his words on present-day civilization, words that have become familiar to his public, but words because of the sincerity and force behind them usually command rapt attention.

He knows what he wants from the broadcasters, does Wells. And he wants no company in the studio. He wants every mechanical detail to be worked out well in advance. He sits at a desk, his script in front of him. Opposite, also seated, is a studio attache, his hands—palms down on the desk like an attendant at a spiritualist seance. The hands are Wells' signals. They are to be raised when greater voice volume is necessary. Otherwise, they are to remain inert, indicating all is well.

* * *

The other night the hands never moved and Wells went through his ordeal successfully. Like most Britishers on the radio his voice goes up and down the scale. It is the most distinguishing mark of British speakers, this constant falling and rising of inflection. Wells indulges in it more than Shaw. But his voice is not as good as Shaw's. It is high-pitched, given to accent. And he breathes noisily into the microphone.

* * *

He looks more like a prosperous English tradesman than one of the most noted of English authors, affects brown sack suits, broad shoes. He is short and stocky. His feet are small. His face is ruddy. There is a twinkle in his eye even when he is physically weary as he was the other night when he broadcast.

He had come direct from Harvard's victory at West Point. The excitement of the game, first American football match he had ever seen, had exhausted him. He was glad of the four minutes of meditation allotted him at the end of his talk. As he waited for the emergency pianist to finish the broadcast he seemed to be saying to himself, "Thank Allah, Mr. Britling sees it through."

DAILY TRUE STORY — THE MISSING EMERALD

Burglar Mistakes Author For Clever Detective

Some said that it was "pretty soft" for Dane Hammersley to be living in a bungalow adjoining the rather magnificent estate of Melton Jerrold.

This was because Dane was an author and Jerrold was the head of the Jerrold & Jerrold book publishing house.

Bunce Innis, who did ghost writing, and Selma Thorpe, who did the Daily Shopper department for the Express, often talked about this.

Bunce Innis did his work in a corner of the Sunday room of the Express. Naturally, he met Selma quite frequently. Both of them had great yearnings to write and sell a novel. Each one had accomplished the first step—that of writing a novel—but the selling part had not been achieved.

Naturally, since both of them knew Dane exceedingly well, they discussed his success. He had put across two novels that were selling amazingly well and he was working on his third.

And while Bunce Innis was rather envious of the fact that Dane was so well acquainted with Jerrold the elder, Dane was quite envious of Bunce, because he was so much in proximity to Selma Thorpe.

This was because Dane was in love with Selma, and also because he knew that Bunce was in love with her, while the charming Selma continued to seemingly remain neutral, giving no hint as to which young man she preferred, or as to whether there might be still some other young man who had won her affections.

STEADY INCOME

If this third novel went over Dane would be in a position to not only ask Selma to become Mrs. Dane Hammersley, but to marry and support her in the event that she consented.

Bunce had his steady income. For a couple of years Dane had been scrimping along on small savings, writing his novels and praying for royalties to start. Hence he couldn't do any more toward getting married than to think about it.

"Imagine falling into such luck!" Bunce said to Selma as they were chatting for a few minutes in the Sunday room of the Express.

"Yes—and still and all, perhaps Dane was foxy—perhaps it was cleverness and keen foresight that led him to getting that bungalow next to the Jerrold estate," Selma said in all seriousness. She was like that, trying to be fair.

"Of course," Bunce said sourly, "you'd be for Dane—he has made good."

"I like Dane," Selma confessed, turning rather red. Bunce, the dope, saw this and believed that Selma was blushing because he had made her admit liking Dane.

Now, as a matter of fact, Selma's sudden color was due to the fact that what Bunce had said angered her. If Bunce had ever had a chance to win Selma, his insinuation that she was the sort to count financial success above genuine affections had lost him his chance with her.

SELMA DOUBTFUL

"At any rate, Jerrold published Dane's first two novels, and now that he is a summer neighbor and chummy, he can practically put anything over that he writes," Bunce went on.

"I don't know," Selma replied.

"Yes, you do, and so do I. We've both written novels—and good novels. All right—what happens? Nothing in the acceptance line. But mark my words, Selma, if we were chummy with Melton Jerrold the way Dane is, we would have our manuscripts accepted at once."

"Fiddlesticks."

When Dane ran into town on some errand and took Selma out for luncheon, she made herself as agreeable and as charming as possible. She had high hopes that Dane would propose.

And Dane wanted to propose. But he was a cautious young man. He couldn't quite afford it. Not yet.

"How is the new opus, Dane?" Selma asked.

"Two-thirds done and, honestly, Selma, I'm somewhat discouraged. I have a vivid hunch that Mr. Jerrold won't like it—or that his readers will turn thumbs down on it. He seldom goes back on his readers' verdict."

"I don't see why you think so. If you got two novels over it stands to reason you can do a third even better."

"I hope so, Selma—more than you know. If it goes over I can—if—"

"What?"

"Do lots of things, Selma."

"Such as?"

"Getting married."

"Do I know the fortunate girl?"

"You sleep with her."

Selma's heart leaped, but it wouldn't do to appear to guess.

"I do not—I always sleep alone."

"Oh! Oh, you Dane—"

Selma glanced down at a certain finger on her left hand. It was unadorned. She hoped Dane would take the hint.

TITLE OF NOVEL

"If the 'Missing Emerald'—" Dane checked himself.

"Did you lose an emerald?" Selma gasped. Perhaps he had bought one for her and lost it.

"My dear, 'The Missing Emerald' is the title of the novel I am working on. If it goes and if you say the right word, which is an affirmative, I can afford matrimony."

"It will go—it will be a success—and even if it isn't we could manage."

"As if I'd let you struggle along like that!"

Selma sighed. But she was happy. Even if the novel flopped she believed that she could, after the eternal manner of woman, who makes the man believe he is doing the proposing, talk Dane into taking the plunge.

Dane wasn't quite so sure. Mr. Jerrold had not been enthusiastic over the novel as Dane had outlined it to him during their various little afternoon smoke-talks on the Jerrold terrace.

However, when Dane went back to the suburban bungalow he leased for the season he plunged into his work with a zest that gave promise of good results. Still, he had in the back of his find the doubts that Mr. Jerrold had expressed as to the salability of his novel.

It was about a week later that, unable to go ahead until he got a little more or better assurance from his publisher friend that the novel had a fighting chance, he sent over the five later chapters he had finished.

After the elapse of sufficient time for Mr. Jerrold to have read this—and all of this was on Mr. Jerrold's suggestion—Dane went over.

ADMITTED TO LIBRARY

Mr. Jerrold was not on the terrace, so Dane went up to the house and called. The new butler was there. Dane recalled that Jerrold's old butler was going home for a vacation and a substitute was to be secured.

"Bring him in," Jerrold boomed. The new butler took Dane into the library, where Jerrold was just sealing a letter he had finished.

"I came," Dane said, hopefully, "to find out about 'The Missing Emerald'."

"Of course," Jerrold replied. He spoke to the butler, who was just about making his exit. "Some of that for my guest," he said.

Dane saw then that the butler had been mixing a highball when he called.

"Well, Mr. Jerrold, how about 'The Missing Emerald'?" Dane asked.

"You're the detective, young man—you tell me," Jerrold said.

The new butler slopped a little of the choice Scotch as he was pouring it into a glass for Dane.

"Inside job, eh? Well, I wish you luck."

PLAY BACKGAMMON

"Frankly," Mr. Jerrold said, "the plot is rather hackneyed. You're the doctor, of course. And don't tell me to concoct a better plot. I can't. A hen, you know, lays eggs, but she's a mighty poor judge of an omelet. Try and snap it up, young man—get a new angle to it or I doubt if we can take the risk of publishing it."

"I'll do that," Dane promised, but he was secretly terribly depressed. He didn't believe he could create anything new in a plot.

"You have to go some—every mystery tale almost, has a missing emerald. If, in real life, as many emeralds were stolen, it would be absurd."

They talked of many other things, and, to please Jerrold, Dane remained and played backgammon with him for the better part of an hour.

Then Dane went back to his bungalow. He was going to sit and stare into his typewriter until he made a brand new plot come forth and leap into his mind—so he thought.

As he sat down and lighted his pipe he saw something glitter beside his typewriter. It was green and beautiful. He picked it up and gasped—he recognized it—there was a fine platinum chain on it. It was Mrs. Jerrold's emerald pendant.

And there was a note beside it.

"I see you are a wise young detective," the note said, "so I am taking a chance of leaving this here and letting you get the credit of finding it. This will help you and give me time to lam."

TELEPHONES SELMA

He hammered away at his typewriter all through the night. He slept a few hours in the morning and wrote all the next day and half the night.

After another bit of sleep he sent his manuscript over to Mr. Jerrold in the morning. By noon he got a telephone call to come over.

"It's a clever plot—but too much of a coincidence for me to believe—"

"I know. Here's the emerald and the note—and where is your new butler?"

"Well, I'll be damned! He disappeared two days ago. We didn't miss Mrs. Jerrold's emerald until this morning. I have got to hand it to you—planning this and putting it through, just to convince me that it was a probable plot. Finish the last few chapters. I want to rush it to press the first of the month—and now how about a game and a drink?"

"I'd like to telephone first, please."

He went to the library telephone. Mr. Jerrold, out on the terrace, heard him say:

"Selma?—marriage bureau at 10 tomorrow—lease this bungalow indefinitely—darling—"

Mr. Jerrold grinned. He was pleased, for he knew that once this promising young novelist was married he would have to write well—and when there arrived hostages to fortune he would have to write still better.

Traffic Tied Up By 'All Stop' Semaphore

INDIANAPOLIS, Oct. 23.—(AP.)—The safest place for pedestrians was Traffic Officer Ferdinand Pinchum's corner here yesterday.

With a new semaphore, Pinchum took his post near the auditorium where 15,000 school teachers were to gather in convention. As soon as he set up his sign, automobile drivers on both streets brought their cars to a halt.

While pedestrians scurried across the pavement in safety, he switched the signal for East and West traffic to move. None did. He blew his whistle, and shouted at the drivers. None budged.

Finally some one told him. His sign was a four-direction stop signal. A careless stenciler had omitted the word "go."

Man Shoots Self After Church Fete

SHARON, Pa., Oct. 23.—Shortly after returning from a church supper, Henry Roy Cross, 28, of Blacktown, father of four children, shot and killed himself while sitting in his automobile in the garage at his home.

DENIES ALPERN 'CLEANUP' PLAN

C. V. Shoup, campaign manager for Louis Alpern, Liberal party nominee for County Commissioner, addressing a noon meeting yesterday in Alpern's headquarters in the Plaza Building, deplored what he termed current reports that "a wholesale housecleaning was in prospect among County employes in the event of certain Commissionership candidates being elected." Shoup said:

"The 'squire' does not subscribe to the belief that 'to the victor belongs the spoils.' Alpern has made no definite promises, but he does say that every man and woman that performs his or her duty in a faithful manner must be retained, even though that man or woman votes in a manner distasteful to the Commissioners."

Flier Taunts Wife Until Plane Lands Him in Jail

HAMMOND, Ind., Oct. 23.—(AP.)—A bright red airplane has been bothering Mrs. Robert Quigley, but it looks now as though it will not annoy her any more.

In it was her husband, who, she said, went across the state line into Illinois ahead of a warrant charging non-support. Then he bought an airplane, she complained, "just to taunt me with" and from the safety of the sky would glide down over his wife's house and then scoot back over the state line. She would say:

"But wait."

Yesterday the waiting ended. The bright red plane came down as usual, but it dipped too far and nose-dived into a tree.

Another Man Held In 'Numbers' Raid

County detectives, acting on information to the District Attorney's office, raided another place in the city late today when they reported finding evidence of "numbers racket" activity in the confectionary store of Max Coffee at 66 Logan street.

Coffee was arrested and arraigned before Alderman Thomas Flanigan, who held him for court on a charge of maintaining a lottery. Several boxes of "numbers books" were offered in evidence, it was said.

Produce Traffic Here Down, Pennsy Shows

The Pennsylvania Railroad has moved 10 per cent more fresh fruits and vegetables this year than last, according to announcement by the railroad. The total in 1931 has been 300,000 carloads. Of this total, 22,609 carloads have been received at the Pittsburgh terminal, about 6 per cent below 1930. At present the receipts are about equal to those of last year at this period.

BOY, 16, HELD IN MURDER

CHICAGO, Oct. 23.—(AP.)—A 16-year-old boy was charged by police today with fatally shooting Mrs. Agnes Levander, 35, on February 18, 1930, and attacking Mrs. Jane Meyers, 53, last Tuesday night.

Both crimes, to which police said the boy, Vernon Royals, confessed, took place on lonely spots near a Forest Glen railroad station.

Royals was arrested near the scene of the crimes. Mrs. Meyers, who is under the care of a physician, identified him yesterday. Describing the slaying, Royals was quoted as having said:

Turfman in Crash Dies of Heart Attack

Free Samples At Druggists Of Two New Vick Products

Every User of Vicks VapoRub Entitled to a Free Trial of Its New Allies—Vicks Nose & Throat Drops and Vicks Medicated Cough Drops.

INTRODUCES NEW IDEA

TO REDUCE "COLDS-TAX"

Following years of research on the problem of colds and their increasing cost, Vick Chemists announce a new discovery—Vicks Nose & Throat Drops. Based on a new idea in preventing colds, it is a perfect ally to Vicks VapoRub, the modern and better method of treating colds. Together, they make possible the new Vick Plan of better Control of Colds in the home—and further reduction of the family "Colds-Tax" of time, money and discomfort.

Here is the Plan:

1.—Before a Cold Starts.

On exposure to colds or any of the causes that ordinarily lead to colds—(crowded indoor places—stuffy, poorly ventilated rooms—sudden temperature changes—wet and cold)—that slow down the normal functioning of the nose, Nature's marvelous "first line of defense against colds"—use Vicks Drops promptly. Or, if a cold actually threatens—when you feel that first stuffy, sneezy irritation of the nasal passages—a few drops up each nostril, and many annoying colds will be avoided.

2.—When a Cold Strikes.

Use the convenient Vicks Drops during the day—anytime, any place—as often as needed for comfort and relief. At bedtime, rub Vicks VapoRub well over throat and chest and cover with warm flannel. Leave bedclothing loose around the neck so the medicated vapors can be inhaled all night long. This Vick Plan gives you a full 24-hour treatment. (If there is a cough, you will like another new Vick product—Vicks Cough Drops—actually medicated with ingredients of Vicks VapoRub.)

Trial Packages Free.

In order that every user of Vicks VapoRub may try the two new Vick products now being introduced, a supply of free trial packages of each has been sent to every druggist in the United States. Go to your druggist today and ask for yours. If, by any chance his supply is exhausted, send us the top of a Vicks VapoRub carton—or coupon from the VapoRub directions folder—and we will mail free samples direct to you, together with a folder on the new Vick Plan for Control of Colds in the home. Address Vick Chemical Co., 1001 Milton St., Greensboro, N. C.

TEMPERAMENT -:- Hollywood Gossips Wrong, Says Star -:- AMUSEMENTS -:- New Picture Reviewed Stage, Film Notes

Nancy Carroll Denies That She Ever Walked Out On Mr. Lubitsch

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 23.

She's an Irish redhead and they call her the most temperamental star in Hollywood. But Nancy Carroll tells me she never walked out on the Lubitsch picture, or did the other things Hollywood gossips have attributed to her.

She is particularly upset over rumors of a separation from Bolton Mallory, her husband of five weeks.

Nancy Carroll

"I had intended to quit pictures when I married," she says. "But when people said such mean things about me, I had to do at least one good film, just to show them. Mr. Lubitsch's picture ought to do that.

"Now, I may go on. I have one more year on my contract. Paramount tells me they will try to let me work at the Eastern studio. My husband wouldn't mind this. He only objects when I have to be away from him."

Nancy thinks the movies have done well by her. Four years in the films, she been a star for two.

We talked of the difficulties of marriage and a career. "With only two pictures a year, it won't be so bad," she says. "But I never want to come out here again without my husband. My marriage is more important to me than my career."

I HEARD TODAY

Lois Wilson is through at Universal. Her fine performance in "Seed" went to no avail. She made only one more picture, "Saint Johnson" . . . Paramount electricians call 1,000-watt incandescent lamps "Lupes." In Clara Bow's own studio, too . . . Janet Gaynor has gone to Palm Springs for a week's rest. She will finish her picture on her return . . . Junior Laemmle is in the Cedars of Lebanon Hospital for two weeks' treatment of hayfever . . . Someone on the Pola Negri set slyly recorded an argument between the star and Director Paul Stein. Storm music has been added and the strip of sound track is giving the whole studio a laugh. . . . Dick Arlen, Jobyna Ralston and Mr. and Mrs. Norman McLeod are flying to Vancouver, Lake Louise, Banff and back to Hollywood . . . Maurice Chevalier alibis his golf score: "These American balls are not used to my French swing." Doug Fairbanks tells me he never realized the possibilities of the French language until he played golf with Maurice.

Lois Wilson

JUST ONE BIG FAMILY

A Chinese custom I never knew about before is that natives with the same clan name regard each each other as cousins.

As a result, Anna May Wong has been besieged by all the Wongs among the Chinese extras in "Shanghai Express."

"You know me, Wong; me your cousin," is the stock line.

Which makes it confusing because there are 43 Wongs in the cast. Anna herself has never been in China.

It developes that Ginger Rogers is coming back to Pathe to play another lead opposite Bill Boyd in "Timber Beast." She did "Suicide Fleet" before going East.

JOHN CHARLES THOMAS

Thomas Gets Old Tune Requests

Jazz melodies have their supporters, but the oldtime favorites such as "Nellie Gray" and "In the Gloaming" are the leading request numbers for John Charles Thomas, popular concert and radio baritone, here for an Art Society concert in Carnegie Music Hall tonight.

Fan mail is the barometer by which Thomas, a native of Meyersdale, Pa., judges the favorites. Opera holds the mood of listeners, too, he said, which is evident that radio has proven the greatest aid to music. And radio is the favorite endeavor of this singer. The present tour of 93 concert dates, including a seven-week appearance with the Chicago Opera Company, will be his last extensive tour. Radio will occupy most of Thomas' attention beginning next year.

Not even the movies will be able to capture him. The baritone declared the present reproduction of voice for the silver screen had not reached a sufficient mark of perfection to do justice to a singer. He has had contract offers, but the radio and a few concert appearances hold his interest. The ability of reaching millions via the air over a maximum of 3,000 persons at a concert means most to Thomas, he said.

Lloyd Hughes Is Signed For Juvenile Lead

Lloyd Hughes, has been signed for the featured juvenile role in Columbia's "Unwanted," adapted from the legitimate drama by the same title, which is now in production.

Notes About Stage and Pictures

The Nixon will be dark next week, but on Monday, November 2, Earl Carroll's "Vanities" will come to that theater. Herb Williams, Jack Benny and Chaz Chase are among the featured comedians. Seat sale for the Carroll show will open at the Nixon box office Monday.

Aileen Pringle, Alice White, Hale Hamilton and Robert Elliott have the chief roles in "Murder at Midnight," opening tomorrow in the Harris. A new Hoot Gibson thriller also will be on the program.

* * *

OTHER BOOKINGS

"Bad Girl," with Sally Eilers and James Dunn, will open in the Enright Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. It will be followed Thursday by "Monkey Business," with the four Marx Brothers.

* * *

Next week the Avenue Cinema will present "Stage Struck," a German film, featuring Anny Ondra.

* * *

The runway, for ensemble work over the heads of the audience, will again make its appearance in the Academy with the Sunday midnight opening of "The Bohemians." Billy Shaw is to be featured.

'Blonde Baby' Is Next For Jean Harlow

Jean Harlow is enjoying her first vacation in some months, before starting work on "Blonde Baby" for Columbia. Miss Harlow, who has been greatly in demand since her debut in "Hell's Angels," recently finished another picture for Columbia, "Platinum Blonde," in which she appears with Loretta Young and Robert Williams.

Young Love

Fight Film, Sally in Fulton

By CLARENCE E. GRUNDISH

Sally O'Neil, with her eyes full of the old nick and her mouth full of slang, came to the Fulton yesterday in a talk screen version of the stage play, "The Brat." It is a light, amusing affair.

An added attraction on the bill is the Sharkey-Carnera fight pictures. The sports writers have said about everything that is to be said about this fight. So we take it we have done our duty with the mere announcement that the movie of the battle now is on display.

WEDS HIS BROTHER

In the picture story she is shown in the finale wedded to the novelist's younger brother.

Our Sally, in the title role, does all right. There are times, though, when she over-acts and "over-slangs."

Allan Dinehart puts across a good characterization as the novelist. Frank Albertson makes a boyish younger brother. J. Farrell MacDonald is a human butler. He interests because he differs somewhat from the usual Hollywood conception of such a manservant. Albert Gran is a rotund and smiling clergyman.

WHEN LADIES FIGHT

An entertaining scene in a police court comes early in the film. William Collier, Sr., does a clever bit as the judge in this. And then there is Louise Mackintosh, as an old hag, who once was the toast of Broadway. Even as an old lady, she's pretty good. If she'd been in the picture longer she probably would have walked away with it.

Incidentally, Sally puts up a fight with a high-toned young lady in the film that is a "knockout." There are moments when it makes the Sharkey-Carnera fray look like the League of Nations.

'Platinum Blonde' Gets Sunday Pre-View

"Platinum Blonde" will be shown at a special pre-view Sunday night at 8:30 o'clock in the Warner. It will then open a week's engagement in the Stanley, beginning Friday, October 30. City and state officials, newspapermen, doctors, lawyers and university officials will be guests at the pre-view.

Give Seth Parker Film New Title

"Way Back Home" is to be the title of the rural drama wherein Phillips Lord, "Seth Parker," is to make his talking-screen debut for Radio Pictures. Hitherto it was called "Other People's Business."

Plays, Players and By-Play

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

"Here Goes the Bride" will begin a week's engagement in the Alvin Monday, when Peter Arno presents Clark and McCullough in a new satirical musical comedy. Beginning in burlesque, Clark and McCullough graduated to vaudeville and the famous Music Box revues. Their more recent appearances include "The Ramblers" and "Strike Up the Band."

* * *

* * *

Lennox Robinson, who came to Pittsburgh to lecture on the Irish drama, is one of Erin's noted playwrights as well as being a director of the Abbey Theater, Dublin. That is the home of the Irish Players, who come to the Twentieth Century Club, for three nights and Carnegie Music Hall, the following two, opening in the former place Monday, November 2, with "The Playboy of the Western World." Two of the plays in the series, "The Far-Off Hills" and "The Whiteheaded Boy," are the work of Mr. Robinson.

* * *

Small Timer says he once rode with a driver who raced to beat a train to a railroad crossing, and prayed the contest wouldn't end in a tie.

Lew Cody Is Featured In Newspaper Film

Amid the clatter of sixteen typewriters, the offstage roar of printing presses and the shouts of "copy boy," the newspaper drama "X Marks The Spot," got under way in Hollywood.

Knowing full well that you were all I had—
I bowed assent and sadly watched you go,
Frail craft, indeed, to stand a lusty blow.

Each day I faced the challenge of your lure,
Each night your ghost played havoc with my dreams,
I searched in vain for any certain cure—
You wrecked and ravaged all my slender schemes.

But now, tonight, I know your reign is done—
Clear-eyed and gay I read your letters through,
And touch a match to kindle one by one
The record of a love that proved untrue;

And yet I know though I have ceased to care,
That heartbreak is a lovely wound to bear!

—Don Wahn.

Oh, Doctor!

The drama critics of New York have formed a Critics' Circle, patterned after the group of drama defenders in London. At the first meeting, Dr. Henry Moscowitz, of the Theater League (an invited guest), urged the reviewers to be merciful in their opinions and to avoid using wisecracks in their reports.

Why? Why not enliven the report of a dull show? Why not, when a show induces dozing, twit it in a sentence? Why not sum up "Cat and the Fiddle," frinstance, in a line—viz.: "Cat and Fiddlesticks?"

Why shouldn't the critic be readable and entertaining when the play isn't? Dr. Moscovitz headed a group to protect the public from the terrible ticket speculators. And what happened?

Classic

And what is more amusing than the wisecrack directed at that actor by one of the oracles who said:

Havanother

Or when Mr. Woollcott closed his review of a third-rate play by saying:

"It has an exceptional cast. It can do everything but act!"

By Way of Report

Add to the long list of life's practical jokes: Saturday for most people is pay-day.

Well, in 1932, when more people probably will be out of work than at any time in the history of the world, there will be 53 Saturdays instead of the usual 52.

You're welcome, Mr. Ripley.

Oh, Get Outta Here!

That Izzy Elinson person is in again. He insists that he knows a guy who has been stuck so many times signing notes—that he now goes around wearing boxing gloves!

Are Cartoonists People?

Walter Hoban, one of the better crayon-wreckers, relates the one about the newspaper artist who illustrated a story in which the principal figure was a society deb. He picked a paragraph that called for a picture of the girl's bedroom and did a very good job—except that he drew a trunk in one corner. He explained, when asked, that he had never seen a femme's cell that didn't have one.

Another cartoonist, nameless for the item, once made a likeness of Uncle Sam, with a mustache. He stared at the finished drawing for two hours before he realized what was wrong with the picture. Do you know?

Several winters ago the late Charles Dryden did a series of tales about a pag-legged sailor, who always rested his pine ankle against the side of his bed when he retired. A so-called artist illustrated one of these yarns by drawing the old salt in the hay with the trusty peg in its usual place.

But sticking from under the blankets were two bare feet!

Surefire Hit!

The radio canary, Welcome Lewis, has a novel plot all worked out for a four-act play using but one character and the entire action taking place in a phone booth.

In the first act—a man falls in love with himself. In act 2, he deceives himself. In act 3, he kills himself, and in the last act—the receiver falls off the hook in the phone booth and the audience is informed that the jury has brought in a verdict of the Unwritten Law!

Quiteso, Quiteso

B. A. Rolfe, the bandsman, was among hundreds who saw a show on a pass the other night.

"Let's sit near an exit," said Rolfe to his press agent. "If somebody throws a match into this 'paper' it'll be terrible!"

Of All Things!

We miscalculated our time for our brief talk on the airwaves last Tuesday evening. One of the items directed at South Bend, Ind., and the Notre Dame students was among others excluded. Have a chuckle: The still photos of the flicker, "The Spirit of Notre Dame," which are displayed in front of the Mayfair Theater, ought to burn up the students and knock them cold.

One of the photos shows the renowned Four Horsemen, all attired in football togs, and two of them are wearing wrist watches!

ROOSEVELT AND SMITH AT ODDS

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 23.—(AP.)—Two of New York's most famous Democrats and long political allies, Franklin D. Roosevelt and Alfred E. Smith, were at odds today over a $19,000,000 state reforestation measure.

Their difference has arisen over a proposed constitutional amendment to be voted on at a New York state election November 3. The amendment would authorize the state to spend $19,000,000 for the purchase of abandoned farm lands to be used for reforestation purposes.

Smith objects chiefly to a provision empowering the state to remove timber from these lands. He first attacked the amendment at a Tammany rally a week ago and last night in a statement reiterated his objections. Roosevelt supports the amendment, and on October 26 will voice his approval in a radio address.

Chief in Terror, Exploding Bottles Thought Shots

CHICAGO, Oct. 23.—(AP.)—Police Magistrate Frank Strange of suburban Elmwood Park, phoned the police headquarters. He cried:

"Help! Burglars are shooting through my back door!"

Investigating officers made a hurried trip to the Strange home, drew their pistols, and closed in upon the back porch.

Finding no burglars, they broke in.

DANCER GUILTY IN WIFE'S DEATH

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—(AP.)—Roy Schuster, 27, dancing instructor, was convicted last night of second-degree murder in connection with the death of his wife, Amy. He collapsed upon hearing the verdict, but was revived.

Mrs. Schuster was killed, May 2, in the office of her attorney, Israel Siegel.

The killing occurred, testimony given at the trial disclosed, when Mrs. Schuster threatened to have her husband jailed for failure to pay alimony pending her suit for separation. Schuster pleaded temporary insanity.

Bluenose Win Shown in Newsie

THE GLOBE TROTTER

The final contest of the fishermen's schooner race off the coast of Nova Scotia provides magnificent pictures for the current issue of Hearst Metrotone News, showing in the Penn and other theaters. The Bluenose, the Canadian entry, already holding the championship, again defeats the Gloucester schooner Gertrude Thebaud in an as exciting a race as was ever run. There is a graphic description by the Globe Trotter.

The end of the earthly existence of Thomas A. Edison forms an impressive picture. Thousands of persons, including hundreds of children from the public schools, pass in seemingly endless streams into the building at Menlo Park, scene of so many of the great inventor's triumphs. There are the men from the shops, too, side by side with the nation's great, paying homage to the giver of light and of so many other benefactions to mankind. The funeral is shown, too.

George Bernard Shaw, the British writer, recently returned from his trip to Russia, tells, through Hearst Metrotone News, how amazed and pleased he was to constantly meet Americans on his trip across Europe and into the land of the Soviet.

Night Risings Warn Kidneys Weakening

No matter how much you have been tortured by painful urinations, loss of sleep through having to get up at night, and backbreaking aches caused by bladder or kidney weakness, do not give up. You can secure prompt, grateful relief through Wildunger Tee, just as thousands have.

Wildunger Tee is a simple German herb preparation in which is combined the valuable mineral salts from the famous health springs at Wildunger Bad. A New York doctor was so impressed with the results obtained by European kidney sufferers that he brought Wildunger Tee to this country. Now it is prescribed by physicians here.

Get a box from your druggist. Use it all, according to the plain, simple directions on the package. Note how quickly it ends pain and weakness; how promptly it restores grateful comfort and calm, restful sleep.

Elements for Perfect Diet Contained in Milk

This valuable food will probably be always considered the most valuable single means of nutrition: every growing child should drink a quart of milk each day and each adult a pint.

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND,
Formerly Health Commissioner, New York City, United States Senator From New York.

In all the magazines, during the past few months, there has been much discussion concerning the vitamins. I hesitate to add more to the debate. But in connection with milk we cannot overlook the importance of these agents of good. On this account it seems wise to point out how the vitamins add value to this simple and popular food.

Milk has been looked upon for ages as the most important single food of mankind. Doubtless it always will be.

Its virtue as a food has been subjected to numerous investigations. All of these have resulted in the same conclusion, that milk is the best protective food.

It furnishes the necessary elements which are so essential for a perfect diet. Milk is considered as a complete food, because of the peculiar combination of its many nutritive elements. It supplies proteins, fats and carbohydrates.

Proteins are those substances which are necessary in order to build and repair our bodies. Fat constitutes the fuel supply of the body. The carbohydrates supply the energy.

Not alone does milk carry these elements of health, but in addition, it contains important vitamins and mineral salts. It may well be that the most valuable part of milk is its vitamin content.

Milk is particularly rich in vitamins A and B. It is the most satisfactory source of vitamin A. Vitamin C is present, but in less amounts.

The mineral elements found in milk are of vital importance. Lime is the most important. This mineral is required by the growing child. It is of value to the adult as well. Yet, this important mineral is usually lacking in the average person.

In addition to lime, milk contains iron. The iron content of milk is not great, but is of a quality to make it of tremendous value to the body.

Thus, we see that some of the most important things, things necessary for normal nutrition and development, are contained in this simple food. There are few other foods, or combinations of food, of equal value.

There is much controversy regarding the importance of vitamins and their real importance. But there is no dispute as to the high place of milk in the human diet, not alone of children, but of adults as well.

Milk should be in the daily diet. A good rule for every family is the allotment of a quart of milk daily for every growing child and at least a pint for every adult. Not only is it a nourishing food, but it is a pleasant and thirst-quenching drink. In addition to being extremely palatable, it is easily digested. It should be one of the popular drinks in all seasons.

Wife, 16, Arraigned For Smoking Cigaret

NEW PHILADELPHIA, O., Oct. 23.—(AP.)—Mrs. Leora Backus, 16, of Holloway, will be given a hearing in Juvenile Court on a delinquency charge. She was arrested as she smoked a cigaret on the business street while indulging in window shopping.

NEWSPAPERS' AUDITS LAUDED

CHICAGO, Oct. 22.—(INS.)—The increasing number of newspaper circulation audits is a certain indication that the battle against dishonest publishers is a success, John Cowles, associate publisher of the Des Moines Register and Tribune, said today at the eighteenth annual convention of the Audit Bureau of Circulations.

P. L. Thomson, p resident of the A. B. C., reported that the bureau had its greatest year in 1930. There were 1,523 audits of newspaper circulation made last year, compare to 1,439 in 1929.

Other publishers' and advertisers' organizations convening here were the American Association of Advertising Agencies, American Home Magazine Publishers, Associated Business Papers, Inland Daily Press Association and Major Market Newspapers, Inc.

SAINT-GAUDENS TALKS ON ART

Homer Saint-Gaudens, director of fine arts at Carnegie Institute, giving his usual public lecture on the annual exhibition of paintings in Carnegie Music Hall last night, said:

"The newer men are not so much given to innovations as to modifying the innovations already introduced."

The talk was comprised of a retrospect of the previous exhibitions by decades, some personalities concerning the American painters, an itinerary of the European trip for paintings, an explanation of the personnel of the committee of selection and the jury of award, and anecdotes and reminiscences.

The five subsequent lectures in the series will be held on successive Monday night, commencing with Royal Cortissoz on October 26. The four lecturers announced, Royal Cortissoz, Dorothy Adlow, Dr. Frank Mather and Henry Turner Bailey, have all been heard before on their reactions to the Pittsburgh show. The fifth lecturer's name has not yet been announced.

Couple, Broke, Trade Grapes for License

WEBSTER SPRINGS, W. Va., Oct. 23.—(AP.)—For nine gallons of wild grapes, County Clerk B. F. Woodell traded one marriage license and a 25-cent piece.

Okey Hamrick, 23, of Webster Springs, and Evelyn Simmons, 21, of Hacker Valley, appeared before Woodell with the information they desired to wed but had no money. They did, however, have a basket of wild grapes and after some dickering the obliging county clerk agreed to furnish the license and also add a quarter. The young people later were married by a local minister.

Richland Township School Loan Ok.'d

HARRISBURG, Oct. 23.—(AP.)—Two bond issues totalling $315,000 have been approved by the Department of Internal Affairs.

Bethlehem City was given approval for a $250,000 issue for the purpose of paying existing floating indebtedness, and the Richland Township School District, Allegheny County, was given approval for a $65,000 loan for erecting and equipping a school building.

"BULK," VITAMIN B, IRON All in Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

If you suffer from ordinary constipation, you will be benefited by Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Millions have found it brings relief.

Scientific tests show ALL-BRAN supplies "bulk," Vitamin B, and iron. "Bulk" promotes elimination. Vitamin B tones the intestinal tract. Iron helps build blood.

In the package, ALL-BRAN has a shredded appearance. But within the body, it changes to a soft mass, which gently cleanses the intestines. It is much like the "bulk" in lettuce or spinach.

Get the red-and-green package at your grocer's. Try two tablespoonfuls daily for a week. ALL-BRAN is natural—far better than pills or drugs, which may cause too strenuous action.

ALL-BRAN is already cooked, flavored and krumbled—bran in its finest form. Serve as a cereal or try the delicious recipes on the package. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

BEEF KIDNEY, CREOLE STYLE—One beef kidney, 1 thick slice bacon, 2 tablespoons chipped suet, 4 tablespoons flour, 1 sweet pepper, 1 pint canned tomatoes, 1 tablespoon salt, ⅛ tablespoon cayenne pepper, ¼ teaspoon curry powder, 4 onions.

Trim fat from the kidney and cut in three-quarter-inch slices. Dredge with flour. Fry chopped bacon and suet in deep saucepan, add kidney, chopped onions and pepper and turn until meat is thoroughly seared and coated with a rich brown gravy. Add tomatoes and seasonings, cover closely and simmer three-quarters of an hour. Serve very hot on buttered toast. Serves five.

* * *

STEWED HEART WITH RICE BORDER—Two calves,' lambs' or pigs' hearts, 2 tablespoons carrot or celery, 2 tablespoons cut onions, 2 tablespoons flour, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 tablespoon salt, 1 tablespoon caramel, 1 tablespoon vinegar.

Wash hearts thoroughly in cold water, remove all tough muscles and veins; cut in small dice and cover with cold water for 15 minutes. Drain and cover with boiling water; add just enough to keep heart covered. When tender, add salt, a little pepper and flour which has been rubbed smooth with melted butter. Boil five minutes, add the caramel, vinegar or lemon juice. Put in the center of a chop plate with boiled rice or mashed potatoes as a border. Sprinkle with parsley or celery tops and with paprika. Serves four.

* * *

SCALLOPED EGGS AND OYSTERS — Three tablespoons flour; 3 tablespoons butter; 1½ cups milk; 4 hard-cooked eggs, sliced; ½ pint oysters; ½ cup buttered crumbs; 1 tablespoon minced parsley; ¾ teaspoon salt.

Make white sauce of first three ingredients. Add the parsley. Cover the bottom of a buttered baking dish with a thin layer of the sauce. Arrange a layer of sliced eggs, then a layer of oysters and another of eggs. Pour the remainder of the sauce over all, sprinkle the top with the crumbs and bake in a hot, 425-degree oven, until the crumbs are brown, or about 15 minutes. Enough for six.

CASSEROLE SURPRISE—One pound sausage links, 3 large red apples, 3 medium sized sweet potatoes, ¼ cup brown sugar, ¼ cup sausage drippings, ¼ cup boiling water.

Boil sweet potatoes until soft, peel and cut in halves lengthwise. Line the bottom of a well-greased shallow baking dish with the sweet potatoes. Fry sausage links until golden brown, place the

What this country needed was a good five cent nickel, and as far as food is concerned we are filling the need. The best part of every nickel used to go—not to pay for food—but to pay many profits and charges between the farmer and the consumer.

We go for food direct to the men who produce it, and we sell it at a single profit. So, nearly all of the money you spend in our stores goes to pay for FOOD and a very small part of it goes to profits and expenses.

Should Father Support Child Of Divorced Wife?

Do you believe that a man should support his children—Even though there has been a divorce, and their mother has married someone else?

Kittie doesn't . . . and she's plenty peeved . . .

She was the cause of the divorce. She admits it herself. When she met the Big Boy, his first adventure in double harness was going okay. But Kittie decided she wanted him . . . and finally she got him. Now she thinks it's Simply Awful because the Ex-Missis, whose place she took, insists that Papa buy the groceries for his baby.

"Is it right," she gulps, "that we should have to pay out money to support his child, when the mother has married a man well able to take care of it?"

GAVE HIM MONEY

"Dear Miss Martin:

"I have been a reader of your column for years, and now the time has come when I have a problem of my own. You may call me a home wrecker, or a lot of other names, but I will leave that up to you. Here is the story:

"About five years ago I met a young man whom I love very much and who at the time was married and still living with his wife and child. I knew this, but kept going out with him. Yes, even giving him money, buying him clothes, a car, and many times paying for our amusements.

"Then came the day of his divorce. The following day we ware married, and I also paid these expenses. Now, we've been married four years, and I am also holding a position.

"What I do not like is that my husband was ordered by the court to pay for the support of his child by his former wife (I have no children. He does not want any).

FORMER WIFE REMARRIED

"What I want to know is, do you think it is right for us to have to pay for the support of this child whom he never goes to see even? The child does not even know him. Do you think it is right that we should have to pay for his support all these years and years to come?

"You know it isn't a pleasant feeling, having to work all week, and then to give part of the money toward the support of his child that I have no interest in. Do you think it is?

"His former wife has remarried, and as she has no children by her present husband don't you think they could support this child, without expecting anything from a man who is through with her?

"I'll be looking for your answer, so don't hesitate to tell me what you think of the situation I'm facing. I'm sure you will agree with me. KITTIE."

Oh, yeah? You are, are you? Well, sister, you're due for a surprise. I'm simple-minded in lots of ways, but agreeing with gals like you is just one form of insanity I haven't got.

In the first place, I think your obvious notion that you're a big-time racketeer is all hooey. You weren't smart when you snitched this male from his legitimate mama. You were, in my opinion, the world's prize sap for picking off a loafing gigolo who can't pay his own bills. And the lady—if she had any sense—probably wept secret tears of gratitude.

A POOR SPORT

And now, like all small-time crooks, you're wheezing and whimpering because you don't like your bargain. Sob on, sister, but don't expect me to dry your tears.

Nor need you expect any encouragement from me when you try to steal his rations from a baby. Yes, I said "steal" and I meant "steal." By your own admission, you deprived that baby of a home and a father. You can't give that home back again—and baby probably is in luck to have lost the father. But that father still owes that child support.

And, since you're so keen on paying papa's bills—buying him candy 'n' clothes 'n' marcels 'n' other adornments suitable to gents of his type—it's up to you, lady, to meet at least one of his honorable obligations — namely, his obligation to his child.

And if you weren't a poor sport you'd know it without coming whining to me. So try that on your adding machine, Kittie, and maybe you'll get your own number.

Romantic Men Are Easy Victims of Insincere Women, Says Fay King

By FAY KING

Men have written the world's greatest love poems, its greatest love songs, and its greatest love stories.

Men have exalted love and idealized women in great paintings and great plays.

In history, ancient and current, it is more often a man who sacrificed honor, position and power for the woman he loved.

When a man falls in love it is with the woman herself, and because of who she is, and sometimes regardless of what she is.

It is more often a man who never marries if he cannot win the one woman he loves.

It is because men are so romantic that they are such easy victims of some women who are more persuading than sincere.

Bill and Hank Return 'Dressed for the Occasion'

At the sound of Dicky's auto horn I moved swiftly toward my door.

"I must go down and see if the boys are dressed as they wished to be," I said to Lillian. "Will you keep the girls up here until I let you know they can come down?"

She made no reply at first, only put out her hand and seized my arm in so firm a clasp that I could not move.

"We'll just reverse that program, if you please," she said firmly. "You've been dashing up and down stairs when you ought to know better. I'll go down and see that the boys are all right, and I'll come up and give you the office when it's all right for the girls to come down. Don't fail to come down with 'em, though. I have a shrewd suspicion that we older people are going to have seats at a three-ring circus tonight. I wouldn't miss it for a farm."

She released me and walked quickly out of the door and down the stairs. I had no time to feel either resentment or gratitude for her interference, because the door of Mary's room opened and the fresh young voices of the two girls came to my ears.

It's too bad to waste that frock upon a couple of preparatory school kids, if they are my own dear brothers," Mary was saying between the giggles with which both she and Marion were peppering the air. "But hurry up. You look perfectly ravishing, and I'm anxious to see the boys' eyes festooned all over their cheeks when they catch sight of you."

They had almost reached the staircase when I called softly: "Girls, just a minute!"

They turned, their giggles suddenly suppressed, and chorused, "Yes, Auntie Madge," with the pretty deference both give an older woman.

"Please come into my room a minute before you go down. I want to see your frocks."

"That's the best thing we do," Mary said with a laugh, which Marion echoed, "show off our frocks. Come on, old girl, your best mannequin pose now."

She caught Marion by the hand and they advanced together to the middle of the room, where they made a deep courtsy and then separated.

"I don't suppose Molyneux or Maggy Rouff would stage it just that way, but we're nothing if not original. I'll strut my stuff first, Marion, and then you come on with yours."

She slithered one hand down the side of her gown, a flowered chiffon with big roses upon a black and silver background, a striking thing exactly suited to her, and flexed her other hand in an exaggerated imitation of a mannequin's gesture, as she swayed her body past me. My laughter was tinged with admiration, for Mary is histrionic to her finger tips, and she was acting the role to perfection.

"Now, Marion," she said, and Marion, giggling self-consciously, went past me in a graceful if distinctly school-girlish imitation of Mary's performance. But she was so winsomely lovely in her delicate frock, also of flowered chiffon, but of pastel shades of rose and gray with flowers of dark blue, that I knew she could hold her own against Mary's more sophisticated type in any gathering. Tonight, of course, there would be no rivalry. To the boys Mary was only their sister, Marion the suddenly unknown feminine quantity.

But where were Hank and Bill? I had delayed the girls, waiting for the word from Lillian that the boys were "dressed up" for their reception. But the only sound I heard was that of feet stealthily proceeding along the hall from the rear staircase and going into their room. Could it be possible that Dicky had failed in getting the new white flannel trousers to replace the scorched ones?

"Well! What's the verdict, Auntie Madge?" Mary's saucy voice broke in on my speculations. "Aren't we the knock-outs, though."

"If that's the term, you certainly are," I returned, smiling at the two lovely faces. "I'm sorry I can't let you preen your feathers downstairs just yet. But Aunt Lillian promised to let me know when it would be the psychological moment for you to appear. I can't think what's keeping her."

"I can." Mary said flippantly. "Didn't you hear those Indian footsteps a minute ago going into the boys' room. They've probably gone to put some more bears' grease on their domes, so that every separate hair shall be slicked back like the latest things in gigolos. Listen! There they're going back again. You'll hear a call for us in another minute."

She was a true prophet. It was but a few seconds over the minute when Lillian came up the stairs.

"Come on down," she whispered from the doorway. "You never saw such dolled-up sheiks in your life. Madge, come ahead with me. I want a front seat."

"Mother!" Marion entreated. "Behave yourself! This all makes me look such a fool. I've two notions to go back to my room and stay there."

"Marion!" Her mother grinned widely at her. "I never have taken a slipper to you, but if you stand in the way of this particular treat, I shall begin. You and Mary march down these stairs after me, pronto."

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Eating Oysters

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When eating oyster cocktails, are the oysters eaten whole? This seems awkward and yet it seems impossible to cut them?

2. When using condiments are they put directly on the meat or to one side and each bite of meat dipped into whatever the condiment is? J.

1. Yes, the oyster must be eaten whole. Good manners forbid that oysters shall be cut—we just have to manage 'em whole! Or not at all.

2. It is better eating-form to put the condiment near the meat or fish rather than on it.

Five O'clock Wedding Attire

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Will you be kind enough to let me know the correct dress to be worn by guests at a 5 o'clock church wedding? B.

The women at a 5 o'clock wedding wear their most formal day clothes. The fashionable ensemble is perfect—and the men wear the formal cutaway and dark striped trousers (if they dress formally), or the short black coat and striped trousers (the semi-formal day attire). Or, if informally, the dark blue business suit.

Serving Olives

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Which do you prefer for the serving of olives—an olive fork or an olive spoon?

READER.

An olive spoon. To me they are far more convenient than the olive fork. And I am glad to see that now the olive spoon is made with the shorter handle. The pierced bowl of the spoon seems to me perfect for taking care of the moisture that is inevitably on the olive.

Contract Bridge

OFFICIAL SYSTEM As Adopted by Leading Authorities

By E. V. SHEPARD

Opening Bids of 2-No Trumps

Under only a single system of bidding (and that an uncommon one) is an opening bid of 2-no trumps considered a demand that partner respond. The Official System, like nearly every other recognized method of contracting, regards such an opening declaration only as a strong invitation for partner to assist or show a biddable suit.

Reasonable minimum requirements for making an opening bid of 2-no trumps are four guarded suits and a point count of 14 (7 probable tricks). Sometimes experts with dependable partners bid on 6 probable tricks but they also require partner to hold 3 probable tricks for an assist. At least one ace should be held to make an entirely satisfactory 2-no trumps with a 14-point count.

♠ A-J-5
♥ K-J-7
♣ K-10-8
♦ A-K-4-2

♠ K-Q-6
♥ A-5
♣ Q-J-9
♦ A-K-Q-5-3

♠ A-K-Q-5-3
♥ K-Q-6
♣ A-5
♦ Q-J-9

If the original bidder requires a point count of 14 for his 2-no trump, his partner may assist upon a bare 4 points, including one quick trick, or upon 5 points, even without the quick trick. Bidders soon acquire some degree of discrimination, such as realizing that 2 points for the K or Q J is worth more to partner than 2 points for two 10's.

A no-trump with only a single stop to the run of a suit is always a weak point, frequently making a preliminary suit bid preferable to an immediate 2-no trumps. A hand like the next one shown had best be bid 2-diamonds, to discover whether your partner has any biddable strength, before attempting to go game at no-trumps.

♠ K-6
♥ A-Q-7
♦ A-K-J-10-9

Probably you can make two-odd (win two tricks over your book of six) with the above hand, even if your partner happens to be trickless, but your chances of winning 8 tricks with the above hand at no-trumps, facing a trickless partner, are almost nil.

Partner should take you out of 2-no trumps with any suit worth a take-out of 1-no trump. If you return to 3-no trumps he probably will let you alone, unless he has another long suit to show, or unless he holds something like a 7-card topless suit which will lose less at his make than at yours.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Shun 'Cures' for Inner Ailments

Recently one of my readers became alarmed because he had visited a friend with tuberculosis of the kidney. He wrote to ask whether it would be possible for him to contract tuberculosis from such a patient. I assured him he could not.

Dr. Copeland

Within the past 10 years, more and more cases of tuberculosis of the kidney have come to the attention of doctors. This need not mean there is actually an increase of this disease.

It does mean that "urology," the study of the kidney and urinary tract, is making progress. Much information concerning this disease has been gained. As a result of this new knowledge, tuberculosis of the kidney is more readily recognized today. As a matter of fact then, there are not more cases, probably, but more are discovered.

If recognized early, tuberculosis of the kidney may be entirely cured. If neglected, the disease is a progressive one and, as it proceeds, it does great damage to the kidney and eventually the bladder.

As I just said, there is little hope for the neglected cases. If the disease is recognized early and given the proper care, the prospect of recovery is bright.

When one kidney is diseased, it places an additional burden on the other kidney. If the diseased kidney is removed the remaining healthy kidney has really less work to do than if the diseased kidney is left in place. The products of disease make demands on the kidneys and if the disease is confined to one kidney its effects cause the good organ to do more than double work.

If you suspect you have any trouble with the kidney or bladder please consult your physician. It may not be anything serious, but it is better to find out so that immediate attention can be given if necessary.

Many patent medicines are taken by the public for disturbances of the kidney and bladder. This is a bad habit. By depending upon the alleged virtues of this or that "remedy," valuable time is lost. Scientific care is demanded if the dangers are to be avoided.

Household Hints

Avoid paper bags when storing food by keeping dry foods in jars or tins. Paper bags are very attractive to mice and likewise very accessible.

Often we are in need of a small funnel to fill salt and pepper boxes. This can easily be made by cutting off the top of the corner of an envelope and using that corner as a funnel.

Fruit pies have a naughty habit of boiling over while baking. An excellent preventive is a tablespoonful of cornstarch added to the sweetened fruit and heated before the crust is added.

Nature's way to Good Health and one of California's finest of fruits . . .

Serve true, tree-ripened SUNSWEET California Prunes not only for breakfast but as a confection . . . in salads . . . in puddings, cakes and bread . . . as an appetizer . . . in frozen desserts . . . and eat them from the carton to satisfy that hungry feeling!

Steamed Prunes—For a real treat just steam SUNSWEET prunes in a colander over boiling water or in the top of a double boiler for a short time. This restores their natural plumpness and the prunes are ready to eat.

Or—many people just cover the prunes with cold water until plump and tender. Children and grown-ups enjoy them this way.

Quick Process Prunes—It is no longer necessary to soak prunes and cook them for hours. SUNSWEETS are so tender-skinned and meaty that no soaking before cooking is needed. The ideal way to cook them is this: Wash prunes, cover with water, and cook slowly for one hour. Two tablespoons of sugar may be added if you like your fruit extra sweet, but remember this—SUNSWEETS are so full of natural fruit sugar that most people prefer them cooked without adding more.

'Tree-ripened'
SUNSWEET California PRUNES

Prune Soufflé—Mix slowly with 2 cups puree of cooked SUNSWEET prunes, 8 whites of eggs beaten stiff, adding ½ cup powdered sugar. Bake in buttered mold about 20 minutes.

Prune Conserve—Soak 4 pounds SUNSWEET prunes in cold water 5 hours. Drain, remove stones. Add 4 pounds sugar, juice of 4 oranges, 1 pound raisins, 1 pound walnut meats. Boil together until thick. Put into jelly glasses and cover with paraffine.

Baked Beans With Prunes—Boil 1 cup SUNSWEET prunes 20 minutes. Cover 2½ cups dry navy beans with plenty of water, add 1 teaspoon soda, boil 10 minutes. Drain, add fresh hot water and boil 30 minutes; add ½ pound salt pork, boil 1 hour; remove pork. Drain beans and combine with 2 tablespoons molasses, 3 teaspoons prepared mustard, ½ teaspoon paprika, ¼ teaspoon tabasco sauce, ½ teaspoon salt. Mix well, add prunes, pour into baking dish. Place pork in center. Bake about 2 hours in moderate oven (350° F.).

Prune Cabbage Salad—Boil 1½ cups SUNSWEET prunes until pits will come out, about 20 minutes. Remove pits and cut prunes in thin slices. Combine prunes with cabbage (2 cups), ½ cup pimiento strips, and ½ cup chopped nuts. Blend with French dressing, serve on lettuce.

Piquant Salad—Remove pits from cooked SUNSWEET prunes and replace with pickled onions. Serve 5 prunes on each individual crisp lettuce leaf with French dressing. A small amount of salad oil added to the pickled onion juice makes a desirable dressing.

Prune Bread—Put 1 tablespoon melted shortening, 2 tablespoons sugar, and 1 teaspoon salt in 1 cup hot milk and let stand until lukewarm. Add ½ cake yeast which has been dissolved in ¼ cup lukewarm water. Add 3 to 3½ cups flour gradually, beating well until too stiff to stir. Turn onto molding board and knead in remaining flour until mixture is smooth and blisters show beneath surface of dough. Place in well-greased bowl, brush dough with melted shortening, cover and allow to rise in warm place to twice its original size.

Turn dough on molding board, add 1 cup soaked, pitted SUNSWEET prunes, knead and shape into loaves. Place in greased pans, having them about half full. Brush with melted shortening, let rise again, and bake in hot oven about 45 minutes.

Prune Upside Down Cake—Beat 1 egg until light, add ½ cup sugar, beat until creamy. Sift together twice 1 cup flour and 1 teaspoon baking powder; add to egg mixtures alternately with ¼ cup milk or water. Beat well, add 2 tablespoons melted shortening and 1 teaspoon vanilla.

Melt 2 tablespoons butter in iron frying pan, spread ½ cup brown sugar and ¼ cup chopped nuts evenly over pan; cover with drained and pitted SUNSWEET prunes. Pour in the cake batter and bake in moderate oven.

Tune in on "SUNSWEET MELODIES," station WLW, Mondays, 7:15 p. m., and the Women's Radio Review, over the N. B. C. Red Network on Thursdays, at 3:15 p. m. (Eastern Standard Time).

HAM WITH NOODLES—One tablespoon butter or other fat, 1 tablespoon flour, 1 cup milk, 1 cup cooked noodles, 1 cup ground cooked ham, salt, pepper, ½ cup buttered bread crumbs.

Make a white sauce of the fat, flour, and milk, and add about ½ teaspoon of salt, depending on the saltiness of the ham. Make alternate layers of noodles and ham in a shallow baking dish, pour on the white sauce, sprinkle buttered crumbs over the top, and bake about 15 minutes in a moderately hot oven (375 degrees F.) Serves two.

PITT AWAITS IRISH BATTLE

Sport Comment

By JAMES J. LONG

Notre Dame's Fine Wall. • Curb on Broadcasters.
Vets Praise Forwards. Rare Streak by Dukes.
French Surmised Signed. Best Carlisle Quarter.

LINE DOPED TO GIVE EDGE TO IRISH

THOUGH SPECULATION IN fan circles as to the probable outcome of the Pitt-Notre Dame gridiron battle tomorrow has centered mainly around the possibilities of the reconstructed Irish backfield, veteran football men are of the opinion that if Notre Dame is to have any advantage at all it will be in the line. It is in the line that practically all football games are decided, as a matter of fact, and this is expected to apply particularly to the big tilt in South Bend.

Tommy Yarr

From that angle some of the dopesters figure the Irish will have an edge on the Panthers, contending that the line which Coach Hunk Anderson has built around Capt. Tommy Yarr is one of the best the Indiana school ever boasted. Possibly they have not seen Pitt in action this year and may be underrating the strength of the Sutherland forwards. But they think the Notre Dame wall is too good to be outmatched and that it will be the best bet of the South Benders for victory tomorrow.

ONE OF THOSE raving about the Irish forwards is Steve Owens, coach of the Giants, New York's big professional team. And the Notre Dame line must be even better now than when Owens saw it against Northwestern, for Ed Krause has since been adjudged good enough to take the place of Alvin Culver at left tackle tomorrow and the Giant coach rates Culver as one of the greatest ever.

"Culver is a whole line in himself," Owens told Bill Corum, and Owens himself was and is a tackle ranking with the best. "I saw Northwestern shoot one play at him on which three interferers, and big ones, ganged him ahead of the runner. What did he do but smack them down and go right on over their backs to nail the runner for a loss."

ACCORDING TO OWENS, Pitt must not accept the Northwestern game as an indication of Notre Dame's possibilities this year. He says that on a dry field the Irish would have won by three or four touchdowns, and that even in the mud there were at least three occasions when they failed only by inches to shake Schwartz loose.

"And don't think Notre Dame will miss Carideo's kicking to the extent originally reported," Owens adds. "I never knew before that Schwartz could kick, but he was booting them 50 yards in a torrent of rain which was beating straight down. I believe he can kick as well as Carideo."

THE FOLLOWING LETTER was received from J. S. Matson, a Pitt alumnus: "Received four tickets for the Army game from the Pitt athletic director's office on October 21. My check was canceled June 26. Am a Pitt graduate and a member of the Alumni Association. My seats are in an end section, in other words in Section 13. By paying 50 cents extra I could obtain better seats at some of the local clubs. Why are these tickets sold in blocks before the alumni have been cared for, especially the alumni that have canceled checks from a date as early as June 26? The Connellsville Pitt Club, all members of the Alumni Association, also received seats in the end section. Each $500 bond is good for two tickets. Therefore not more than 8,000 tickets, or five sections, would go to bond holders, even if all bond holders applied for them and not all of them did. Once more I ask, why are tickets sold in blocks before September? There are so many protests from Pitt alumni that I, as a Pitt graduate, would be willing to have this letter published."

Larry French

THE FACT THAT Pitcher Larry French was allowed to accompany the major league barnstormers on their trip to Japan, after President Barney Dreyfuss had at first refused him permission, is explained by Pirate officials.

It is said that President Dreyfuss was not opposed to the southpaw's going on the long tour, but did object to the action of the promoter in approaching French with an offer without first getting the consent of the club owner, as is required by baseball regulations.

LOCAL FANS ARE surmising that another detail entering into the permission given French to make the trip may have been that the lefthander signed a contract for 1932 before departing for the Orient.

Larry was a holdout for a time last spring and missed part of the training work in the Los Angeles camp. Possibly he was more willing to sign this time while seeking a favor from the club owners.

IN THE FUTURE before the opening of a world series the men who are to do the radio broadcasting will be asked to sit in with Commissioner Landis at a special session, during which they will get their talking orders. For one thing they must convince the Judge that they know baseball and its rules, and for another thing they will have to promise that they will leave the umpiring of the games to the four men down on the field who are paid for doing so. Though they were too high to judge pitched balls accurately, the broadcasters of the 1931 series are accused of having tried to second guess the umpires all the way through, and also of having tried to tell about plays that never happened and probably never will happen.

HARRY M. MALONEY, of 1326 Beechview avenue, writes to call attention to the fact that when West Virginia Wesleyan recently defeated Duquesne, 12 to 0, it was the first Duke reverse in some time suffered by a margin of more than one touchdown. The Bluffites, who meet Western Maryland at Forbes Field tonight, did place an unusual streak of that kind to their credit.

Previously they had not been beaten by more than one touchdown since Waynesburg toppled them, 18 to 0, in the next last game of the season of 1927. In the meantime, through more than three seasons and a total of 33 games, the only teams to score two touchdowns on them were Catholic U., North Dakota and West Virginia. They beat Catholic U., 18 to 13, and made one touchdown of their own against the two put over by North Dakota and West Virginia.

WHEN THE FAMOUS Carlisle Indians were roaming the gridirons of the country they had one star quarterback after another.

There were so many, in fact, that even such authorities on Carlisle football affairs as Pope Warner and Jim Thorpe can't agree as to what player was best in that position.

Pop Warner

And at that they don't even mention such stars as Frank Mt. Pleasant and Frank Hudson, who were given a high rating in this region. Hudson, who used to drop-kick field goals with either foot, played with the D. C. & A. C. professional stars here for a time after leaving school and was employed in an East End bank.

THE DIFFERENCE OF opinion between Thorpe and Warner grew out of a recent article in which Thorpe, himself an all-time all-America halfback, picked an all-time Carlisle eleven. His selection for quarterback was Gus Welch, from the 1911-12-13 teams. As soon as Warner lamped the lineup he declared Thorpe to be all wrong on the quarterback pick, and pronounced Jimmy Johnston from the 1903 era the smartest and slickest quarter that Carlisle ever had. Johnston was small, and he played in a day when football was a more bruising game than it is now, but Warner doesn't hesitate to give him the call over the larger men who held down the same post for the Indians.

Piloted by one of the most astute gridiron coaches in the land, the veteran Dick Harlow, of Penn State and Colgate fame, the varsity football squad of Western Maryland College battles Duquesne University's Dukes under the lights at Forbes Field tonight, inaugurating grid relations between the institutions.

Until they were tied last year by little Albright, Harlow's Green Terrors had rambled along the highway of success, piling up 27 consecutive triumphs. This year, the going has not been so smooth for first Georgetown and last week, Wash-Jeff defeated them. The Wash-Jeff setback was by the margin of a single point, but was a defeat, nevertheless, and a blot on the Harlow escutcheon.

Duquesne's travels this fall have been none too successful or easy, two defeats already marring the locals' record. Last week, however, Elmer Layden's charges evidenced unmistakable signs of rounding into form when they held Georgetown to a scoreless deadlock. Inasmuch as the Hoyas had tripped Western Maryland early in the season by a decisive margin, it is possible that the Dukes will have an even chance of knocking off their better known opponents tonight.

Coach Layden has announced a probable starting lineup which will have Devenney, DeLucca, Christina and Zananelli in the backfield; Murphy and Niccolai at the ends; Sinko and O'Donnell at the tackles; Antoon and Ferrera at the guards and Ciccone over the ball.

Western Maryland's squad, 30 strong, pulled into town last night and staged a workout under the lights in the Oakland ball park, which was very satisfactory to Coach Harlow. After the drill, he intimated that he'd have Jones, Dunn, Brown and Albrecht in the backfield, with Hammill and Callaghan at the terminals; Pincura, the captain and Sadusky at the tackles Barnett and Wallace at the guards and Lamb at center.

Jock Sutherland On Air Tonight

Coach Jock Sutherland, of Pitt, will be interviewed from Chicago tonight on important football games which will take place over the week-end. He will speak in a new series of sponsored broadcasts to be heard over the Columbia network and Station WJAS at 10:30.

The Pitt-Notre Dame game at South Bend tomorrow will be broadcast by WJAS over a special hookup. The descriptive work will begin at 2:45, with Pat Flanagan, well-known Chicago sports announcer, at the microphone, Jess Carver, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph correspondent at the game, will speak between halves.

Local fans who attend the Carnegie Tech and Purdue game at the Stadium tomorrow will have the opportunity of hearing the broadcast of the South Bend encounter, since arrangements have been made to connect the program with the Stadium equipment.

ROWE RITES TOMORROW

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—(INS.)—Funeral services for the late James G. Rowe, Jr., Greentree stable trainer, who died in Baltimore Wednesday, will be held in Red Bank, N. J., at 10 o'clock tomorrow. Interment will be in the family plot at Red Bank.

Young Fans Can See Tech Game For a Dime

Thousands of boys and girls will attend the Carnegie Tech-Purdue football game at the Stadium tomorrow afternoon for a dime, and they'll all sit in the section that costs others 75 cents.

The 10-cent admission is made possible by an arrangement the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph has made with the Stadium management by which thousands of exchange tickets distributed by this newspaper will be good for all 75-cent seats when presented at the ticket windows for Gate No. 19 with 10 cents.

These Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph exchange tickets may be used only by boys and girls under 16 years of age.

EXPLANATION OF RIPLEY'S CARTOON OF YESTERDAY: THE FLAMING PEAK OF ALGERIA—The Koudia de Hoggar, dominated by the rugged massive rock known also as the Peak of Ilerman, in the Algerian Sahara, glows in the dark long after sunset. Under its soft shimmer, which is a lingering reflection of the light of the dazzling Sahara sun, the rugged High Plateau of the Ahoggar assumes the appearance of a row of Gothic cathedrals surmounted by natural belltowers, which nature had adorned with a delicate lace of stone. The natives firmly believe the peak is endowed with an inner light of its own, and they refer to the phenomenon in the hushed tones of reverence.

KUNKLE, SOCCER PILOT, DEAD

Soccer fans in Western Pennsylvania will grieve deeply in learning of the death of Clarence Kunkle, manager of the Cecil team, of the Keystone League. He died in the Canonsburg Hospital Wednesday night, failing to rally from an operation for acute appendicitis.

The national soccer cup game scheduled for Morgan Sunday, between Cecil and Morgan, has been postponed until a later date as a result.

Kunkle for many years was classed as one of the greatest American-born soccer players. Starting as a member of the Morgan Juniors 17 years ago, he was a member of practically every championship team organized at Millers Run.

He played with Bridgeville, Morgan and Cecil, and was a fullback on the famous Cecil team which won both the Miners League championship and the West Penn senior cup.

Kunkle quit playing two seasons ago and started in the managerial ranks, running the Cecil Club in the Keystone. His death is a distinct loss to soccer football.—TOM BIRKS.

Three Sections On Pennsy Special

Pitt rooters will leave for South Bend tonight to attend the Pitt-Notre Dame game tomorrow afternoon. Due to the heavy demand for tickets, the special will leave in three sections, starting at 11:40 p. m. Each section will include nine Pullmans and one coach.

The Pitt band, numbering 100 pieces, will leave on the first section. The train is due in South Bend at 7:30 tomorrow morning and will start its return trip at 9 o'clock tomorrow night.

POLO TILT TOMORROW

A polo game is scheduled for tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock between the 107th Field Artillery team and the South Park Polo Club at the South Park Club field on McEwen's Farm.

JACKETS SIGN TY ARBOUR

By CARL W. SHATTO

The purchase of Ty Arbour, Chicago National League wingman, has been announced by Coach Charley Reid, of the local Yellow Jackets, making good a Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph prediction of several days ago that the Pittsburgh International Leaguers were about to obtain the Hawk vet. Arbour is a left wing.

The new Yellow Jacket player is to report here next week for training, at which time, according to Reid, the other icemen of the club also are to be on hand.

Among the early arrivals was Joe Matte, defenseman, who played for the Niagara Falls farm in the Canadian Pro League last season.

Perfect Score Turned in by Local Bowler

Joseph Hensler, St. George's Lyceum, Allentown, broke into bowling's most exclusive circle last night, when he toppled the pins for a 300 score at the Lyceum.

Preceding his perfect game, Hensler hammered the wood for a total of 650 for three league games, an average of 217 per game. It was the first perfect score he had ever rolled.

GENERAL WAYNE HUNT VICTOR

A perfect autumn day was largely responsible for the tremendous success scored at the annual Brandywine Hunters' trials held yesterday afternoon on the pretty Morgan B. Schiller farm, Sewickley Heights. The trials lured a big crowd to the farm.

General Wayne, owned by J. O. Flower and ridden by the owner, won the championship event. The reserve championship was won by Rapidan, owned by Miss K. Walker and driven by Mrs. Eugene Kipp. B. F. Jones' Young Dictator, won first leg on the cup last year. Ribbons were awarded other winners.

SUCCESSFUL

The affair was the second staged by the Brandywine hunters and after it had been completed those in attendance were unanimous in their comments as to its success. The entries are limited to Sewickley mounts, yet there were about 35 horses entered. It is the intention to hold the trials yearly and thus far the event has taken its place as one of the most attractive in Western Pennsylvania.

General Wayne also copped the men's event; J. O. Burgwin's Sandow, Charles Richardson, Jr., up, came second; J. O. Flower's Jerry, third; B. F. Jones III's Young Dictator, was fourth.

Miss Walker's Rapidan won the cup presented by George W. Nicola for the best ladies' hunter; Queen Bess, owned and ridden by Miss Margaret McGrath, second; Happy, owned by Mrs. J. O. Burgwin, with Mrs. Rogers McMahon up, third; Carry On, owned and ridden by Mrs. George A. Benney, fourth.

BUDDY WINS PRIZE

The prize for the winning horse owned by a professional went to J. J. Cannon's Buddy, John Richardson up; J. J. Cannon's Jack O Tar, Morgan Schiller up, second; George Chubb's Billy Arnold, Miss Betty Murdoch up, third; George Chubb's Gaiety, Miss Jane Murdoch up, fourth.

PANTHERS WORK ON FIELD OF FOE TODAY

By JESS CARVER
Staff Correspondent.

NILES, Mich., Oct. 23.—Early risers in this Michigan town gave a sleepy and unofficial welcome to the varsity football squad of the University of Pittsburgh as it arrived here this morning to await tomorrow's classic gridiron battle with Notre Dame over at South Bend.

The Panther party, made up of 33 players, two coaches, a handful of assorted managers and trainers, a doctor and an equipment custodian, rolled into South Bend at an unearthly early hour, piled into buses and were chug-chugged over here for breakfast. The morning will be spent lolling about the hotel and this afternoon, early (everything Pitt has done so far has been early) will return to South Bend for a workout in the Notre Dame Stadium. If Pitt just scores as early tomorrow as they have been getting up the ball game will be "in."

NOTRE DAME FAVORED

Usually, the arrival of a rival eleven on the scene of battle tends to shorten the odds, but in this case the exception proves the rule. Notre Dame, despite pessimistic outbursts by Coach Hunk Anderson, remains a three-to-one choice, with few takers. They also are offering from 12 to 15 points.

Pitt has yet to land a victory over Notre Dame in football, and the chances of breaking the ice tomorrow are not so rosy. The series, which has been short, and with an 18-year gap, was inaugurated back in 1909, when Notre Dame won, 6-0. In 1911, the teams played to a scoreless deadlock, but the Irish won again in 1912, 3-0. Then came last year's debacle.

The train did not leave Pittsburgh last night until 20 minutes of midnight, but the Panthers were all aboard their cars at 10 o'clock and asleep, or were supposed to be. Judging from the awesome noises emanating from the various berths, I think the boys were doing some swell ear pounding. If you have never heard a college football team snoring, you've missed something.

Yesterday's tapering off workout in Pittsburgh was a peppery session and disclosed a fairly smooth working varsity. John Luch and Jimmy Clark divided the time at fullback. Luch remains the likely starting full. Reider and Heller were at the halves; Hogan at quarter and the rush line was the same as it has been all year, with Capt. Hirshberg and Rip Collins at the wings; Quatse and MacMurdo in at the tackles; Hart Morris and Mike Milligan at the guards and Ralph Daugherty at center.

COLLINS SHOWS FORM

Collins, Cutri, the reserve quarterback, and Hogan put in a long kicking drill yesterday. Collins got his boots off fast and his yardage was considerably better than it had been previous. Hogan also sent a few nifty ones sailing down the field. The ends went down under the kicks and covered them very well. They'll need to do this tomorrow.

South Bend is prepared to offer the Panthers a royal welcome as they make their first invasion of the Notre Dame precinct tomorrow. Notre Dame students will meet the special trains bearing the Pitt band, students and followers, which will arrive early tomorrow morning, long before the noble athletes have forsaken their downy couches. The crowd will give the hotel lobbies a workout, with Pitt headquarters being established at the Oliver Hotel.

Haines Expects Rest To Cure Lame Arm

KALAMAZOO, Mich., Oct. 23.—(AP.)—Jesse Haines, Cardinal pitcher, who was in Kalamazoo this week for a fishing engagement with Clyde Wares, Cardinal coach, said he would be ready for work again next spring.

Haines injured his shoulder late in the season and was prevented from working in the world series. He told Wares his arm felt as good as new and that a winter's rest would put him in top shape. Haines has returned to his tobacco farm near Phillipsburg, O.

Willie Davies Wins From Joey Dragon

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Oct. 23.—(AP.)—Willie Davies, 118, Charleroi, Pa., won a judges' decision over Joey Dragon, 118, Cincinnati, O., in 10 rounds here last night. Jimmy Colombo, 140, Clarksburg, knocked out John Gum, 148, Morgantown, in the second round.

Fight Results

At Clarksburg, W. Va.—Willie Davies defeated Joey Dragon, 10 rounds; Jimmy Colombo knocked out John Gum, 2 rounds; Irving Price defeated Joe Pichnell, 4 rounds; Young Hoskins and Roy Smith drew, 4 rounds.

DEFEATS LOOM FOR PITT, TECH, COACH SAYS

By AMOS ALONZO STAGG
University of Chicago Coach

Notre Dame will have a hard scrap with Pittsburgh at South Bend tomorrow. Pittsburgh seems to have a strong team this year, but I believe the versatility and precision of Notre Dame's offense, plus its smartness and its winning psychology, will bring it victory.

Eight Western Conference teams will meet in the championship race tomorrow, while two others, Purdue and Wisconsin, will play in intersectional contests with Carnegie Tech and the University of Pennsylvania respectively. The Wisconsin-Penn game will be especially interesting because of the fact that it will be Pennsylvania's first big test under its athletic reorganization.

The University of Pennsylvania took a very courageous forward step last winter in the reorganization of its athletic department and it is much to be desired that the new plan works out satisfactorily. Forty years ago, the University of Chicago pioneered with a similar plan. Last year, Wisconsin gave Penn a bad drubbing, 27 to 0. Wisconsin should win tomorrow's contest, but the game promises to be tight.

Because of its host of veteran players, Purdue holds the advantage in the game with Carnegie Tech at Pittsburgh, but I am looking for a close score. This game marks the beginning of a broader program of competition on Purdue's part.

The other eight members of the Western Conference will play against one another. Northwestern opens its conference season with Ohio State at Columbus. The fact that Northwestern tied Notre Dame may lead many people to regard it as a sure winner. The result, however, is not a foregone conclusion. Ohio's comeback with three touchdowns, after Vanderbilt had scored 26 points, indicated remarkable resourcefulness and power.

THE COACH'S VIEWPOINT

By Howard Harpster

Tomorrow the teams of the Pittsburgh district will undertake what appear to be the most difficult games on their schedules, and when you consider that they are called upon to face such teams as Notre Dame, Purdue, Lafayette, Syracuse, Detroit, Western Maryland and Grove City over the week-end, you wonder where and how any of the opponents of the above-mentioned teams are going to come out on top . . . I never have gone in very much for the popular idea of picking the winners and selecting the favorites, because my belief is that the fellow next door is perhaps just as good or maybe even a better "guesser" than I am . . . However, since everyone is trying to decide football games before they are played these days, and because the boss, Harry Keck, has asked me to "guess" a few, the following choices are for your consideration . . . Please remember, though, that if I hit them right they are my choices, but if I miss most of them, it was Keck's idea (joke).

Howard Harpster

The Notre Dame-Pitt game will be a battle all of the way, with the Irish coming out on top because of much greater reserve strength . . . Purdue, because of more manpower and a stronger all-round team, will take Carnegie Tech . . . Then, too, Purdue will be in a nasty mood following its defeat at the hands of Wisconsin . . . W. & J. will continue its winning record, this time outplaying Lafayette . . . Syracuse will trample on the already much-defeated Penn State eleven . . . West Virginia and Detroit should put on a real battle tonight and perhaps Detroit will have the edge . . . Western Maryland will have a long evening at Forbes Field when Dick Harlow's team meets Duquesne tonight . . . Grove City will be too strong for Geneva . . . Thiel should chalk up its first win of the season at the expense of Bethany . . . The strong Allegheny squad will find Adrian easy.

Outside of the Pennsylvania district, the following should win: Stanford over Washington, Southern California from California, Columbia over Williams, Northwestern over Ohio State, Illinois from Michigan, Indiana over Chicago, Wisconsin over Penn, Minnesota from Iowa, N. Y. U. over Colgate, Harvard from Texas and Nebraska over Kansas . . . Army will come back to wallop Yale, the Navy should win from Princeton and Brown will beat Lehigh.

The outstanding game of the day, of course, will be the Pitt-Notre Dame battle at South Bend . . . Dr. Sutherland has a mighty fine looking first team, and, still smarting under the decisive beating received from the Irish last year, the Panther eleven promises to give Notre Dame the scare of its life . . . I expect to be on hand to see the tussle and am looking forward to a great spectacle.

LOU BROUILLARD MAY WIN TITLE TONIGHT

TONIGHT'S FIGHTS

George Pavlick vs. Jimmy Dorsey, 8 rounds, Cleveland.
Frankie Bojarski vs. Mickey Genaro, 10 rounds, and Jimmy Dean vs. Angelo Vergione, 6 rounds, Franklin, Pa.
Young Jack Thompson vs. Lou Brouillard (for world welterweight title), 15 rounds, Madison Square Garden, Boston.

By HARRY KECK
Sports Editor

This may be the last day Young Jack Thompson will reign as the world welterweight boxing champion.

Jack Thompson

It is reported Thompson is to receive $40,000 for his end and Brouillard is taking only $1,000 and the opportunity. Thompson has signed with one of Lew Leslie's stage shows, which already has two of his sisters as members of the cast.

BROUILLARD TOUGH

Brouillard is a tough customer. He has been beating everybody and knocking out many of his foes. He won a 10-round decision over Thompson recently to land the title match and must be confident of winning to accept the latter bout for such a short purse.

Thompson is a real in-and-outer. He won the title from Jackie Fields and lost it to Tommy Freeman on an atrocious decision in a bout in Cleveland and won it back when the latter quit in his corner in a return fight. Jack has a lot of boxing class and is a good puncher. On a good night he is the class of his division, but Pittsburgh fans had a look at him when off form in a bout with one Billy White at Motor Square Garden a few years ago and were not impressed.

HOCKEY AND SUCH

At this time of the year, local hockey fans are beginning to wonder just how much ice their home team will cut in the new season that gets under way next month . . . It's a cold subject, but it gets hotter as it goes along . . . Dick Harlow, coach of the Western Maryland Green Terrors, here to play the Dukes at Forbes Field tonight, is one of the best liked, as well as most capable, of gridiron mentors . . . He is the former Penn State and Colgate coach and has been a success everywhere he has been . . . Welcome to our fair city, Richard, old thing, but you know we're for the home team to beat you, if it can . . . Penn State and Syracuse played a scoreless tie last year, but the Orange is a big favorite to defeat the Nittany Lions at Syracuse tomorrow . . . The Yale-Army game last fall resulted in a 7-7 tie and their battle tomorrow also is a tossup.

Between Rounds

Jimmy Belmont and Ted Yarosz, local welterweight rivals, who meet in the windup at Motor Square Garden next Monday night, will begin to taper off their training today. Both are reported in good condition and able to make the weight of 147 pounds, give or take a pound, at 2 p. m.

Frankie Bojarski boxes Mickey Genaro at Franklin, Pa., tonight, and Frankie Wallace, who defeated Jackie Rodgers here last Monday, meets Hymie Wiseman in the 10-round semi-final in a clash between Sammy Mandell and Jackie Fields, former champions, in Chicago.

Tiger Joe West has been signed to box Primo Ubaldo at Wheeling next Monday night.

Sammy Fuller and Wesley Ramey box in Boston, November 16.

Sid Silas, the New York lightweight, and Eddie Brannon, local Negro headliner, box the semi-final at Motor Square Garden one week from next Monday, and Brannon also is matched with Mickey Duris at Johnstown, November 9, but it is if Brannon is not suspended for losing on a foul in McKeesport last night.

PURDUE ARRIVES

TARTANS SET FOR BIG TEST TOMORROW

The Purdue University grid squad, slated to battle Carnegie Tech tomorrow at the Stadium, arrived at 9 o'clock this morning for its first invasion of Western Pennsylvania. The Purdue party included Head Coach Noble Kizer and Assistant Coaches Frank Carideo and Mal Elward.

The party of 50 immediately was taken to the Pittsburgh Athletic Association headquarters for Eastern Purdue alumni holding their reunion here.

The Purdue team will be entertained tonight by the alumni at its banquet and tomorrow night will be guests at a dinner dance.

Another tough day faces Carnegie Tech's players as they prepare to meet the test. Yesterday they worked earnestly on Purdue's defense and brushed up on their own. Coach Wadsell is certain Tech will be at its best for tomorrow's battle.

The Tartan Plebes will be in action tomorrow when they go to Morgantown to engage the West Virginia Freshmen.

The usual end sections at the local stadium will be thrown open to children under 16 years of age tomorrow at a 10-cent admission fee.

BUC PILOT RACE STILL OPEN

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

William E. Benswanger, treasurer of the Pittsburgh Baseball Club, returned home today from Atlantic City where he had been for a week with Owner Barney Dreyfuss, of the Pirates, Mrs. Dreyfuss and Mrs. Benswanger.

"Sorry we have nothing to give out concerning the managerial situation," said the Pirate official. "The truth of the matter is we ourselves do not know the identity of the man who will pilot the club next year.

"Mr. Dreyfuss went to Atlantic City primarily for a rest. It was his intention to forget about baseball for two weeks, but he finds this hard to do. We stopped in Philadelphia for a few days and were besieged with queries about the manager. I think the only way the owner of the team can get away from the question would be to hire a yacht and stay out on the ocean, and even then I guess the crew would be asking him for information on the matter.

"Perhaps when he returns from Atlantic City late next week, Mr. Dreyfuss will start to work out the problem, but I can assure you that he doesn't know the new manager's name at this time. Moreover, he says he wants to take a lot of time in order to make a wise selection and he will not be rushed in the matter."

CARIDEO, HERE, BOOSTS PITT

the astonishing start made by our team had a bad effect on the Panthers. When we jumped off with that touchdown the effect doubtless was harmful; it would be to any club."

Although Carideo is courteous and obliging, he had his guard up in a moment when the subject of tomorrow's Purdue-Carnegie Tech game was brough into the conversation. He countered:

"Don't you think it would be more fitting for our head coach, Noble Kiser, to give his views of this matter? I am only the assistant coach of Purdue, and I believe any specific statements from our side should come from the man who is in charge. My own opinion is that Carnegie Tech has a good team and that tomorrow's game should provide a real fight, but, as I said, I think any authoritative statements regarding our conditions, etc., should come from the head coach."

MAGNETIC TYPE

The field general who directed the movements of Rockne's championship teams is a gripping type of the American boy. When I approached him he was coatless and "shooting pocket billiards" with one of the Purdue players at the parlor of the Pittsburgh Athletic Association, wherein the Indianians are sheltered during their stay in Pittsburgh.

Carideo apparently was deeply sincere when he eulogized the Panther club of last season, as well as Dr. Sutherland's team of this year. He was interesting, for instance, when he revealed the "inside" of the first play of the 1930 battle at the Stadium wherein Marchmount Schwartz ran 61 yards to a touchdown.

It will be recalled that before Carideo started the play, the Notre Dame eleven to all exterior intents was confused. The backs had shifted and the fans awaited the snapping of the ball when the action stopped. The backs went back to their places, and quite a few spectators loshed the invaders for the hesitation. At that time it was pointed out that the false movement might have been a part of the strategy of the Notre Dame eleven, but Carideo says this was not the case. He said:

"One of the linemen missed the signal and we called the play again."

Pitt Seeks Grid Pact With Navy

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—(AP.)—The University of Pittsburgh would like to establish football relations with the Naval Academy.

Pitt officials have enlisted the aid of Senator Reed to draw up an agreement for two games. The first would be at Pittsburgh in 1933 and the other at Annapolis the following year.

Reed transmitted the request to Secretary Adams with the notation that he himself desired to have the two teams meet.

Adams replied he would be "delighted to see what could be done."

W. & J., GENEVA MAY PLAY CHARITY TILT

POST-SEASON GAME MAY BE CARDED DEC. 5

WASHINGTON, Pa., Oct. 23.—A proposal to play a benefit post-season football game on December 5 at Beaver Falls between W. & J. and Geneva has been accepted by the Beaver Valley institution. The Presidents will be unable to give a definite decision until a meeting of the athletic council, but it is practically certain they will accept, the proceeds to be divided equally between relief organizations of the two cities. Both teams will conclude their regular seasons on November 28.

Wash-Jeff has arranged a football schedule for 1932 with six dates definitely filled, two others tentatively filled, and with several teams in line for each of two other dates if the athletic council should approve a program of 10 contests.

1932 DATES SET

The six definitely scheduled for fixed dates and places are: October 15, Carnegie Tech at Pittsburgh; October 29, Lafayette at Easton; November 5, Marquette at Milwaukee, Wis.; November 12, Bucknell at Washington; November 19, Western Reserve at Cleveland; November 26, West Virginia at Morgantown or Wheeling, the scene of the game to be determined by the reception the President - Mountaineer contest receives at Wheeling November 28 of this year.

West Virginia Wesleyan is tentatively engaged for the October 1 date for a game at Washington, and Western Maryland is provisionally booked for a contest at Baltimore October 8.

October 22 may be held open as a breathing spell, but if it is filled, leading applicants for it are St. Louis University, which wants a game at St. Louis; Georgetown, which wants a game on its home field, and Temple, for a game at Philadelphia.

REORGANIZE COUNCIL

The Washington and Jefferson College Athletic Council will reorganize Wednesday, it has been announced.

The realignment is necessitated by the recent resignation of John H. Connan, of Washington, and J. Park Alexander, of Pittsburgh.

Judge William T. Dom, of Greensburg, and W. H. Baker, of Washington, will be installed as new members to fill the vacant chairs, to which they were elected by the trustees recently.

The new council will consist of Howard W. Hughes, Frank M. Wallace, W. H. Davis, M. A. Dickie and W. H. Baker, all of Washington; Judge W. T. Dom, of Greensburg, and T. J. Sherrard, of Wellsburg, W. Va.

TO MAKE SURVEY

Following the reorganization, a number of problems will be considered, including a survey of W. and J. athletics as a whole, it is understood.

The matter of a 1932 football schedule will be considered, particularly as to the advisability of playing games away from home or at College Field. Manager W. G. Theurer has a tentative schedule laid out.

Petitions from the student body to make wrestling and boxing regular varsity sports in interschool competition will be presented.

PETRONE WINS ON FOUL

Lou Petrone, veteran Boston lightweight, was awarded a victory via the foul route last night after the first round of his scheduled 10-round main bout with Eddie Brannon, Hill district Negro, at the Palisades, McKeesport.

A hard left hook to the pit of the stomach, delivered by Brannon after the bell sounded to end the first round, sent Petrone to the canvas, and he rolled about the floor in apparent agony until Referee Red Robinson called a halt and awarded the verdict to Petrone. That Petrone took the easiest road to victory was the almost unanimous opinion of ringsiders, who believed that the New Englander could have continued.

But the blow was struck after the bell rang, and, according to the rules, was a foul and Petrone took advantage of it. Brannon weighed 139½, Petrone 137¼.

Two of the three preliminary bouts ended in knockouts, the semi-final going only a minute and a half. In this bout, Lou Saunders, local Jewish slugger, dropped Lou (Kid) Wallace, of Youngstown, with a terrific left hook to the stomach for a count of nine, followed with hard rights and lefts to the head that sent the Ohioan down for the full count. He weighed 131 against 133½ for Wallace.

Chuck Zelnack, of Glassport, disposed of Gene Campbell, of McKeesport, after one minute and 20 seconds in the second round of the opener. He floored Campbell twice for counts of eight and nine before Referee Robinson halted the uneven bout. Zelnack weighed 154½, Campbell 162.

Joey Bazzone, McKeesport Italian, won the referee's verdict over Charley Blozevich, of St. Michaels, Pa., after the judges had disagreed. Bazzone scored a clean knockdown in the fourth round. Blozevich weighed 134, Bazzone 138½.

RUTH IN EXHIBITION

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 23. (INS.)—Weather permitting, Babe Ruth, New York Yankee slugger, will appear in an exhibition baseball game here this afternoon and at Oakland tonight. Rain caused the postponement of a game scheduled here last night.

TONY HERRERA COPS

FLINT, Mich., Oct. 23.—Tony Herrera, 136½, El Paso, Tex., won a decision over Babe Herman, 136½, of San Francisco in a 10-round bout here last night. Tony's brother, Carlos Herrera, defeated Don McLeod, in a six-round preliminary.

MRS. M'BRIDE, BAILEY LEAD

By VERN SWARTSFAGER

With Mrs. Al McBride, wife of the home club professional, and her partner, Norman Bailey, leading the procession with a 98, the helping hand mixed foursome tourney at the South Park county links was resumed today. The event closes tomorrow, and entries, with a donation of clothing, may be made at the first tee prior to teeing off.

A. G. Clifford copped the Bond Club of Pittsburgh's championship at the Shannopin Country Club yesterday, having a net 72. E. M. Griswold, Jr., and Ross Rogers tied for second at net 73. Low gross honors were divided between Griswold and N. B. Ward at 85. C. A. Adams and L. M. Arthur shared the blind bogey, the lucky number being 84. S. Davidson Herron, former national amateur champion, was chairman of the event, but did not play.

Other helping hand tourney scores yesterday included the following:

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Stewart, 49-51—100; Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Carson, 51-50—101; Miss B. Wilson and Fred Seible, 51-51—102; Miss Gene Carr and George Wall, 53-53—106; Miss N. Till and George Knudder, 56-62—118; Miss Eleanor Cox and T. E. Mallent, 64-65—129; Mr. and Mrs. N. E. Till, 61-70—131; Mr. and Mrs. B. Kein, 78-71—149.

Swiftest, Easiest Way to End Bilious Spell

When you neglect those first symptoms of constipation — bad breath, coated tongue, listlessness, the whole system soon suffers. Appetite lags. Digestion slows up. You become headachy, dizzy, bilious.

It's easy to correct sluggish bowel action! Take a candy Cascaret tonight. See how quickly—and pleasantly—the bowels are activated. All the souring waste is gently propelled from the system. Regular and complete bowel action is restored.

Cascarets are made from pure cascara, a substance which doctors agree actually strengthens bowel muscles. All drug stores have Cascarets. 10c.

They're Smart! As Smart As Any Fall Clothes Fintex Ever Offered

Yet now they cost only $18.50

What and Why Is The New Fintex De Luxe Quality at $23.50

We have many customers who always paid high prices until they started wearing Fintex Clothes. To them $23.50 is a very low price and they would prefer these niceties added to their clothes rather than pay less than $23.50.

DOWN COMES THE COST of SMARTNESS

WE HAVE this message for the thousands of Fintex customers who want to know what they can expect at our new low price.

We have always tried to make Fintex a symbol of smartness, your means of being well-dressed at a low cost. We want it to mean every bit as much today. The good things we brought you in the past, still await you. The high standards we were known for are faithfully preserved. Our price alone is lower. The fall selection, now ready, is as brilliant a display of fine clothes as we've ever boasted. The woolens have never been more attractive; the patterns and weaves more handsome. Never have our models shown more advanced styles or pleasing design. And never has the needlework in our clothes shown finer craftsmanship. Fintex clothes at $18.50 bring you a quality in which you have confidence and a value that is beyond all comparison as far as men's clothing is concerned.

Fintex Offers Fall's Smartest Ideas in SUITS . . . TOPCOATS . . . OVERCOATS . . . TUXEDOS . . . at $18.50

New Low Prices on TROUSERS $1.85 $2.85 $3.85 $5 $6. Trousers for every coat. Match that odd coat.

On the air tonight and Monday night WCAE, 7:30 P. M. Fintex Smart Set Program.

SMALL ORDERS PUT UP COST OF PRODUCTS

Overhead Held Inconsistent With Business Received by Paper Company Head

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER
Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—Business is foregoing more in giving up the economies of large scale operations than it can save through wage cutting and other evidences of penury.

"Most manufacturing companies are suffering from lack of volume business and increasing small unit buying. Economies in production have been effected. But overhead is inconsistent with business received. And even with reduction in overhead expense, that condition may still prevail—leaving a decidedly smaller net profit—or a greater loss.

Mr. Rukeyser

"As to greater employment—this can be brought about only in two ways. First — through greater production and consumption of products. And second — through spreading the work over a greater number. With unskilled labor—it is a simple matter to reduce the number of hours given workmen and to divide the time among a greater number. But with skilled labor, in some industries, this plan would be impractical.

"There never was a time when co-operative efforts could be more beneficially utilized. Nor a time when less of it is shown. Association obligations are ignored. And the law of the jungle is applied.

NEAR-TERM PROSPECTS

In referring to near-term prospects, Mr. Willson explained:

"Our plan, not only for the next six months, but indefinitely, is to harmonize expense with sales. If this cannot be accomplished, losses will be shown.

"The creation of new, acceptable and salable products should be in the business plans of every manufacturer. Increasing your sales at the expense of a competitor, through price cuts, is destructive when viewed from any angle. Maintenance of a reasonable price structure, even with a loss of additional business, is a sound principle in business—but many are blind to the benefits to be derived from its application. 'Get the order at any price' now seems to be an acceptable slogan, rather than 'the recollection of quality remains long after the price is forgotten.'"

COAL CONFERENCE

Some industries, like coal, have been depressed in times of prosperity and are even more depressed in periods of adversity. Potential output is twice normal demand. Inasmuch as new inventions by scientists upset balance in the industry, Dr. Thomas S. Baker, president, Carnegie Institute of Technology, has summoned scientists into a series of conferences at Pittsburgh to see whether they can devise means of restoring an equilibrium.

The third of these international conferences will be held November 16 to 21. Dr. Baker told me that leaders of the coal industry, who have been drifting, must make up their minds on various important issues, including revision of the anti-trust laws, revision of taxes on unmined coal, and the whole question of economic planning.

Exchange Suspends Baltimore Brokers

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—(AP.)—The Baltimore investment firm of J. A. W. Iglehart and Company, described in Wall street as a "small house," was suspended today by the New York Stock and Curb Exchanges for insolvency.

The firm had developed a substantial bond business in Baltimore and neighboring cities in the 10 years since it was founded, but its stock exchange business was said in Wall street still to have been in formative stages.

In addition to offices in Baltimore and New York, the firm had offices in Clarksburg, W. Va., Wilkes-Barre, Pa., and Wilmington, Del.

Witherow Leaves Republic Steel

YOUNGSTOWN, Oct. 23.—The Republic Steel Corporation announces that W. P. Witherow has resigned as vice president to devote his time to his many private and personal interests, which have multiplied greatly in past years.

He is a director of Peoples-Pittsburgh Trust Company, First National Bank at Pittsburgh, Pittsburgh Coal Company, and vice president of the Chamber of Commerce of Pittsburgh and the Steel Products Company.

Outstanding Bank Credit Shows Gain

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—Daily average volume of Federal Reserve Bank credit outstanding during the week ended October 21, was $2,278,000,000, an increase of $242,000,000 over the previous week and $1,250,000,000 over the like 1930 week.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—The curb market's chief characteristic was dullness today. Inactivity gripped all groups and prices showed little important change from the previous close.

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—(AP.)—Following is the list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange giving all stocks and bonds traded in (00 omitted in sales column of stock list; 000 omitted in sales column of bond list):

EVENING SUN-TELEGRAPH MARKETS

Stocks Close Strong — Local Market Steady

STOCK MARKET TONE STRONG AT CLOSE

Many Issues Gain 2 to 5 Points in Final Hour; Rails and Steel Advance

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—(AP.)—The stock market pushed up strongly in the last hour today, many issues registering gains of about 2 to 5 points. Trading was extremely dull until the late flurry of buying, which boosted total sales well over a million shares. The closing tone was strong.

The distinctly hopeful attitude of steel leaders meeting at the semi-annual conference of the American Iron and Steel Institute, and the cheerful tenor of the weekly mercantile reviews, helped the market to overcome a spell of heaviness in the morning.

The advance spread out to embrace a wide front in the late trading, although rails made some of the most notable advances. United States Industrial Alcohol was a firm spot in the specialties, rising about 5 points. Shares gaining about 2 to 4 points included United States Steel, American Telephone, American Can, American Tobacco "B," Eastman, Sears, Woolworth, North American, Consolidated Gas, New York Central, Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, Santa Fe, New Haven, Baltimore and Ohio and Delaware and Hudson.

The weekly mercantile reviews spoke of further improvement in retail and wholesale trade, and maintenance of the better feeling recently evident. With the exception of coal, however, the heavier industries remain quiescent.

The suspension of a Baltimore investment house may have contributed to the morning setback in the share market, but brokers generally were not inclined to attach much importance to it, owing to the limited character of the firm's business.

The advance in copper prices that seemed indicated yesterday when custom smelters temporarily refused to sell any more metal at 7 cents, failed to materialize, and electrolytic futures in the London market, which often foreshadow price advances here, failed to turn upward.

As expected in most quarters, the Federal Reserve Bank made no further advance in its rediscount rate. The small increase in currency in circulation shown in the weekly statement, amounting to $31,000,000, against $185,000,000 two weeks ago, was accepted as further evidence that bank depositors' nervousness was subsiding.

RESERVE RATE RAISED HERE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—(AP.)—The Federal Reserve Board announced today that the Federal Reserve Bank of Cleveland had increased its rediscount rate from 3 to 3½ per cent effective tomorrow.

The Cleveland Reserve district includes Pittsburgh.

LARGER COTTON CARRYOVER

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—(INS.)—The Department of Agriculture announced today that the total carry-over of cotton on August 1 was 6,369,400 bales, as compared with 4,530,600 bales on the same date last year.

Extends Time on U. S. Line Transfer

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—The United States Shipping Board has granted the Dollar-Dawson-Chapman I. M. M. Steamship interests another extension of a week from October 25 of time for acceptance of its terms for transfer of the U. S. Line, Chairman O'Connor stated today.

Railroad Workers Accept Wage Cut

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—A large number of employes of the Gulf Mobile and Northern Railroad and its subsidiary, the New Orleans Great Northern Railroad have accepted a 10 per cent wage reduction for "as long the former road fails to show charges covered."

Straws Showing How Wind Blows; Business Facts From Many Sources; Sentiment Better

By B. C. FORBES

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.

ONE MEETS an increasing number of men who, formerly depressed, now feel and talk hopefully. Most of them base their rising sentiment on encouraging developments in their own concerns.

B. C. Forbes

Others, notably bankers, interpret recent events in the financial world as signifying that finally the worst has been experienced.

IN THE HIGHEST circles confidence is now felt that most of the nation's major problems are in a fair way to being settled reasonably satisfactorily. President Hoover's leadership—accomplished and anticipated—has heartened many influential citizens. Signs that hysteria has subsided are noted in many directions.

The Interstate Commerce Commission's dole proposal caused disappointment, but at least the Commission's report reveals that it at last senses the importance of affording the railroads greater scope to improve their weakened financial structure.

INSTEAD OF ATTEMPTING today to deal with fundamentals, perhaps a number of facts gathered by this column may be timely.

Thomas E. Wilson, the packer, tells me that a few encouraging straws in his business have lately indicated that modest betterment is in the air.

"The quality of meat consumed so far this year actually has shown a slight increase over a year ago. Price levels have been much lower."

B. G. Dahlberg, president of Celotex, tells me:

"While our total business has not yet picked up, there are a few bright spots. Our acoustical sales for the last five months are 37 per cent ahead of the previous six months, our overseas sales are up 4 per cent, and our sales to lumber dealers in the New York section this year have averaged fully 50 per cent greater than last year."

He emphasized the importance of making money more readily available for real estate purposes.

President F. G. Coburn of American Airways says:

"The average distance flown by passengers on American air lines is gradually increasing. The number of passengers is increasing notably. Whereas there were approximately half-a-million passengers on air lines last year, the 1931 total probably will approach 750,000.

"Air mail poundage has also increased and the cost of transporting mail by air is steadily being reduced. In 1925 it cost the government $11.80 per pound over the Transcontinental route; today the cost is $1.99. All travel records were broken last July."

The Scott Paper Company reports nine months' sales of $6,704,658, a gain of fully 3 per cent in dollars and of 19 per cent in tonnage over last year. This company recently increased its 1931 advertising appropriation to include an additional newspaper fall campaign.

"Our experience indicates that our sales throughout the 76 countries in which we operate are unrelated to the sale of alcoholic beverages. We prospered in pre-prohibition days in this country.

"Seven years ago Ottawa was dry and the prohibition law was repealed or amended, yet that same year our sales increased more than 25 per cent, and this increase has continued steadily.

"Elsewhere changes in regulatory legislation of alcoholic beverages have had no adverse effect in the upward trend of our sales."

Middle-west Utilities System reports a weekly gain in electricity output for last year. Harry Reid, president of National Electric Power, reports September output as fully 18 per cent over a year ago, not all of the gain attributable to important new users.

Cities Service reports a slight increase in earnings for the third successive month and expects this trend to continue. The subsidiaries of the Central and Southwest Utilities Company and the New England Power Association also are doing better business.

President Charles B. Van Dusen, of the S. S. Kresge Company, expects earnings to exceed 1930's net of $10,621,151. The company plans to open eight new stores during the next three months.

STEP BY STEP we will raise ourselves from depression's depths. That's as certain as the rising of the sun.

(Copyright, 1931, by B. C. Forbes.)

WALL STREET HEARS

That there is substantial odd lot buying of American Telephone.

JAPS TO KEEP GOLD BASIS

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Oct. 23.—Japan has no intention of changing its policy of maintaining a gold standard, Juichi Tsushima, financial commissioner of the Japanese government, said on his arrival here.

Mr. Tsushima is attached to Japanese embassies in New York, London and Paris, and now is en route to Washington where he will visit a few weeks.

Brokers' Loans Figures Smallest Since Early December, 1921

Judging by the continued and sharp reduction in brokers' borrowing, the public making up the clientele of commission houses has found little attraction in the recent recovery in the speculative market. In consequence of the latest shrinkage of $44,000,000, brokers are now borrowing only $884,000,000, the minimum for any time since early in December, 1921. This is the seventh consecutive drop shown in the weekly figures, the last increase having been reported in the week ended September 2. In the interval loans have shown a net cumulative contraction of $482,000,000, or 35 per cent.

The outstanding point in the weekly loan figures is the continuance of the shift noted several weeks in the trend of advances made for out-of-town and "other" lenders. Apparently the firmer rates now ruling for demand funds is serving to attract return of some of this money which abnormally low return offered until recently had tended to drive away from New York. New York member banks reduced their advances on security collateral by $96,000,000 to brokers and by an additional $26,000,000 to non-broker borrowings, or $122,000,000 in all. Loans for out-of town banks increased by $17,000,000 and are above the $100,000,000 mark again, while loans for "others" rose by $25,000,000.

Informed observers are of the opinion that too big a fuss is being made over the disappointing decision rendered by the Interstate Commerce Commission. One of the most interesting points in the context was the statement that the railroads were not worse off than other businesses, which undoubtedly is true. The railroads are suffering from the low volume of general trade together with every other business in the country. It is admitted that their situation is somewhat aggravated by unsympathetic government regulation and strong labor organizations, but nevertheless it is benefited by the basic and necessitous character of the service they are rendering.

That recent events have been working to bring about a restoration of confidence around the country is indicated by the sharp tapering off in demand for currency during the past fortnight. The circulation item comes in for mighty close scrutiny when the weekly bank figures appear these days, and the showing of such figures has been distinctly satisfactory. True the week's Federal Reserve statement showed an increase of $61,500,000 for the period, but contraction in other forms of money in circulation made the net increase only $21,000,000, this comparing with $42,000,000 last week and with the record increase for recent years reported a fortnight ago at $185,000,000.

The action of a number of moderate priced stocks over the last few days has been such as would tend to bear out reports current that constructive forces are deriving enough encouragement from the better turn of events to undertake the formation of new pools in various directions. These interests are reputedly satisfied that the character of news bearing on the market over the next little while will be favorable to such effort. Certainly in other directions conditions are favorable to such venture, that is so far as cost of credit, etc., is concerned. The only thing remaining to insure success, of course, is the ultimate ability of these groups to arouse public interest in their favorites.

Allied Chemical preferred and Johns Manville preferred have recently come down to levels below their callable prices. Both issues are callable at 120 and are entitled to $72 a share cumulative dividends. Allied Chemical preferred has been selling to yield practically 6 per cent, and even in the current year of poorer income the requirements on the stock will be earned six or seven times. Johns Manville has been obtainable to yield about 6½ per cent and, while share earnings on the common this year may be only around $1.25, there will still be something like $20 a share applicable to the preferred.

Problems to Be Studied by Investment Bankers

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

ASSURANCE THAT THE INVESTMENT Bankers Association will not dodge difficult problems when they meet for their annual convention at White Sulphur Springs from November 7 to 11 has been given by Alden H. Little, chairman of the convention committee and former president of the organization.

In outlining the work of the convention Mr. Little said:

"The work of the convention this year will point with emphatic, practical directness to our most difficult problems, among them foreign securities, the real estate situation, the secondary market and the vital importance of adequate protection for fundamental investment values."

The past year has been little short of disastrous for the investment security business. Some of the present difficulties can be laid at the door of unwise financing undertaken in the year preceding the collapse of the stock market. A great share of them are not due to mistakes within the business itself but are due to external happenings.

Bond Prices Low

EXISTING LOW PRICES for some bond issues reflect actual trouble in the organizations and properties behind the securities, but in the great majority of cases depressed quotations for bonds are entirely unjustified. The slump in the bond market, however, has brought new financing virtually to a standstill and has presented financial houses with an unprecedented series of problems.

Real estate bonds offer the outstanding difficulties. The number of defaults has been alarmingly high and the frozen state of the real estate market threatens to make rehabilitation of securities in this field a slow process. In Chicago, outstanding results have been secured in protecting principal and income for investors. The steps taken in that city will provide interesting material for the convention.

The market record of foreign bonds has been exceptionally discouraging. This is in spite of the fact the European countries have kept their records for meeting obligations clean. Results have not been equally good in South America. It appears, however, that most foreign bonds have been suffering more from a high degree of fright than from careful consideration of actual conditions.

Problems Faced

AT ITS CONVENTIONS in the past, the Investment Bankers Association has faced its problems squarely. The committees have not been hesitant about protesting against business practices which are not for the best interests of the investment public. This tendency has made the remarks of committee chairmen well worth considering.

It may be recalled that three speakers at the convention in Quebec early in October, 1929, predicted a break in stock prices. That their predictions were justified before the month ended is only too well known.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—The bond market advanced moderately and irregularly today as trading in most groups was quiet.

Foreign loans experienced a heavier turnover than other groups.

Dullness in Liberty and United States Treasury loans contrasted with the strength in the foreign group. The advance extended to the American government issues, however.

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—(AP)—Transactions in the most active bonds on the New York Stock Exchange today were as follows, odd omitted in sales column. (United States bonds in dollars and thirty-seconds of dollars.)

THE LOVE TRAP -:- Story of a Girl's Struggle For Love and Happiness -:- By ROBERT TERRY SHANNON

CHAPTER II.

Back home alone in her tiny rented room, Mary was still conscious of the impact of a powerful personality. It had been almost like a collision to meet such a man as Buck Landers. She thought of her brother-in-law, her father, the boys who had taken her to movies and parties back in the Brooklyn days before her mother died. She felt kindly toward them all, but there was no denying they were all vibrating feebly on a futile plane of existence. They looked at the show of life from the back row of the gallery. They fed on scraps from the banquet table. The vital element of power was not in their blood. Worse, they had no understanding of the crude word that surrounded them, no aspiration to wrest what they wanted from Life.

Cowards content with the meager security of Saturday night's pay envelope.

Just to meet a man like Buck Landers and talk with him had opened up a whole new era in her thinking. It was not his money alone that impressed her. Some inexplicable quality of hard, cold bravery about him commanded a respect she had never before given to any man. He was ruthless, she imagined, in going after what he wanted—and dangerous, too.

She was sure he was a dangerous man. It might be dangerous for a girl to see too much of him. But, strangely, the realization did not make her put him out of her mind. It was funny how she kept thinking about him—he was an old man. Not old exactly, but beginning to be elderly.

CALLS ON LANDERS

The constant warning of her mother against impoverished marriage came stealing back into her mind, coloring her meditation. "Better be an old man's darling that a young man's slave." It was a proverb or something, and it sounded pretty cold-blooded, too.

There was a dim foreshadowing of an exciting prosperity when she thought about Buck Landers. There would be no harm in taking advantage of a lucky break. He had promised to get her a job—better than anything she would be likely to pick up unaided. It would be silly to turn back an opportunity.

"I am going to call him up," she said with vigorous decision.

Once she had made up her mind, all hesitation vanished. After all, it was the practical thing to do. A girl had to look out for herself.

When she telephoned him, two days later at the Metropolis Hotel, his answering voice had a cold precision. . .

"Yes, certainly I remember you. Come down and we'll talk it over. . ."

At the mention of his name the saturnine countenance of the clerk softened into an excess of politeness. He personally communicated into a small telephone behind the counter.

"Mr. Landers says for you to come right up," he announced.

LUXURIOUS SUITE

It was one of the small, new hotels in the Forties that have sprung up in recent years. The lobby was overdecorated with Corinthian columns and gilded plaster designs. As Mary stood waiting for the elevator, a man and a girl, theatrical in attire and manner, passed her. In deep, upholstered chairs two grim-faced men with black brows were conversing with scarcely a movement of their lips. The elevator, operated by a West Indian Negro in a resplendent uniform, carried her rapidly up 12 stories. Mary stepped out of the lift and saw, at the end of the short corridor, an open door. As she hesitated a moment, Landers appeared and nodded to her. The room, when she entered it, proved to be the parlor of a suite which was rather extensive. Through a side door she observed the rich furnishings of a small dining room.

Buck Landers smiled with slight pleasantness. It was evident that he was not to go into any paroxysm of delight at her appearance. His eyes, though, like steady gimlets, were observing her closely as she came toward him.

What he saw was a delicately made young girl no taller than his shoulders. She was a slender little thing with hints of golden hair showing under her small light hat; her smooth-lidded eyes, deeply blue, were a trifle shy. She came up to him; there was a faint sinuousness in the carriage of her body, a fresh girlishness in the movement of her arms and shoulders. Landers took her small cool hand for a brief moment and indicated a luxurious chair.

"Well, it was an even-money bet whether I ever saw you again or not," he announced. His face was flat and stony, yet it had a ruggedness, too.

"And how are you betting?" Mary smiled.

"I always bet to win," he said quietly. "I was betting you'd come."

JOB SECURED

He was lighting a cigar; it was characteristic of him that he was usually smoking; long, thin cigars with opulent fragrance.

"I thought I'd take you up on your offer to find me a position," said Mary, veering quickly from his last remark. "If you happen to know a decent job, I'm in the market for one. Of course, I could possibly find a place without any trouble by myself, but sometimes a word from a man in your position goes a long ways. And as long as you were kind enough to suggest it—"

"Don't apologize—I've already got the job for you!" Landers cut in. His half-smile was protective and agreeable.

Landers put her at ease by dropping into a chair on the other side of the room.

"The manager of this hotel needs a secretary," he said, directly. "The girl he had quit to get married. You can have the job if you want it. I happen to be one of the stockholders in the ownership of this place, and I told Nelson that I might have a girl to put in the job. Nelson's the manager, and you won't have any trouble with him, no personal trouble—know what I mean?"

Mary knew precisely what he meant. She nodded. "That'll make it nice," she said briefly.

"It is mostly routine work in the manager's private office," Landers went on. "If you have half as much brains as I think you have, you can make yourself indispensible. You don't have to break your neck working overtime, either. Nelson tells me he started the last girl at fifty dollars a week, and she was getting sixty-five when she quit. How does that strike you?"

"That's more money than I've ever earned before," she said frankly.

FRIENDLY WITH HER

His eyes studied her enigmatically and she had no idea what he was thinking about. Perhaps his mind was on business affairs of his own—she might be no more than an empty name to him.

"When you leave you can step in at Nelson's office on the second floor," he informed her. "You and he arrange the details of your job with him."

She started to rise and thank him, but he motioned her back into her chair.

"We've got the business end over with, and now let's be a little sociable," he said looking at her with a shade of warmth. "You don't owe me anything, and I don't owe you anything."

"But I do owe you a lot for getting me a position like this," Mary declared.

"No, that is nothing," he told her gravely. "I haven't done anything at all for you yet. I could be the best friend you ever heard of, if it works out that way. Yes, sir, I don't know when I've seen a girl that strikes me just in the same way you do. You're all alone in the world, aren't you?"

Mary's heart warmed to his friendliness but a little inner voice of sophistication murmured a warning. She didn't want to give him any false ideas and spoil everything. It would be nice, though, to have his friendship and repay him, if the occasion arose, with a bit of loyalty. Already she sensed him as a protective force, and there was the beginning of a faint youthful idealism.

"Yes, I'm alone—that is, I live alone, but I have a married sister in Brooklyn," she told him. "I'm afraid Mr. Landers that you wouldn't like me very much as a friend."

"Why not?" he demanded.

DINES WITH LANDERS

"Well, you mentioned something about beautiful women in New York the other day, and your lovely fireworks girl friend who wanted to stick a knife into you—I'm not that kind. That stuff doesn't appeal to me in the slightest—if you know what I mean."

She was aware of an increasing magnetism deepening in his eyes.

"I know you're not that kind," he said levelly. "That's why I like you. But don't shy off from me too quickly; we're all humans, you know. Don't make the mistake of feeling that you're too holy for this earth. Take it easy and we'll see how things work out."

Mary rose, smiled lightly, and said: "We'll let it go at that."

Landers rose and looked at his watch. "That's fair enough. Possibly you don't know it, but you're having dinner with me tonight. Will you meet me here at the hotel or shall I call for you at the house?"

Her eyes widened with surprise and she knew that it was going to be difficult to say no.

Dinner that night with Buck Landers on the roof of the gigantic Mortgenhoff. . . A bright canopy of brilliant summer stars overhead . . . Mary's small slippers on the softest of carpets under the table . . . She sat in her upholstered dining chair with the small dining table and its stiff white linen separating her from Landers. Flawless silver and the subdued gleam of discreet china spread immaculately before them enhanced the unfamiliar sauce-taste of strange foods. The head waiter hovered solicitously and called Mr. Landers by name; himself wrote down the orders.

PLEASING ATMOSPHERE

Miraculously, there had been created here an illusion of an outdoor garden; the man-made twilight hung softly over flowering shrubs, a pool rippled with small musical swishes of water and reflected vaguely the shadows of cunningly located bushes edging the pool. The border of trumpet-shaped white flower emanated a faint sweetness. Hidden somewhere, the stringed orchestra murmured a gently throbbing melody.

An excited little stir of pleasure kept on tingling through Mary's veins. It was all so leisurely, so unhurried and she luxuriated like a kitten in the repose of it all.

"This is so charming," she said. "It doesn't seem like New York at all."

It appeared there was a wide space for dancing, too, in this flowery place and Mary's eyes fell to following a smart-looking young couple who were dancing in lazy relaxation to a loitering melody. The girl was a slim, boyish creature with shingled hair and tanned face and arms; her partner was tall and slim, sunburned, with wiry muscles, yet almost insolently languid. His features were regular and his head handsomely shaped.

"You'd like to be dancing with that good-looking chap instead of sitting here with me, I reckon," Buck Landers said, divining the object of her gaze. "But I can show you a better time in the end."

"What made you say a thing like that?" Mary asked him quickly.

IMPERSONAL JEALOUSY

She was interested in the coldly antagonistic stare that Landers leveled at the young man. In it was something of impersonal jealousy.

"That lad was born to the purple—and the girl, too," Landers said. "They've both been in the big money from the beginning. You can tell that by looking at them. He'd probably be glad to play around with a working girl like you on the quiet, but his own tribe would freeze you to death. You'd always be an outsider with that gang. And that's not saying anything against you, Mary, either."

What could it possibly matter to her if a rich young man's friends were snobbish? But she was clever enough to see the implication of Buck Landers. He was building himself up, not subtly.

She began to notice other diners. A middle-aged couple, both complacently enjoying their surroundings and each other. People from out of town, probably. Somehow they lacked the New York look. And, at another table, a paunchy man with a youngish woman in cerise chiffon. A ring on the girl's left hand indicated marriage. Looked like a case of an old man's darling . . .

"I can read your thoughts like an open book," Landers said unexpectedly. "You want me to tell you what you're thinking?"

"I'm not thinking anything at all—I'm just enjoying myself," she returned with a smile, humor in her blue eyes.

MIND READING

"You're enjoying yourself and feeling mighty secure behind that stone wall you've thrown up around yourself," he declared. "You're thinking that I ought to be held in check, and you're perfectly sure that you can do it. You have a hunch that I like you a lot, but you've made up your mind that I'm not going to get to first base. How about it—have I lined things up right?"

"Maybe yes, maybe no." Her voice was steady, yet her cheeks felt feverish of a sudden.

"I know how to deal with men, but women, generally, have me up a tree," he went on. "Men usually obey my wishes for what they can get out of me—in a business way. That part's O. K. Maybe it's the same way with woman, but I'm wondering if it wouldn't be possible for you to like me a little bit—just for myself."

She drew a long breath and steeled herself to stop him before he got fairly started. It would be easier now than later.

"I know perfectly well what you're driving at, Mr. Landers. I'll tell you frankly how I feel about you. I think you are awfully nice and awfully interesting, but let's not try to be too friendly. I don't feel that way towards you and we'd both be wasting our time."

She smiled at him with the kindest possible eyes. "Now are you mad at me?"

"I've been up against tough propositions before," he remarked, with a slow smile.

"As long as it is just plain friendship, I think it would be a lot of fun," Mary elaborated. "Of course, you haven't suggested anything more, but I can read minds, too, Mr. Landers. It wouldn't be long, unless we had an understanding, before there'd possibly be a question of—well, affection. That's the part I want to dodge."

He smiled at her.

"Well, little lady, you certainly come out in the middle of the ring and start slugging at the tap of the bell. You almost scored a knockout in the first round. Yes, sir, you almost stopped me dead in my tracks. I'd take you at your word and agree to let it stay a case of friendship, except for one thing. Shall I tell you?"

SUGGESTS MARRIAGE

"Yes."

"Plain friendship with you isn't going to satisfy me. You've been frank and honest with me, so I'm going to return the compliment. I think you're great. I think you're the greatest girl I've ever met in my life and I've met a lot of 'em. You've got everything—looks, sense, and and you're square. I'm through playing the field. That's my personal angle. There's a slant to all this concerning you that I don't believe you've thoroughly realized. Do you know what I could do for you?"

"But I don't want you to do anything for me, more than you've done already," Mary said almost imploringly.

"I could put you in right so strong that all your trouble would be over forever," he told her solidly. "There's nothing in New York you couldn't have, because I'm able to get it for you. I'm a straight shooter. It's never been my policy to lie or stall in my life, and what I tell you you can depend on it. If you can take a liking to me, I'm willing to play absolutely fair with you. All other women are out. All you have to do is say the word. You're fixed for life."

Mary's blood began to run with a chill current and her hands, suddenly, were icy cold.

"Do you mean you want to marry me?"

His eyes were stone steady. "No, that wasn't what I meant," he said. "But it might not be a bad idea, at that. Maybe I would be better off married. I'm going to think it over . . ."

Mary did not answer him, but she told herself, "I could never love him. If I was sure I'd never love anybody else, I'd consider it. There's something honest about him, even if he is darned insulting . . ."

Peverel St. Swack.

On hands and knees Freemantle Gadwall crept down the dark rocky mine tunnel, his lunch-pail in his mouth. Gadwall was working his way through college. Rounding a bend, he came upon Peverel St. Swack holding a stick of dynamite and trying to scratch a match on his trousers. "What are you doing, fiend?" sternly asked Freemantle. An ugly light crept into St. Swack's bloodshot eyes. "Just fooling around," he murmured, a sly smile on his swarthy face. "You've hated me ever since I won the Inter-Collegiate Place-Kick Contest, haven't you, St. Swack?" Gadwall said between his teeth. His rival made no reply but, lighting the dynamite, he set off on all fours, Freemantle after him at a stiff canter. As they raced through the mazes of the dark mine, there came a roar and Gadwall felt himself falling, falling . . . .

Magistrates' Authority

It Is High Time Police Court Judges Were Given Some Instruction.

Prompted by the reprimand given Magistrate J. J. O'Connor by Judge Frank P. Patterson for exceeding his authority, Mayor Kline has promised to take the matter up with all the magistrates as soon as possible.

It is high time.

The magistrates are appointed by the Mayor, and he is responsible for the manner in which they conduct the police courts.

Kline, as a former judge of Common Pleas Court, knows the limitations of the magistrates' authority.

Yet he has been until now singularly indifferent to the misfeasance of which all or nearly all of these petty judges have been guilty.

The offense which drew Judge Patterson's reprimand—the assumption of jurisdiction by a magistrate in a case which under the law should have been referred to the grand jury—is no new thing. Scarcely a day has gone by in recent years in which such usurpation of power has not occurred.

The blame rests largely on Kline.

He has been culpable in the first place for appointing as magistrates men without learning or experience in the law. The salaries paid are such that no difficulty would be had in getting good lawyers to take the positions.

The outcome of his proposed conference with the magistrates will be awaited with interest.

No Cut in School Tax

The Taxpayers Are Willing to Pay All That Is Necessary To Maintain a High Standard.

The school budget for 1932 totals $15,649,153. This is a little more than the outlay for 1931, and while it may be pared down somewhat there is little or no likelihood of a cut in the school tax.

This may be disappointing to some of the taxpayers, but the majority will not complain of the burden provided it is necessary to maintain the present high standard of our educational system.

They will be disposed, moreover, to accept without question the word of the Board of Public Education that it IS necessary.

The board is free from corrupt political influence and the people have confidence in the judgment and integrity of its members.

There is no suspicion of payroll padding or unwarranted extravagance in the schools, and it is recognized that new schools must be built to provide for increase and shift of population. The board expects to spend $4,872,087 next year for new school buildings and improvements to old buildings.

Constant building is required to maintain the ideal standard of a full-time seat for every pupil. The expenditures necessary for this purpose cannot be avoided.

Hard times, in short, must not be allowed to interfere with education. The people will scrimp and save if necessary rather than deny their children the advantages of first-class schools and teachers.

Soulful Corporations

During the muckraking days in the early part of the century we used to hear a good deal about "soulless corporations."

The idea was prevalent that the big industrial companies were concerned exclusively with making money and had no interest in human welfare.

Much water has gone under the bridge since then.

Frank R. Phillips, chairman of the Welfare and Emergency Fund campaign, reports that a number of companies, by vote of their boards of directors, have increased their subscriptions.

Whatever may have been the case in other times they can no longer be accused of being "soulless." Rather are they "soulful."

Lectures on Pictures

Carnegie Institute Talks Furnish Opportunity to Learn Artists' Views.

Most persons who visit the international exhibition of paintings at Carnegie Institute wonder at the prize awards. To the average layman the winning pictures are inferior in beauty, interest and craftsmanship to many of the others.

It is evident that the artists composing the jury have different standards of judgment from those of the laity.

It should be of interest to multitudes to know what the artists' standards are. By learning them it may be possible for laymen to enjoy and appreciate pictures which are now downright repugnant to them.

The series of free lectures on the exhibit by the country's foremost critics, which started last night with Homer Saint Gaudens' talk and will continue until November 23, will be found worth while, because they will furnish an answer to some of the questions the public is asking.

The Medical Center

Pittsburgh's Facilities for Treatment of the Sick Are Steadily Being Improved.

Another step has been taken in the creation of the new Medical Center in Oakland by the issuance of a permit for the erection of a $1,500,000 building to be occupied by the Presbyterian and Eye and Ear Hospitals.

It will stand near the Children's Hospital, the Falk Clinic and the University of Pittsburgh Medical School.

If present plans materialize the state will erect a psychiatric hospital in the same neighborhood.

Concentration of these hospitals and clinics in the Oakland district will not only be economical, but will improve the city's facilities for treatment of the sick.

The Medical Center when completed will be a collection of affiliated humanitarian institutions to which Pittsburghers will "point with pride."

Hours of labor have decreased from 14 hours a day at the beginning of the nineteenth century to eight hours a day at the beginning of the twentieth century.

It is time for another reduction in hours. Labor-saving machinery makes a reduction of hours possible, and, in fact, necessary.

There must be co-operation on the part of the working people to make the six-hour day possible in this period of depression. Unnecessary restriction on production must be removed. Hampering, harassing union rules must be modified.

We Women

* * *

A sensitive soul is a terrible handicap to a modern woman; what a girl needs most in a love-affair, these days, is a sense of humor.

Nobody is so bitterly certain that there is no romance left in the world, today, as the elderly Lothario or the ex-charmer, who is no longer young enough to inspire it.

* * *

Many a woman's idea of brightening up the home is to turn on the radio before you brush your teeth in the morning, and keep it going, until you are ready to put your hair in wavers at night.

* * *

A bachelor has to have an inspiration or a really vital reason for making love to any woman, these days—but a married man needs only an opportunity.

* * *

All that a successful modern woman requires of a husband is that he will serve as an effective background in public and act like something human and alive around the house. But you'd be surprised to discover how difficult it is to find one like that.

Almost any woman looks dangerously beautiful to a man, when seen through the bottom of the third cocktail-glass.

Don't imagine that a man is in love with you, merely because he likes to talk to you about his success; wait until he begins to tell you about his troubles.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

Triumph

Triumph is not the share alone
Of him who wins acclaim,
For though through victory some are known,
Some conquests bring no fame.

For them no boastful bugles blow,
No banners float unfurled.

They pass unnoted in the crowd
Upon their way, serene;
Unheralded are they, but proud
Amid each shifting scene.

Some triumphs must be bought with tears
And blood and agony,
While others, sought through lagging years,
Are gained where none may see.

Conquest may sometimes mean control
Of sea and continent;
Or it may spell the mastered soul
Vague realms, inguessed extent.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—Thoughts while strolling: What became of the Algonquin Round Table? Gene Buck and Harry Silvey look alike. So do Smedley Butler and Jimmy Durant. Poor Ralph Barton's apartment house. He knows what it's all about now!

Isador Baline, a Riga, Russia, boy, who made good in the city. You know him as Irving Berlin. Of all street lights, those blue white ones in front of the Murray Hill Hotel are my favorite. Wonder if anyone else serves lemon meringue pie as tall as Dinty Moore's.

Never a showgirl so statuesque and graceful as Dolores. She's around Paris now, happily married, gray-haired and still an eyeful. Wish Commissioner Mulrooney would quit calling it "lawr." Joe Laurie, Jr., back from trouping. He's fattening up, too.

Beaded pajamas. And ain't that sumpin'? Five empty buildings in the upper avenue shopping zone. Yet it was such in other panics. And filled up over night. Maury Paul always looks as though he had just popped out of a bath.

They say the wise ones are buying defaulted bonds when they touch 20. Al St. John. The jagged white skyline on Central Park South. Like a creamed explosion of the ocean. And that greenish phosphorous twirl of the Plaza roof. Coquetting ladies moving toward Broadway.

Chauncey Olcott steps lively although past 70. Whatever became of Orville Harrold? Almost zippy enough for a steaming bowl of chili. The kind that pops you out in a sweat. And keeps you swigging water the rest of the night. George Cohan's tan uppers. May Christie, who chatters engagingly about society.

Jim Carroll, Earl's red-headed brother. The Ritz bar in Paris named a potent libation for him—brandy, creme de menthe and pernod. Frapped and more powerful than a stinger. People still dress up to go places. Like you and I used to do. When cotton was high!

* * *

Stage crews are a race of workmen apart. Between acts they drift out of stage doors to sidewalks in shirt sleeves for a few drags from cigarets, knotting in small groups. They must be huskies to do the scene shifting required and there is about them a tight lipped camaraderie that blusters in rough and tumble skylarking. They are dogged in their loyalty to those they like, but dangerous to those they dislike. A stage dance director is still living today by what some regard as a miracle. He had long aroused the ire of a stage crew. In the wings one night a heavy pig iron bar dropped from the flies. It came so near it swished the brim of his straw hat.

* * *

Word from Paris to New York dressmakers may cheer holders of silk bonds and stocks. Stiff silks predominate in feminine dress this winter—silks that swish as in the old bustle days. Reversely, the silver fox as adornment is on its way out. Over-production did the trick here. And flat furs will be the cat's. Furs such as astrakhan caracul, galyk and shaved lamb.

* * *

From the sidelines it always struck me that only certain ladies wear furs becomingly. I think, par example, somehow of Julia Hoyt, Grace Morse Nolan, Jessie Hays, Helen Mencken, Maxine Elliott and Peggy Joyce. All, it may be pointed out, are tall and in most instances slim. An exception to the Venus type who looks extraordinarily smart in furs is the slightly Junoesque Irene Bordoni.

* * *

To my notion plumpness is far more attractive, however, than the scrawniness of the times—especially that gaunt picked chicken look of the rigid diet. Perhaps it is because I came out of that pulse pounding era that produced such plumply pulchritudinous ladies as Lillian Russell, Della Fox, Trixie Friganza, Marie Cahill, Eva Tanguay and several others I once loved devotedly. And still do.

* * *

"Some of these days," writes Angelina S., "I'm going to sneak up and read a flattering poem I wrote about columnists and their clever work—the cleverest thing that is being turned out these days."

Try to catch me in a crowd so I can dig my toe in the carpet and look modest.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

Feeling low?

Want a laugh?

Heard about depression—

But you don't know the half!

And not merely Harry's. Many another aggrieved and indignant gent is echoing Harry's lament. For this is what the unemployment situation is handing plenty of papas in the year 1931—AND MAYBE IT MIGHT DO WORSE! Perhaps, after this, they won't be so sure that the Dear Little Woman has the softest snap on earth.

Is it a really truly letter? Yes, sir, it is. And now that's settled—dial in.

"Dear Miss Robinson:

"Perhaps I should be ashamed to send a columnist a letter like this, but it seems to me a lot more important than some of the stuff the papers print. At any rate, maybe you can give me a tip on how to get out of the pickle I'm in.

"Two years ago I was a happy man with a good job, a wife and baby and a nice little home. Now I don't know what I am!

"A year and a half ago I was laid off. My place was taken by a girl at a lower salary. For a while we lived on my savings. Then, a year ago, my wife got a job at good pay. Now she is a clever girl and I am crazy about her, but this job of hers has certainly put me in a bad spot . . . FOR SHE SAYS THAT IF SHE EARNS OUR LIVING, IT IS UP TO ME TO DO ALL THE HOUSEWORK AND TAKE CARE OF THE BABY!

"At first I did it as a joke, thinking it would be only a month or so until I could get another job. I even got a kick out of learning to be a good cook. But now it has gone way beyond a joke. I'm doing all the housework, the cooking, dish washing, and even most of the laundry and I am tired of it.

"WHEN MY WIFE GETS HOME AT NIGHT, SHE CLAIMS SHE IS TOO TIRED TO DO ANYTHING AROUND THE HOUSE. SHE IS TIRED, I KNOW, BUT SHE EVEN INSISTS THAT I WASH AND IRON HER CLOTHES FOR HER. SHE KICKS IF SUPPER ISN'T READY WHEN SHE GETS IN OR IF IT ISN'T JUST WHAT SHE WANTS.

"ALSO SHE KEEPS THE PAY ENVELOPE AND I NEVER SEE ANY CASH!

"She buys my cigarets and does the marketing on her way home. She takes me to a movie sometimes and buys me a soda, but I never have a cent of cash. She buys things for the kid, but she never buys me any clothes. I have actually had to learn to mend, but even my mended clothes have worn out. I'm even wearing some old shoes of hers—we've about of a size. When I complain, she says that such old things "are plenty good enough to wear around the house."

"Miss Robinson, I can't tell you how I'm sunk. Can you imagine what it means to a man to have to endure this?

"HARRY WILSON."

Can I imagine? An' h-o-ow, brother! And so can many millions of other ladies. For we've all been through it, too.

We didn't have any cash, either. We had to stand a rumpus if dinner wasn't Right On Time . . . or if we had hash instead of New York Cut—

And we, like you, were told that hand-me-downs were "good enough around the house."

Why is the Modern Woman so ornery? Why is she always yelling about her Rights?

That's why, Harry.

Keep the Home Fires Burning

By Claude G. Bowers

The administration leaders in Washington—Mr. Hoover, Stimson, Mellon and Mills—are standing on the shore peering anxiously across the sea and finding much in the misery over there to arouse their sympathy. If they could only be persuaded to turn around for a survey of the wreckage between the Atlantic and Pacific they would find enough to occupy their attention here. It does seem silly for us to worry over the unemployment in England when we have millions more on the streets of our own cities, and, in proportion to the population, a greater unemployment problem at home. Lloyd George's speech, submitting some ugly facts on conditions here, was not permitted to come to the American people over the radio, as announced. We cannot permit a foreign statesman to interfere with the Pollyanna attitude of our government toward human misery at home.

Wood Committee Gone Without Funeral

When history comes to record the attitude of the administration toward unemployment it will have much more to say on the things it is against than on those it proposes. It has done nothing more than appoint a committee merely to urge local communities and state and municipal governments to do what the federal government will not do. The Wood committee just petered out without a ceremonious funeral, and the Gifford committee will probably follow in its wake.

But the administration is against a prosperity loan—which would take men from breadlines and start business going.

And it makes a virtue, which it calls "American" virtue, of being opposed to giving a penny from the Treasury to prevent starvation.

However, Congress will pass on these matters this winter, and the American Federation of Labor, appreciating what local committees and government have done, but knowing that they have their limitations, will ask Congress for an appropriation to "assist local communities throughout the nation."

The President is convinced that the misery and starvation of individuals is not a matter for the government to concern itself about; we think it is. For otherwise the victims of that theory are certain, sooner or later, to concern themselves about the government.

Labor Insurance Foe Heads Hearings

The administration is opposed to the government taking any action of any kind on unemployment insurance. In Washington the Senate committee, named by the resolution of Senator Wagner to investigate such insurance, has begun its hearings. Senator Wagner, who introduced the resolution, is not chairman, as he ordinarily would be, because administration influence arranged for the substitution of Senator Metcalfe, who has no sympathy with the idea.

There is nothing startling or new in such insurance. Other countries have it. In most of them the employers and the employes pay a certain amount into the fund and the government pays a part.

But Italy has unemployment insurance into which the government does not pay. It is working perfectly. The industrialists and their employes have financed the system, and this is what many industrial leaders, including George Swope, want here.

But Italy would not have that kind of unemployment insurance if the government had not acted. A decree or law put it in operation. Italy knew that it had to have such insurance, and it did not make it optional with industries to enter or stay out. Government put the industries in. The administration is against even that.

Opposes Federal Employment Agency

And the adminstration is against the Wagner plan for a federal employment agency, to work in co-operation with those of states in bringing men and jobs together. There was nothing revolutionary about the idea. It was worked out with economists and social workers who know their business. It had practically the unanimous support of the press. It passed both branches of Congress with no opposition.

But the President held it until Congress had adjourned and then threw it in the waste basket. It would have been much better to have followed the "American way" of sending in a courageous veto and letting Congress sustain or overthrow the veto.

We hope that when Congress meets it will speedily pass again; and if again vetoed will be passed over the veto.

Administration Fights for Tariff

And the administration is against scaling down the tariff walls that have shut us off from foreign trade and reduced thereby the number of employed, and driven industries into other countries to be operated with foreign labor.

Businessmen know the tariff must come down; and say so.

When Julius Barnes, a businessman, declared that the tariff must come down, he hastened to explain, some days later, that he meant through the operations of the flexibility clause of the tariff and the tariff board.

Now we have it from Washington that "some officials here are urging that the Tariff Commission shut up shop until business has improved." But Mr. Barnes wanted the tariff revised downward SO THAT BUSINESS WOULD IMPROVE.

Abolition of Farm Board Demanded

And the President's "constructive" plan for the relief of the farmers is such a dreary failure that the business leaders of the nation, according to Bradstreet's opinion, are demanding that the Farm Board be abolished.

A procession of the discredited and bankrupt policies of the administration of the last three years would resemble a parade of Coxey's army—badly soiled and a bit odorous.

Under any other governmental scheme than ours the administration would have gone out on a vote of no confidence long ago. In England they can speedily put a period to a regime incapable of grappling with a critical situation. Winston Churchill, discussing the political crisis there, says:

"The essence of the British Constitution is that the will and power of the nation can be applied directly to its affairs and that everything else must give way to that. Ending this Parliament is like lancing a quinsy. It involves a sharp knife and a cruel nag; but the operation, once over, if successful, will give instantaneous relief."

But under our system we must put up with what we have for one more year. In the midst of the present crisis this is unfortunate, to put it mildly. For the nation is without the leadership the times require. That leadership must come from Congress this winter. Even Pollyanna has despaired of finding it in the administration.

SCIENCE'S GOAL

By Archibald Henderson

Science and religion are often set in contrast, sometimes shown in conflict. Certain it is that methods are diametrically opposite to each other, in the sense of being radically different. In religion, a man may purify himself by fasting, prayer and contemplation. He may isolate himself from the world and even from Nature, and endeavor to eliminate everything extraneous in the effort to identify himself with the Divine Spirit, the Universal Mind.

Not so the scientist. He must remain in contact with the world, whether of Nature or of abstract symbols which represent aspects of Nature. Scientific truth can only be arrived at by the most patient observation and diligent inquiry. As Faraday once expressed it: The philosopher should be a man willing to listen to every suggestion, but determined to judge for himself. He should not be biased by appearances; have no favorite hypothesis; be of no school; and in doctrine have no master. He should not be a respecter of persons, but of things. Truth should be his primary object. If to these qualities he added industry, he may indeed hope to walk within the veil of the temple of Nature.

The great scientist is always imbued by a consciousness of the nobility, even of the holiness of scientific work. He must put it above everything else and be prepared to make for it the greatest of sacrifices. "Were it not for the support of some such faith as this—for the scientific faith in this sense is closely akin to religious faith—the scientist would often fall by the wayside, beaten by difficulties and discouraged by apparently insurmountable obstacles. The following public confession of his scientific aims was once made by Thomas Henry Huxley: If I may speak of the objects I have had more or less definitely in view, they are briefly these: To promote the increase of natural knowledge and to forward the application of scientific methods to all the problems of life, to the best of my ability, in the conviction, which has grown up with my growth, and strengthened with my strength, that there is no alleviation of the sufferings of mankind except veracity of thought and action, and the resolute facing of the world as it is when the garment of make-believe with which pious hands have hidden its uglier features has been stripped off.

One need not be a towering genius to accomplish important things in science. Not a few scientists have been men of limited culture, knowing no language but their own, unacquainted with literature, art and philosophy. But they have possessed those features which Darwin said he owed his success as a man of science: the love of science, unbounded patience in long reflecting over any subject, industry in observing and collecting facts, and a fair share of invention as well as of common sense. To the true scientist Nature and its contemplation afford a sort of pure rapture, akin to religious feeling. The scientist is always supported by the belief that in widening the area of knowledge, he is contributing to the glory and welfare of mankind.
